Seek Three in Weird Murder Of Gangster in South Dakota

Body Blown to Bits as High Explosive Is Set Off

WOMAN IN ESCAPE

Shot Eight Times but Creeps Away Be- fore Blast

Sioux Falls, S. D.—(P)—A weird tale of a gangland execution by high explosive sent police on an intensive manhunt today for three former convicts who they said were one member of their gang to death and attempted to kill his woman companion to prevent them from "squawking."

Helen Seiler, 23, Sioux City, suffering from eight bullet wounds, fled from the scene of the killing and fled after shooting her woman companion to prevent them from "squawking."

Baker, she told Crill, was beaten and shot, then left in an explosive which exploded here while she was being broken by the resulting explosion which was felt for 50 miles, and threatened panmopmentarily to thousands of Year's revelers.

Crawled into ditch her legs and feet frozen, Miss Crill said she had been killed to die with Baker in the ditch, but that she recovered consciousness before the explosion occurred. She managed to crawl into a roadside ditch just before the blast. Passing motorists brought her to a hospital here. Although her condition was said to be critical, physicians said she had a chance to recover.

Based on the woman's story, police today are searching for Edward "Slim" Reeves, 40, William Nesbitt, 32, who they believe fled toward Sioux City. Baker, police identification officer, said Tobin was recently released from the South Dakota penitentiary and that he believed the two also had served time.

Tells of Attack
Miss Seiler said she and Baker were entered into the country by three companions to "get some soup" for a safekeeping job where they were attacked. She said Baker was beaten and shot and that she was struck over the head with a hammer and shot. "I was not entirely unconscious," Crill said she related. "I knew when they shot me and when they shot Baker. I knew them light a gun and then I crawled out of the building. I don't know how far I had gone when it was exploded. The next thing I knew I saw lights and then a man picked me up and brought me to the hospital. "I wanted to turn myself over to the Sioux City police. I guess that is why they wanted to kill Baker and me."

Paroled Convict
State's Attorney Crill said Sioux City officers told him Baker was paroled convict from a California penitentiary, but had no other information available.

Police in virtually every farm residence near the powder house were broken, but the principal damage was caused in Sioux Falls where panes of glass in downtown stores crumbled like paper. One glass company, called to make repairs, estimated the damage at $500.

Deputy Sheriff E. H. Weidenbach, after visiting the scene of the explosion, said the blast excavated a crater 35 feet long, 25 feet deep and 25 feet wide. Signs of a trail away were blown down by the blast, he said. Inventory of the explosive depot, he said, showed had contained 300 25-pound cans of powder and 3,500 pounds of dynamite.

Reports from Dell Rapids, 20 miles away, showed some windows were broken there by the force of the explosion. The blast also was felt in Pipestone, 51 miles away, and in Doon, Iowa, 40 miles distant.

James Roosevelt Will Be Father's Secretary

Washington—(P)—James Roosevelt will be the first president's son to serve as father's secretary since the days of Andrew Jackson. So far as oldtimers at the White House could ascertain today.

Andrew Jackson Donaldson, an adopted son, filled that position for "Old Hickory" more than 100 years ago.

James, the president's eldest son, he would not be a full-fledged secretary. The only vacancy of that rank is the post held by the late Louis McHenry Howe, and James expressed the belief his job would not be that important.

He cannot step into an entirely new position without congressional authorization, he explained, so he will fill a smaller paying job that was vacant in the office of Rudolph Foster, executive officer.

Babson Sees '37 as First Year Of Prosperity Since '29

Genuine Business Ex- pansion. Is His Fore- cast for Year

LABOR TROUBLES

Shortage of Skilled Workers Seen, High- er Living Costs

BY ROGER W. BABSON
Babson Park, Mass.—I predict that 1937 will be our first year of real prosperity since 1929. It will be a year of genuine business expansion, considerable real estate activity, constant labor troubles, shortages of skilled workers, rising prices and living costs, and brisk retail trade.

Nearly every line will enjoy good gains in both volume and profits with the heavy industries showing the greatest percentage improvement. Tuck this forecast away for a check-up next December and I predict that you will find general business around 8 per cent above today's figures and not far from the 1929 peaks!

Business At Normal
A year ago at this time my forecast was: "By next Christmas general business will be about the same as today, but the heavy industries will be showing the greatest percentage improvement. Tuck this forecast away for a check-up next December and I predict that you will find general business around 8 per cent above today's figures and not far from the 1929 peaks!"

For the first time in fourteen years, we are crossing the "X-Y" Normal Line on the way into a new prosperity era. A moment's retrospection shows the tremendous distance that we have covered since we touched bottom in March, 1933. The total gain in business has been 78 per cent! Nearly a third of this rise has come during 1936 alone.

1936 Remarkable Year
The year just closed has been a remarkable one in many ways. While it is generally believed that elections do not change the basic course of business, most analysts concede that they are temporarily upsetting. The tide of recovery was running so strong in 1936, however, that it swept over every obstacle and washed out the old year in a burst of glory.

There are scarcely any figures on record that can match 1936's steady gains in jobs, payrolls, industrial activity, profits, and dividends.

Hopes 'Doors Not Closed' in Strike Of Auto Workers

Head of Union Comments On Letter From Gen- eral Motors

Detroit—(P)—Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, said today he hoped General Motors corporation's letter answering his request for a conference on labor conditions "is not intended to close the doors to further efforts to reach an understanding."

He issued a statement commenting on the communication he received last night from William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, in which Knudsen said the corporation was willing to meet with union representatives but insisted that collective bargaining must be discussed with individual plant managers.

The gigantic automobile industry is the largest of several feeling the pinch of labor disputes as they opened the books for a new calendar year. Executives, hoping business will continue at the pace it maintained in 1936, were concerned over the possible effects of continued or expanding strikes on the 1937 outlook.

Thirty thousand employees of General Motors alone were idle when factories closed for an extended holiday weekend. Strikes have halted production in a few auto parts plants, and in the flat glass industry—whose biggest customer is the automobile manufacturer—other thousands were out.

The effects of these shutdowns were reaching other industries which furnish the automotive industry with materials, the largest being the steel business. With automobile and parts production curtailed, the steel trade found one of its chief markets shrinking. The manufacturing trade was another affected.

Topping off the year was a real post-election boom. Wave after wave of wage boosts and bonuses and dividend increases and extras lifted Christmas trade back to old-time levels.

8 Per Cent Gain For '37
The momentum picked up by this surge of buying will carry into the New Year. Business in 1936 was good. Business in 1937 will be better. My estimate is for a 10 per cent gain in the first six months over the initial half of 1936. It is harder to make a definite prediction for the second half, but I think a 5 per cent gain over the closing months of the old year is within reason.

This would put my Babsonchart Index about 5 per cent above normal by the Fourth of July and approaching 10 per cent over normal by next Christmas. The entire year's gain should average about 7 to 8 per cent above 1936. Business will be above the X-Y line—in other words, in a prosperity era—for the first time twelve months period since 1929! Unless—

Labor Holds Whip-Hand
It is seldom that there is no "unless." 1936 was an exception. Then there was no "but" to my bullishness. Today, however, there is one major question in my mind—the labor problem. If this issue is not handled properly, business could receive a very rude set-back. Workers are in the most strategic position today they have ever held.

Labor leaders can tie prosperity in a knot if they called a general walk-out or they can give prosperity a boost if they keep their heads.

Held for Murder Of 30 Years Ago

Prisoner Named by Victim Of Shooting Is Ar- rested in Ontario

New Castle, Pa.—(P)—A name whispered by a dying man 30 years ago held a man in jail in northern Ontario today.

District Attorney Mont Ailey said Francisco Romeo whispered as he died: "Rocco—Rocco Esposito."

Romeo had been shot Esposito disappeared.

Ailey said the whispered name provided grounds for presentation of murder charges to a grand jury and the return of an indictment charging Esposito with the slaying.

A long search began. Officers frequently forgot about the old indictment, then new information would turn up and they'd look for Esposito again.

Word from Ontario authorities that Esposito was living in Kirkland Lake, a little mining town, came a few days ago.

Dozen Shells Fascists Greeting to Loyalists

Madrid—(P)—Twelve fascist shells exploded in Madrid on the 12 strokes of midnight, a greeting from insurgent artillery to the new year.

The symbolic gesture was not lost on Madrid's inhabitants whose custom dictates they eat 12 lucky grapes as the ebbing year is tolled out and the new year in.

Militiamen ate their grapes disdainfully as the shells burst in the center of the city. With each explosion they shouted, "Long live the republic."

The last day of the old year saw little military activity. Mud-soaked trenches were quiet despite fair weather but government leaders prepared for new fascist onslaughts soon.

Youth Questioned in Fatal Auto Accident

Chippewa Falls—(P)—Sheriff Conrad Thomson said today an 18-year-old Bloomer youth would be questioned in connection with the death of Eva Schenck, 19, whose body was found in a highway ditch Wednesday night.

The sheriff said the youth admitted running into a woman or a girl while driving home from a tavern. He said the boy had been drinking. Fragments of glass were found near Miss Schenck's body, indicating he had been struck by an automobile.

Island Group Greet New Year With Party

Duluth, Minn.—(P)—Two women and 115 men toasted the new year on Isle Royale last night, 20 miles from the nearest bar and 30 miles from the nearest night club.

They rang in 1937 with a stry mandolin and a mouth organ after ringing out the old year with radio music.

Twins Born Different Years to Nebraska Pair

Scottsbluff, Neb.—(P)—Twins were born here in different years to Mr. and Mrs. Leland Carson of Scottsbluff.

Harry Charles Carson was born at 11:45 last night and a girl, Irene Mae, at 12:02 this morning.

The boy was the last baby born in Scottsbluff in 1936, and the girl the first born in 1937.

KILLED BY BULLET Manitowish, Wis.—(P)—Arthur Zelewski, 16, was killed yesterday when a revolver he was handling discharged accidentally. The shot entered the boy's chest.

No Progress in Search for Boy Kidnap Victim

No Direct Word From Charles Mattson Since His Abduction

FAMILY IS GLOOMY

Official Believes Kidnap- er Is Amateur Rather Than 'Big Timer'

Tacoma, Wash.—(P)—New Fears today surrounded the search for Charles Mattson, 10-year-old kidnap victim, as the father, Dr. W. W. Mattson said he had received no direct word from the boy since his abduction Sunday night.

The fears replaced an attitude of confidence previously noted in members of the family, close friends and officers.

An official active from the start in the search for Charles was the most pessimistic. Offering no explanation, he asserted he believed the kidnaper never answered overtures begun by the family Tuesday afternoon. He expressed doubt the kidnaper would be able to return Charles safely even if the $28,000 ransom were paid.

The official expressed the belief the kidnaper was an amateur rather than a "big time" gangster. No professional kidnaper would ask a ransom so low as $28,000, he pointed out, and no seasoned criminal would take the chance of seizing the boy before witnesses as this man did. William and Muriel Mattson and Virginia Chatfield were present when Charles was seized. All three have asserted they could identify the kidnaper.

Fears Harm to Boy
An amateur, the official reasoned, would be much more likely to harm his captive than a professional would be, simply because he might not understand the severe punishment attached to such an act.

A second official, refusing to comment on the eventual outcome of the search, predicted the boy would not be returned in less than 48 hours no matter how well negotiations progressed.

Like most of those giving information on the Mattson search, both these men refused to allow use of their names.

Dr. Mattson himself injected one pessimistic note into the search. Asked "have you had any direct word from Charles?" he answered an interviewer: "No, nothing. No. There isn't a thing."

Reports Contradictory
The physician's flat negative came in the face of persistent reports, well-established, that the family had made contact with the kidnaper. Observers were quick to point out Dr. Mattson's statement did not deny he had received word from the kidnaper.

Dr. Mattson, former University of Washington and Pennsylvania football lineman, was interviewed as he sat with his family on the eve of the new year and his fifty-first birthday.

Mrs. Mattson, William, 16; Muriel, 14, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fletcher, grandparents of the kidnapped boy, made obvious efforts to keep the conversation on other subjects than the kidnapping.

They talked of the decorated Christmas tree outside of the ramblous spangly left behind when Charles was seized by a lone masked man.

Blizzard-Marooned
Victims are Sought
Phoenix, Ariz.—(P)—Blizzard-marooned victims were sought in three western states today.

A family believed caught by snow storms in the high Sierra mountains was hunted in California's Lake Tahoe region. The four were Carl A. Deisenroth, 35, Oakland chain store executive, his wife and two sons who left Saturday on a mountain outing.

One of the most severe blizzards in recent years handicapped more than 100 Indians seeking two lost Indian girls in the remote Keams canyon country of Navapland in New Mexico. Little hope was held that they had survived.

In northern Arizona, snow plows battled 5-foot drifts of snow near Fredonia, seeking to rescue James Pointer, a highway maintenance man, reported critically ill at Demotte lake.

Commissioner of Immigration Dies At U. S. Capital

Combined Federal Nat- uralization and Immi- gration Agencies

Washington—(P)—Colonel Daniel W. MacCormack, 57, commissioner of immigration and naturalization, died today.

MacCormack left the presidency of the Fiduciary Trust company of New York to accept the immigration post under Secretary of Labor Perkins in 1933. After four months in office, he reorganized the work to combine the immigration and naturalization agencies into one service.

Secretary Perkins called the consolidation "a remarkable piece of work," and praised MacCormack for humanizing the service.

MacCormack recently had said he would press for consideration in congress of a bill to prevent breaking up of families in deportation cases, strengthening other sections of the law to deport more criminal aliens.

A native of Scotland, he came to the United States at the age of 9. He served with the American forces in the Philippine insurrection, and from 1905 to 1917 was an executive in the Panama canal organization.

After the World War, in which he was a captain, he served on a peace conference mission to Russia. In 1922 he went to Persia as government director of internal revenue. While there he directed relief during a famine, and in 1927 represented Persia in the League of Nations council.

He returned to New York the next year to enter the banking business.

Pope Pius Spends Cheerful Holiday

Hopes to Resume Duties— Has Good Night, Almost Free From Pain

Vatican City—(P)—Pope Pius, almost free from pain and refreshed by a good night's sleep, spent a cheerful New Year's day.

The spirits of the 78-year-old holy father, seriously ill for nearly a month, brightened with hope for his recovery and the possibility he might again turn to administration of church affairs.

His doctors, although cheered by the pontiff's progress, were cautious in their optimism. They pointed out periods of comparative strength for patients suffering the pope's complications of circulatory, respiratory and cardiac ailments sometimes turn abruptly into a relapse.

The holy father slept virtually all night for the first time in weeks, awakened early, he listened to mass said by his secretaries. Except for his physician, his only visitor was Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state.

Payment of Fine Frees
Woman in Cruelty Case
Milwaukee—(P)—Mrs. Howard Burks, 25, was released from the house of correction late yesterday after her husband paid a $50 fine imposed upon her on a charge of cruelty to their daughter, Marion, 5.

Marion and her brother, Howard, Jr., 7, were sent to the county home for dependent children. Detectives testified they found the girl, scantily clad, sleeping on a floor in an unheated room.

Burks said she was sure his wife "had been taught a lesson" and that now "she would make a record that will win back our babies for us."

Payments on U. S. Social Security Accounts Become Effective Today

Washington—(P)—Taxpayers to build the huge old age pension fund called for in the social security act became effective today.

More than 23,000,000 workers in business and industry henceforth will find 1 per cent of their first $3,000 in wages deducted by the employer for payment to the treasury.

The employers must match that contribution. The first payments fall due at the end of February.

Latest estimates at the security board indicated 2,500,000 employees had registered. Besides making the monthly tax returns, each is required to keep records of wages paid so that the internal revenue bureau can check on the reports.

With congress about to convene, the tax question is among the principal interests of those who fathered the security act. The present rates contemplate a $47,000,000,000 revolving fund by 1980, but the necessity and soundness of that provision has been challenged.

The 1 per cent rate has three years to run, increasing gradually thereafter until 3 per cent is reached in 1949. Some sources apparently plan an attempt to reduce the rates to .05 per cent for both employees and employers, with increases at longer intervals to assure a more moderate but still workable revolving pension fund.

John C. Winant, chairman of the security board and experts have been working on revisions to recommend to congress. Prospects are that few fundamental changes will be advocated, however, until the supreme court has passed on constitutional questions involving the federal pension principle.

3 Persons Hurt In 7 Accidents As Old Year Ends

Girl Suffers Broken Ankle In 'Hit-and-Run' Accident

Two persons were slightly injured in four accidents which inaugurated the new year in Appleton while one person was injured in three accidents which closed the old year.

Rosemarie St. Louis, 18, 1430 E. Wisconsin avenue, suffered a broken ankle and other bruises when she was injured in an accident involving a hit and run driver at 3:20 this morning. The accident occurred ahead of the East Wisconsin Wrecking company, E. Wisconsin avenue. Robert Foster, 712 E. Brewster street, witnessed the crash.

Little damage was recorded in an accident at Harding avenue and Highway 10 when cars driven by Stephen Zebek, route 1, Menasha, and Joseph Hobins, 1303 W. Prospect avenue, collided at 3:50 this morning.

Dorothy Deschler, 302 W. Spring street, suffered scalp lacerations in an accident involving cars driven by William Winif, Little Chute, and Wilmer Wolf, St. Nazianz. Winif was driving north on Richmond street and Wolf was traveling south on the same street at the time of the crash. Miss Deschler was taken to a local physician by Wolf.

Norbert Timmers, route 3, Appleton, driving east on College avenue collided with a parked car owned by Edward Stelow, S. Park street, Neenah, at 3:50 this morning. The accident occurred on E. College avenue. Both cars were damaged.

Hilbert Sonkowsky, 1329 W. Wisconsin avenue, was slightly injured at 7:45 Thursday night in an accident involving a car driven by Wilbur Steenis, 205 N. Locust street. Steenis was driving south on Oneida street at the time while Sonkowsky was standing in the center of the street at Wisconsin avenue.

George Stewart, 1338 W. Second street, suffered a minor knee injury in an accident on the north side of the Second street crossing at Outagamie street, according to police. The accident occurred at 5:40 Thursday afternoon.

Little damage resulted from an accident involving a motorcycle driven by Sheridan Johnson, route 2, Appleton and a car driven by Wilbur Reick, 1235 W. Lawrence street, at 7:55 last night. Johnson was turning west from State street on W. College avenue at the time of the crash.

Four Oil Executives Win Removal Hearings

Tulsa, Okla.—(P)—Four oil executives were granted removal hearings on Jan. 26 after they posted bonds of $5,000 each on new indictments returned by a Madison, Wis., federal grand jury charging violation of the anti-trust law.

They were W. G. Skelly and James Nagle of the Skelly Oil company, O. J. Tuttle of the Empire Oil and Refining company and Ira A. Smith, buyer for the Standard Oil company.

Blames 'Employer Trouble' for Labor Disorders in U. S.

Washington—(P)—John L. Lewis, chairman of the committee for industrial organization, declared last night industrial relations problems are created not by labor trouble, but by "employer trouble."

"That is something from which the wage earners are suffering," he told a radio audience.

He said employers who talk about possible labor trouble interfering with industrial progress "ignore the fact that unless people have money with which to buy, the wheels of industry slow down, and profits, and likewise capital, disappear."

Asserting "the stage is set," the mine labor leader, who heads a drive to unionize mass production industries, said:

"Industry can go forward with profit to its investors, and with security to our citizenship; or it can elect to destroy itself by blindly following its unreasonable prejudices, and refusing to conform to the modern concept of proper industrial relations."

Lewis said employers' failure to deal with their employees through collective bargaining and to grant "reasonable conditions" leads to labor unrest. He blamed "employer trouble" for recent strikes, "especially in the automotive industry."

Many Countries Cele- brate Emergence From Depression

EUROPE HOPEFUL

Diplomats Believe War- fare May Be Avoid- ed This Year

Associated Press Staff Writer
From Red square to Times square and the rest of the way around the world, the new year began officially today after a collective welcoming eve with few precedents for lavish spending.

In China following ancient custom, everyone paid off his debts; in the rest of the world, almost everyone added a few.

The additional debts for caused mainly by such things as cover charges, ranging from 115 rubles—about $57.50—at the Metropole hotel in Moscow, to what-have-you sections of the globe.

The large-scale monetary extraction was attributed to international emergence from the depression with everyone using New Year's eve as an excellent excuse to celebrate the fact.

Mrs. Edward B. McLean's $50,000 party at Washington drew many guests bigwig. Six hundred and twenty guests celebrated the coming of age of her son Jock, who will be 21 Jan. 30.

War Continues
Not all was hilarity, however. The chill dawn meant only another day of fighting for the weary soldiers of Spain; rebel planes dropped 12 bombs at midnight into Madrid.

One hundred thousand Chinese narcotic addicts were granted a three days' delay in the death sentences imposed on them.

Government leaders of Japan warned their people of "more difficulties to experience in the future."

Premier Blum of France appealed for an international "will for peace."

Babies played a part in the ushering in of the new year. At least four in the United States managed to be born at 12:01 a. m. in their respective time zones and were promptly reported as "the first babies of the year" from Havre de Grace, Md., Cleveland and Wichita, Kans.

First Birth
Chief contender for the first birth hour seemed to be a four pound, two and a half ounce daughter born a few seconds after midnight to Mrs. Benjamin Blau in Detroit. Her twin sister, weighing four pounds, four ounces, was born at 12:20 a. m.

The little island of Manhattan was packed for the night with perhaps as many millions as it accommodates every business day.

From tranquil old Trinity church, with its watch night service and thousands grouped outside singing "Auld Lang Syne," to Harlem and its bands, the celebration flowed.

Liquor flowed, too, in the same ratio as the crowds.

After 20 years in which high jinks were frowned upon, Soviet Russia cut loose in pre-revolutionary gaiety. The prices in Moscow's hot spots were enough to make a Broadway night club operator green with admiration—and Moscow reported the hot spots filled.

It was a lonely New Year's day for the duke of Windsor, in his Austrian exile. However, he talked by long distance telephone with Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson in Cannes at midnight.

King George issued to the British empire a New Year's greeting in which he spoke of his "brother whose brilliant qualities gave promise of another historic reign—a reign cut short in circumstances upon which, from their very sadness, none of us would wish to dwell."

HOPE FOR PEACE

London—(P)—A motif of fear was burned under joyous hope today as Europe greeted 1937.

Diplomatic circles saw the possibility of definite achievement of the strict non-intervention in the Spanish civil war for which they labored so fruitlessly in 1936.

Indications from Rome and Berlin led them to believe Europe's two great fascist powers would give priority to the problem of foreign volunteers in the peninsula.

Other countries already have expressed adherence in principle to the new Franco-British "hands off" demands.

Romans faced the new year with an army of 1,000,000 men ready for the call to arms but despite the tension, jubilant Romans paved the city's ancient streets with broken glass and crockery in a celebration almost as old as Rome itself.

For days old household utensils have been gathered in piles and at the last stroke of midnight they were hurled from house windows to the avenues below in a symbolic shattering of old things to make way for the new.

Armed men in Spain were not so hopeful of what the year held in store as they ate their dozen grapes in memory of the dying year which has seen their sunny land devastated by a war between brothers.

Parisians pronounced their "revelation" the gayest since 1929 in a celebration lasting until long after dawn.

Eagle Scouting Awards Attained By Troop 4 Boys

Richard Arens, Harry Zerb and Kay Rogers to Receive High Rank

Three Appleton boys will be admitted to the rank of Eagle scouts, highest Boy Scout rating, at a Father and Son night program in conjunction with a meeting of the Oney Johnston Post 138 of American Legion at 7:30 Monday evening at the Elks club. The boys, Richard J. Arens, Harry R. Zerb and Kay T. Rogers, are members of the Troop 4, American Legion troop.

A scout achieving the rank of Eagle scout must have gone through considerable advancement in scouting technique. If the leadership of the individual scout troop meets the standards, a scout who receives the award has secured a liberal education in meeting physical, moral and mental standards. The boys upon whom the award is conferred are generally leaders in athletics, scholarship, dramatics and other activities.

Demonstrate Ability
The Eagle scout demonstrated his leadership ability in his own troop and a survey has shown that he has shown the same characteristics in school and college work. He has through his demonstration what he can do to make the country a better place in which to live, give service to the community in which he lives, displayed a spirit of brotherly attitude and service.

Harry R. Zerb, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron W. Zerb, 613 W. Franklin street, and is a senior at Appleton High school. He is editor of the Clinton and Talisman, high school publications, a member of the school chorus, Spartan Hi-Y club, Masque and Book club, a debater and extemporaneous speaker.

Kay T. Rogers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Rogers, 911 E. North street, and is a junior in the high school. He is a member of the student council, Olympic Hi-Y club, and participates in football, basketball, track and boxing.

Also Gets Award
Richard J. Arens, the son of Mr. and Mrs. August A. Arens, 520 N. Center street, also is a junior at the high school. He is a member of the high school band, Olympic Hi-Y club, Sons of the American Legion drum and bugle corps and plays basketball.

There have been nine other boys from Troop 4 who have attained the high rating. They are Herbert D. Schmidt, Kirtland R. Wolter, Hampton R. Purdy, Bruce B. Purdy, John R. Feavel, Frank J. Hammer, Warner B. Nelson, Wilbur W. Nelson and Harry F. Lewis. Most of these will be present to witness the program. Troop 4 also will be given a 10-year badge for its program of meritorious service.

State Suggests Resolutions to End Fire Hazards

A New Year's resolution to eliminate home fire hazards was suggested today by the Wisconsin industrial commission and endorsed here by George P. McGillan, chief of the Appleton fire department.

"Family heads can make no better or more needed resolution than to provide a safe home for those dear to them and to cease practices which are dangerous to life and property," the commission stated.

"A regular daily check-up of heating plants and other conditions before retiring would be an excellent safeguard."

"It is a good practice for the father to prepare and lay out each evening safe kindling materials; then the temptation to use kerosene on cold mornings will not be so strong."

"The fire dangers in and around the average home are the most common kind. The father can readily discover them and usually the remedy is simple. What is really needed is a keen fire consciousness and full realization of his responsibility as a father to give his family a safe home, however humble it may be."

Pupils Make Perfect Attendance Records

Four pupils of Maple Corners school town of Maple Creek, were neither absent nor tardy during the first four months of the school year. Miss Gertrude Lutz, teacher, has reported to F. P. Tourn county superintendent. They are Lois Berner, Arthur Schell, Ardis Alfeld, Kenneth Pitman, Marie Stulen and Joyce Beckman.

Pupils of Wayside school, town of Buchanan, who secured perfect records in December are Tonia Verbockel, Robert Viscardi and Gladys Mischler. Miss Marie Harn is the teacher.

School Site Selection Was Biggest Problem of City Officials in 1936

BY L. J. DERUS

Jumping into front page prominence in June after city officials spent most of the first six months of the year with other city problems, the task of selecting a site for a new senior high school probably held the attention of local authorities longer than any other municipal problem in 1936 and was undoubtedly the year's paramount civic problem.

The tangle of opinions as to the most suitable place for the new building resolved itself into a problem that the city and school authorities were unable to solve for almost five months. The decision approving the Badger avenue site came in October after a recommendation by a committee of nine appointed to study the matter.

During the intervening months attempts were made to decide upon the site by the common council and school board through joint meetings, considering suggestions of a citizens committee and even submitting a list of proposed sites in a referendum to the voters.

It was on Oct. 7 that the problem was finally laid to rest by the officials when the council voted in favor of the Badger avenue site with a one-vote margin cast by Mayor Goodland.

Grant Awarded
Shortly after, Oct. 23, the city's application for a grant of $393,750 to aid in the construction of the building was granted by PWA.

With the start of the new year the council still faces a number of hurdles before construction of the $575,000 building can begin. A request for a 90-day extension, made on Nov. 18 so plans for the school could be completed, was refused by state PWA authorities and local officials are now awaiting an answer to a subsequent request made on Dec. 16 for a 49-day extension. Issuing bonds for the city's share of the cost also must be done by the council, and some officials have hinted that the matter will be forced to a referendum vote as a result of the decision on the site.

One of the highlights in the first few months of city affairs was the reelection of Mayor Goodland over A. C. Rule by about 1,000 votes after a hotly waged campaign. Another close race was that in which Harry Hoeffel defeated Oscar J. Schmieg for city attorney by 11 votes. Schmieg challenged a number of votes and carried the matter to the courts but a decision was still pending as 1936 drew to a close.

Veto Is Successful
Mayor Goodland won out in his fight to keep management of the disposal plant out of the hands of the water commission after vetoing the action of the council in relegating the control of the sewage system to the commission in November. The system will be controlled by the board of public works until next May and cost of its operation for the first year will be paid out of the general fund. Construction of the system, which began in December, 1935, was in final stages as 1936 drew to a close.

Another problem which was of paramount interest during the hot month of July was providing municipal swimming facilities. However, no solution of the problem was reached and its importance faded as the hot spell ended.

The year opened with the council holding a record meeting—the shortest one in the history of the city. The session was held on New Year's night and after roll call of a couple aldermen present the meeting was adjourned until the following night. An attempt to rescind action on purchase of the Henry Schaefer property at $15,000 for the sewage plant site was made at the adjourned meeting but action was deferred for a day and the attempt was lost. Announcement was made that interest on sewage plant bonds was reduced from 4 to 2½ per cent on those due between 1941-45 and after. A resolution was introduced calling for the city's withdrawal from the group system of relief.

Change Relief System
Action was taken at the Jan. 15 meeting and Appleton went back to the city unit of relief. J. J. Rasmussen and Son was awarded a contract for the sewage plant excavation work. A proposed ordinance to license amusement devices was dropped and an extension to tax payment time to March 1 was made.

Acting upon the request of the Civic council the council on Feb. 5 decided to hold a referendum on the recreation problem. The Civic council proposed setting up a fund for a year-round program. After a stormy committee of the whole meeting, the council voted to work with the state certification bureau and provide $900 per year for expenses of an office to be located in the city.

Plans for industrial connections to the sewage system were approved at the meeting of the council on Feb. 19. An extension of the real estate tax payment period also was made to July 1.

Initial steps to compel taxi cab companies to carry public liability insurance were taken on March 4 and the taxi cab license fee was reduced from $20 to $10. Because of new watermain for sewage plant, it was suggested that provisions be made for increased fire protection in the Fourth ward. A grader was

Vote For Park Addition
The council voted to buy the B. J. Zuehlke property as an addition to the city park for $11,975 on July 22. Park bids for public buildings were rejected and the council decided to purchase from the coal docks through local dealers. Acting as a committee of the whole, the council approved resurfacing College avenue and Washington street as a WPA project at a cost of $58,396.

Again acting as a committee of the whole, the aldermen on July 27 recommended giving the water commission control of the sewage system. A special committee was named to investigate means of financing operations of the plant.

Robert DeLand was named to fill the vacancy of Henry W. Tuttrup as First ward alderman on Aug. 5. A proposal to install parking meters for a 6-month trial period was rejected by the council which two days later authorized installation of meters on College avenue for a 3-month trial period. Action on purchase of Pierce property for the Fifth ward park was deferred.

Act on Insurance
An ordinance compelling taxi cab companies to carry public liability insurance was adopted by the council on Aug. 19 and action on resurfacing College avenue was deferred until spring. The council voted to advertise for bids for parking meters to be used for a trial period of 90 days.

Mayor Goodland offered two solutions for the high school site problem, using present site or the west end of piece park. On the same day, Aug. 21, the council reached an unofficial agreement to purchase the Pierce property for the Fifth ward park.

Further discussions on the site question were held on Aug. 27, and the mayor was sent to Milwaukee to learn the status of the application for a grant. He found that the grant was on the verge of being granted. At this time petitions against using the Salm property as a school site were being circulated in the city.

Favor Referendum
It was voted on Oct. 31 to hold a referendum on the site question. At a meeting the next day the council approved listing the City park, State street, Badger avenue, River-view Country club, present site, Pierce park and Salm property as possible sites in the referendum. The referendum was ordered for Sept. 15 at a meeting on Sept. 2.

At the session the aldermen rejected a petition proposing an increase in the salary and duties of the city engineer. Fifteen acres of land owned by Pierce, Doerflinger and Loessel were purchased for $17,175 for the Fifth ward park. An ordinance was adopted on licensing amusement devices. C. K. Boyer's resignation from the school board was refused by Mayor Goodland. Polling places and election boards were approved. Upon the suggestion of the school board, Schneider farm and the Spencer street property were listed as possible school sites in the referendum.

Want Present Site
In the primary election on Sept. 15 voters chose the present site. The Salm site was second choice. The Civic council on proposed State street or Badger avenue as a site. Bids for parking meters were rejected by the council again on Sept. 18.

The school board suggested to compromise on the site problem in a surprise move and suggested State street site for the new school on Sept. 18. The council deferred action on the offer and tabled a motion to leave the question to the people. A joint meeting was held with a citizen's committee on Sept. 21 but no decision was reached. The council voted for a committee of nine to study the matter on the committee on Sept. 25 recommended the Badger avenue site.

Approve Site
Approval of the recommendation was made by the school board on Sept. 28 and by the council on Sept. 30 by a 7 and 5 vote. The council changed its vote but not its decision on Oct. 7. Mayor Goodland broke a 6 and 6 vote by casting his ballot in favor of the Badger avenue site. Construction of a swimming pool in the river at Lutz park was proposed and ornamental lights in two blocks on Oneida street were ordered. Establishment of a traffic court and elimination of court costs on traffic violations was referred to a committee for study.

Approval of a grant of $393,750 for the new high school was made by PWA on Oct. 22.

The council on Oct. 21 asked the county for an appropriation of $50,000 for paving work. Mayor Goodland quashed an attempt to reopen the school site question.

Bids Too High
Bids were considered for industrial connections to the sewage plant but were thought too high and definite action was deferred at the first meeting in April.

All incumbent aldermen were re-elected in the April election. Carl Becher was reelected city clerk; L. M. Schindler, city engineer; George Peatter, assessor; and John Goodland, mayor. The closest aldermanic race was in the First ward where Mike Steinhauer was reelected by 34 votes.

Alderman Grignon was elected in the Third ward. Ernest Femal, incumbent, did not run for reelection. C. K. Boyer, Seymour Gmeiner and Dr. George T. Hegner were reelected to the board of education. Oscar Schmieg called for a recount after he was defeated by Harry Hoeffel with a 15-vote margin. The recount showed Hoeffel winner by 11 votes.

Plans for paving Richmond street from Wisconsin avenue to Bell road was approved by the council on April 16. Arthur Hartzheim was named as assistant to the city electrician. T. C. McConnell resigned as city relief director and F. A. W. Hammond was named in his place at the following meeting of the council on April 21. Dr. J. C. Troxel was appointed city physician, and Alderman Thompson was elected president of the council.

Accept Contract
The contract of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company to furnish power for the sewage plant was accepted by the council on May 6.

New precincts in the First, Third, Fifth and Sixth wards were established by the council on May 21. Contracts for industrial connections to the sewage system were awarded to Hoffman Construction company and R. C. Meyer Construction company.

The salary of election board officials was reduced from $10 to $7 by the council on June 3. The school board recommended the Salm site for the new senior high school and the council on June 10 decided to hold a joint meeting with the school board on the site question. An appropriation of $600 was voted as the city's share of the cost in establishing a reemployment bureau.

Rejection of the Salm site for the new senior high school for the second time was made by the council on June 15. Salm, State, Badger avenue and the city park sites were discussed and a referendum on the matter was suggested. The council on June 17 urged the school board to select another site. The council also favored resurfacing College avenue from Drew to Story street.

Override Veto
Repeal of the ordinance consolidating the offices of street commissioner, engineer and building inspector was advocated by Mayor Goodland at the July 1 meeting of the council. His veto of salary increases for the city mechanic, bookkeeper and helper was overridden by the council but a veto on an increase for the street department foreman was sustained. With six months of the year gone about half the construction on the sewage plant was reported completed.

Six sites for the new senior high school were proposed on July 2 and on July 6 the council, with the mayor breaking a tie vote, decided to give the school board the privilege of selecting any site except the three parks, City, Erb and Pierce.

Alderman Henry W. Tuttrup of the First ward resigned on July 15. The swimming place question was discussed and installation of parking meters on College avenue were proposed. Purchase of property on Lake Winnebago was considered by the council the following day. Judge Henry V. Hansenman proposed building public bathhouse and pavilion on the lower Fox river as a WPA project.

Vote For Park Addition
The council voted to buy the B. J. Zuehlke property as an addition to the city park for $11,975 on July 22. Management of the sewage system was turned over to the water commission on Nov. 4. Provisions were made to secure money for operating costs from the general fund. Aldermen DeLand and Vogt and City Attorney Hoeffel were named on a legislative committee. Mayor Goodland vetoed the council's action in giving control of the plant to the water commission on Nov. 9. The veto was upheld at a meeting of the council on Nov. 18. The council decided to borrow $30,000 for general fund purposes until the first of the year.

Upon the request of the school board, the council asked for a 90-day extension to complete plans for the new senior high school. Announcement was made of a cut in the PWA allotment for the sewage plant site of about $15,000.

On Nov. 25 the council set the 1937 tax rate at $19 per $1,000 and the tax levy at $846,523.63. Management of the sewage plant was turned over to the board of public works until May 1 and the city comptroller was named to the board of public works. The city's request for a time extension in starting building operations on the new high school was refused by PWA on Dec. 10.

C. O. Baetz was named superintendent of the sewage treatment plant by the board of public works on Dec. 11. A request for a 49-day extension on starting construction of the new high school was made by the council on Dec. 16. A request that the city issue bonds for $491,250 for the new school was referred to the finance committee.

The council favored limiting school architect fees to $45,477, the amount set in the application for government aid, after PWA authorities pointed out that a later estimate called for architect fees of about $2,000 over that amount.

Action on the purchase of a truck for $7,060 was deferred until Dec. 23. At that meeting the council voted to buy the truck for the street department against a threat of a veto by the mayor. The council also decided to submit a 5-mile paving program to PWA officials for approval as a PWA project.

Today and Tomorrow

Do not misunderstand me. I am not predicting grave national labor tie-ups, even though some current situations do look threatening and even though there will be a big increase in the number of strikes. I merely say that if labor leaders try to push too far and too fast in their demands for higher pay and shorter hours, we are in for serious trouble.

Four New Factors

There are four new factors in the picture today which give labor such a strong hold on industry. First, is the tremendous gain in industrial production and profits. Second, is the steady rise in living costs. Third, is the big gain in labor's influence as a result of the election results. Finally, there is the "powder-keg" row between the Lewis and Green factions. These factors, particularly the latter, all increase the tension of the situation.

The real key to this puzzle is the Administration and its policy toward labor. Mr. Roosevelt with his almost unanimous backing could swing the tide of battle in whichever direction he wished. Because of the President's unprecedented worker-following, the outlook for labor troubles depends to a large extent on Washington.

Congress Not Harmful
In fact, much depends on Washington. As far as most problems are concerned, not so many years ago it was the vogue to take careful soundings in Wall Street before making an annual forecast. Today the most important preparation for my outlook letter is to drop the lead-line in the Potomac. A fortnight before Christmas, I visited the Capital. Experienced observers there believe that the President may have more trouble than the public imagines in holding his huge Democratic majority together.

The Washington consensus is that Congress will not be harmful to business in spite of the voters' roar of approval of the New Deal. There will be a lot of barking but little biting. The emphasis of the coming session will be on perfecting legislation already passed and adding a few amendments thereto. I doubt if a hamperful of new reform laws will be jammed through.

Bond Inflation
It will be two years before another election, and the average Congressman will be worrying less about his constituents and more about the Constitution. Along this line, I expect to see a big improvement in federal finances. An effort will be made to cut expenses. Relief aid will be continued but not on the boondoggling scale of the past three years. The government's income should rise steadily as 1937 works along. But despite Washington forecasts to the contrary, I doubt if the gain in revenue or the slash in expenditures will be sufficient to bring the budget into balance by June 30, 1938.

This means that inflation will gain ground this year. It has already taken big strides in recent years although the general public is entirely unaware of it. Public debt has grown $16,000,000,000 since July 1, 1930. Tax receipts have doubled since 1933. Still the Treasury is forced to raise funds to pay the public bills by selling government bonds. This money finds its way into the banks in the form of "loans" to the contractors' deposits. The bank then "invests" these deposits by buying more government bonds.

The cycle repeats itself over and over again, building up bank deposits and ballooning the public debt. This is camouflaged inflation. It will continue in 1937 aided by another form of inflation—the checks or credit type of inflation—that which we had in 1929. When all is said and done, every one of the various inflations has the same effect—the boosting of prices and the speeding up of business and building activity.

Home Building Boom
Four years ago the building of a new home or factory was a relatively rare sight. Only eight homes were built at the depression low in 1933 where a hundred were built in 1929 and where fifty are being built today. Home building is a typical capital goods industry. It is a direct thermometer of public confidence. Once confidence returns there is a veritable stampede to take advantage of real estate bargains and to get under the wire on building costs. A feature of 1937 should be a real boom in home building.

Non-residential construction, aside from public works, should also enjoy a big gain. Plant expansion or modernization is a necessity for many concerns. Prices of building materials are on the verge of a sharp mark-up. Demand for skilled building mechanics will soon be reflected in higher bids on jobs. Bargains in existing structures are pretty well picked over. If you must modernize, renovate, repair, or build, let out your contract NOW!

Extend Leases Now
The same applies to rents. If you have a favorable lease extend it now for a five-year period. After a 10 per cent advance last year, rents will probably increase another 5 per cent in 1937—maybe more in well-located areas. With the optimistic prospects for building and rents, I look forward to a profitable year for real estate men.

STOCKS: Higher But Good Selection Vital
BONDS: At Ceiling — Watch Money Policy
FOREIGN: No European War In 1937
SUMMARY: First Year Of Prosperity Since 1929

with rising values and with activity at least 20 per cent above 1936.

The outlook for real estate and buildings is typical of the outlook for all capital goods industries such as locomotives, ships, power stations, and machinery. These businesses are due for a much sharper percentage improvement than the consumer goods industries. Employment in the heavy group a year ago was 75 per cent of normal, today it is 85 per cent, and by next Christmas it should be 95 per cent.

Where To Get Jobs
The 3,000,000 heavy industry workers who are still jobless should dwindle to 2,000,000 by the end of 1937. This would leave only 6,000,000 out of jobs next December and of this number 4,000,000 are the floating jobless or are unemployed. By far the best bet for new jobs will be in these industries. My advice to young men looking for a job today is to learn a building or machinery trade or to join the sales force of a building materials or machinery concern.

Skilled workers are going to demand, and get, higher pay in 1937. While total employment should increase perhaps 5 to 8 per cent, wage rates should be stepped up by at least that amount or more on the average. Payroll totals should show a rise of not less than 10 per cent. But remember fatter payrolls mean heavier producing costs. The latter in turn mean either a mark-up of selling prices or a cutting of profit margins.

Sees Rising Prices
Three years ago higher costs would have meant slimmer profits. This year they will mean higher selling prices. This holiday season we are waving good-bye to a buyers' and employers' market. For the first time since 1929, we shall see prices during 1937 controlled by the seller and wages by the employee.

Gone, temporarily at least, are the days when orders were taken below cost simply to keep the machinery from getting rusty. Gone are the days when people would work for nothing simply to keep up their courage. In addition to higher producing costs the Robinson-Patman Price Act, if strictly interpreted, will push distribution costs higher.

Means higher living costs in the city.

Clothing to Cost More
Up to now, the cost of living has not been keeping pace with the recovery in general business. Its advance totals only 20 per cent against 75 per cent for industrial activity and 30 per cent for retail prices. This coming year the gap will narrow. I look for a 5 to 8 per cent rise in living costs against only a 3 per cent gain in 1936.

In the vanguard will be clothing prices. They have been at a standstill for the last three years but they will move ahead 8 to 12 per cent in 1937. Food bills will be 5 to 8 per cent higher. Monthly electric and gas statements will be slightly lower. Coal and coke will ease off as the peak of the heating season passes, but those who use oil should make contracts now as a protection against a 10 per cent advance.

Salesmen's Paradise
Merchants can honestly plug the "Buy Now—Higher Prices Coming" appeal in their advertising. Sales managers can safely jack up their sales quotas and advertising appropriations by at least 10 per cent—probably 20 per cent. The sales feature of 1937 will be the return of the seller's market for the first time since 1929.

Every hour of effort and every dollar of expense put into selling work in 1937 will return what two did in 1934 and what two may in 1939! I urge every sales manager and every salesman to work his head off in 1937. Get your reward for all the hard work of the past few years. Sunny selling days will not last forever!

Best Sales Areas
Results will vary, of course, in different sections. Back in 1933 my sales map showed only one gold, or excellent, state and thirty blue, or poor, states. Today this same map shows twenty gold states and only two blue states. During the past two years, agricultural sections have been the sales managers' best bet. Although farmers should continue to be good customers, the industrial centers, particularly in the Northeast, Middle Atlantic, and Middle Western areas will again come to the fore.

Remember, however, that the Southeast, Pacific and Mountain areas are our fastest growing markets. The great opportunities for future growth and expansion are there! Keep this fact in mind when you make up your sales quotas or when you are investing in stocks and bonds.

All this will be mirrored on wholesale and retail invoices.

Sharp Mark-Up Ahead
Wholesale quotations on 784 products—from raw material to finished goods—have risen 3 per cent in the last three months and are at a new top since September, 1930. Next Christmas this price average will be 5 per cent—maybe 10 per cent—higher than it is today.

Four years ago wheat was selling at the lowest price in three and a half centuries—41 cents a bushel. Because it was cheaper than to pay freight, corn was being burned for fuel in place of coal. Milk was being poured on the streets to reduce over-supplies of butter and cheese. There was a bounty on baby pigs. Today wheat is around $1.35 per bushel. Corn is being imported from Argentina. Much bulk butter sold in United States markets comes from abroad. Bacon is a delicacy once again. This all goes to show how much more powerful are the rules of nature and economics than the laws of men. The drought, the AAA and short supplies, plus better business and heavier consumption, have doubled farm prices during the last four years. Now, what about the outlook for farm prices this year?

Good Year on Farms
Grain and cotton prices depend on the weather and plantings. Based on current acreage estimates and barring drought, prices of these products should not be much higher next December than they are today. Meat prices will edge upward for our livestock population is near the lowest point in years. Dairy, egg, and poultry prices will advance under the impetus of higher producing costs during the first half. Good prices plus higher production should lift farm income between 5 to 10 per cent during the new year.

Farm profits will be somewhat less due to mark-ups in the prices of products which the farmer has to buy. With farming continually more profitable, good land (now up 20 per cent over the depression low) will continue its gradual rise. This recovery in agricultural prices is a very bullish factor in the business outlook but do not forget that it means higher living costs in the city.

Good Selection Vital
While the general pattern of the stock market should be upward, prices of individual groups will vary greatly. Good selection will pay even greater premiums this year than last. Biggest gains per cent will be in the new industries, machinery, equipment, building material, electrical equipment, steel, metals, and office supplies will be in the vanguard. Chemicals and oils will continue their basic growth. Rails may be a feature marketwise as the year progresses, but airline issues offer better long-pull possibilities. Food, dairy, meat packing, paper, coal, textile, department store, and motor groups are all due for moderate gains. Even the chain stores and utilities should not be overlooked. They would probably stand up best against a quick sell-off brought about by some major disaster such as the exploding of the foreign bomb.

No War in 1937
No one can deny that the overseas situation is critical. Europe and Asia today closely resemble the armed camps of 1912-14. A general war involving Fascism vs. Communism is inevitable; but a general European war will not come in 1937. There will continue to be revolutions within nations; but no formal conflict between nations. European securities will remain unattractive although world trade will continue to increase slowly. The gain, since 1933, now totals 30 per cent. South America, France, Holland, Switzerland, Belgium, Scandinavia, Canada, and other British commonwealths will be our best markets. Japan and England will not be as good as in recent years. Spain, Germany, and Italy will be our poorest.

Currency Outlook
The most hopeful foreign development of 1936 was the "gold bloc" devaluation and three-cornered currency agreement between France, England, and ourselves. I do not expect, however, that the dream of international stabilization can become a reality during 1937. Improvement in business conditions in Europe is the best remedy for most of its troubles.

Dictators, isms, war eagles, and the like thrive on human suffering and misery. That is why I have always preached that one nation can prosper only as the entire world prospers. If we could only get Europe back to normal we would solve the last remaining basic problem confronting happiness in the Americas.

Conclusion
As 1937 opens, most of the snarl brought on by the depression have been untangled. Improvement is widespread through all branches of the industry. Employment is gradually approaching normal once again. The outlook for the coming twelve months is bright. I predict that as we look back at this New Year season we will remember it as a momentous milestone in our business history.

Whether we realize it or not today, we are now placing a headstone over the 1929-1936 depression corpse and bundling up the 1937- (?) prosperity baby in swaddling clothes. How long this period of prosperity will last or how far it will go, no one can now say. That depends upon how well we have learned that lasting prosperity only comes through the practice of industry, honesty, thrift, faith, and other "business virtues".

German Sausages to Be Given New Dresses
Berlin—(AP)—Transparent wrapping materials will be Germany's substitute for sausage skin when Adolf Hitler's four-year plan for self-sufficiency is put into effect. The saving on imported sausage skins, amounting to 40,000,000 marks annually, will prevent a pork shortage, according to Der Angriff.

Crowns Soar High on New 'Mexican' Hats
Paris—(AP)—New "Mexican" hats in Paris are being made in black felt, with wide slightly rolled up brims, and towering crowns smaller at the top than at the base. Guiltless of other trimming, they look "perfectly swell" with a lace bordered veil draped nonchalantly down front or back. Tall persons look best in these "tomall land" types.

Paper Says $100 Motors Sold for $4,500 Apiece

Reports Vinalert Disposed Of Reconditioned Motors to Coast Guard

Baltimore—(AP)—The Baltimore Sun, in a Washington dispatch, says the Vinalert company of Jersey City bought airplane motors from the army air corps for $100 each and later sold them to the coast guard for $4,500 apiece.

The Vinalert company, headed by Robert Cuse, several days ago received a license from the state department to export $2,777,000 worth of airplanes and engines to the loyalist forces in Spain.

The Sun, in a story by J. Fred Essary, chief of its Washington bureau, says:

"The Vinalert company, it was learned, has sold airplane engines to the government as well as bought them from federal agencies. The transaction... involved the purchase of a large lot of Liberty motors from the army air corps at $100 apiece and their later sale to the coast guard for around $4,500 each for use in harbor patrol boats.

Bought After War
"Several years after the close of the World War, it developed, the Vinalert company bought from the army a large number of Liberty motors, which had been manufactured during wartime but had never been used. The motors were offered for sale as surplus stock, having become obsolete for army purposes as the result of new developments in engine manufacture.

"About a year and a half ago the coast guard advertised for bids for marine engines which would develop 400 horsepower and, because of the required horsepower rating, notified prospective bidders that it would accept converted airplane engines.

"The Vinalert company was the low bidder on a lot of 62 motors, with a bid of $281,620, or somewhat over $4,500 per engine, and was awarded the contract in August, 1935. Coast guard officials said, however, that the engines were almost completely rebuilt, with little of the original retained but the cylinder blocks. The Vinalert bid was considered reasonable in view of the work done, it was said.

"Delivery of the engines was begun only recently. While the work was going on at the company's Jersey City plant, a group of coast guard officers were stationed there in order that they might familiarize themselves with the engines and thus be able readily to operate and repair them when they were installed.

Jaces to Give Service Award

Committee Will Consider Any Recommendations Up to January 15

Recommendations for the annual distinguished service award, given by the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce to an Appleton young man under 35 years of age, will be received from any one in Appleton until Jan. 15, according to Harry Hoefel, chairman of the committee. Any recommendations should include reasons for selection, he said.

The award committee will meet Monday and plans for selecting the winner will be made. The civic award will be given on Jan. 22 by Mayor Goodland, honorary chairman of the committee. Announcement of the winner will not be made until the time of presentation. Arrangements will be made to have the award winner present as a guest of honor at a dinner meeting when the presentation is made.

Members of the award committee are Mayor Goodland, Hoefel, F. N. Belanger, E. K. Derus, Alex O. Benz, Dr. Carl Neidhold and William Montgomery.

Award Damages in Auto Crash Suit

Jury Finds Plaintiff 30 Per Cent Negligent in Traffic Accident

Damages of $5,344 were set by a municipal court jury late Thursday afternoon in the $10,000 damage suit brought by Walter Nau, Jr., Appleton, against Bertha Barry, Appleton, and the Farmers Mutual Automobile Insurance company.

The jury found Nau 30 per cent negligent in the automobile accident on which the suit was based, however. The defendant, Bertha Barry, was found 70 per cent negligent.

Trial of the case, based on an automobile accident on Highway 10 South of Appleton, May 11, started Monday morning before Municipal Judge Thomas H. Ryan and a 12-man jury. The jury retired at noon Thursday and returned a verdict at 4:30.

Major Work on Sewage Disposal Plant Ended

With slightly more than a year of construction work on the new sewage disposal system completed, installation of some equipment is the major item of work to be finished. All industrial connections, with the exception of the Interlake connection, are completed. Equipment is being installed in the screen and grit building, chemical building and office building. It is expected that first sewage will be treated in about a month.

THIS CAR MAY FIGURE IN RELEASE OF KIDNAPED BOY

Speculation was aroused in Tacoma, Wash., as to the part this automobile might play, if any, in the probable release of kidnaped Charles Mattson. In it as it was driven away from the residence of the victim's parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Mattson, is shown a middle-aged unidentified man with close-clipped gray hair. He was accompanied by a graying blonde woman, also unidentified. It was this type of car the kidnaper of the boy specified should bring him the $28,000 ransom. (Associated Press Photo)

Building in City Hits Boom Year Figure in 1936

500 Permits Issued for $914,000 in Construction Work

Continuing the climb started in 1935, building in Appleton during 1936 reached a boom year figure of $914,000, an increase of approximately $175,000 over the previous year, records of the building inspection department show.

More than 500 permits for new buildings, remodeling and repair work were issued during the year. About 155 permits were issued for new homes at an estimated cost of $663,735. In 1935 there were 137 permits for homes evaluated at $512,000.

One of the outstanding facts in the building of new residences during the year was that they were of higher value than the previous year. Most homes building during 1936 were put up at costs usually between $2,000 and $5,000 while last year the average cost rose to between $4,000 to $7,000.

Higher Than 1929
The low building year in the depression was 1932. Activities began early in 1935 and the year's total for new homes was just below the $551,000 figure for 1929. However, the total value of new homes last year was about $100,000 more than in 1929.

The increase in the number of homes erected during last year was reflected in a rise in the cost of building materials. Mercantile building and remodeling during 1936 jumped to more than $149,000. While July was the peak month for home building in 1936, August was out in front this year with 28 new homes started during the month at an approximate cost of $89,750. The previous month 21 new homes were begun at a cost of $89,700.

Many New Garages
Home building was not the only construction activity that enjoyed a good year. During 1936, 117 new garages were built at an approximate cost of $17,000. This does not include garages built with new homes.

Repairing of many homes untouched a number of years was given the attention of the owners during the year about $70,000 was spent for remodeling.

The largest building project carried on in the city during the year was the new sewage disposal plant, the cost of which is not included in the building figures. The plant, which will be put into actual use soon, was erected at a cost of $700,000. Of this total $315,000 is paid by the government and the remainder by the city.

Peak Months
Home building activity reached its year's peak during July and August. During the former month, $89,700 was spent for building projects while in the next the total was $89,750.

Three new homes were started in January and February despite the long cold spells and heavy snows. Mercantile building for the first two months totaled $17,500.

With the coming of mild weather in March permits for seven new homes at a cost of $25,000 were issued. The number of new homes doubled in the next month and 24 permits were issued for the remodeling of homes. Mercantile permits in April amounted to more than $13,000.

Increase In May
Construction gradually increased during the next few months with 18 permits for new homes in May, 20 in June, 21 in July and 28 in August. Total permits issued during these months were March 25, April 59, May 55, June 91.

The largest amount of construction, $126,411, was reported during October. During the month $83,400 was spent for new homes, $24,200 for mercantile building and remodeling and $18,040 for the remodeling of homes.

With two mercantile permits issued in January for $15,000, building got off to a better start than in 1935. Despite the many days of snow and cold, one new home was begun at a cost of $2,000 while remodeling work in homes for the month amounted to $3,100. In January 1935, total building was $3,276.

Slow In February
Building activity slowed up a bit during February but $14,438 was spent for construction and remodeling.

F. D. R. in Good Position To Bargain With Business

BY BYRON PRICE

Washington—All attempts to chart the administration's probable course on labor and industrial legislation have bumped up against a barrier of Presidential silence which would seem to be deliberate rather than accidental. Whatever he may be thinking personally, Mr. Roosevelt manifestly is in no hurry to disclose his program, either to congress or to his associates.

Administration stalwarts in the senate, however, have been hurrying to the front with schemes, both old and new, to aid labor. Many of these have had Mr. Roosevelt's approval in the past and undoubtedly will again. Guffey, for the third time, will introduce a bill to maintain prices in the soft coal industry; Black will be back with his act to limit workers to a 30-hour week; O'Mahoney will have a licensing bill for all corporations engaged in interstate commerce; and Wagner will propose a huge housing program. That is only a start.

Labor leaders view the situation with more complacency than do business executives. Both in public and in private they have said confidently that they expect administrative support for most of their measures. Their first problem, however, is to consolidate gains already made and to find some common ground of their own.

Schools Will Resume Class Sessions Monday

Two weeks of vacation for Lawrence college students will end Monday morning when regular class sessions will be resumed. The Christmas recess began Dec. 19. Classes in public and parochial schools also will be resumed Monday morning following a 2-week recess.

DEATHS

BURKE FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Frieda Burke, 1817 S. Jefferson street, who died Thursday morning, will be held at 8:30 Saturday morning at the Hob Funeral home and at 9 o'clock at the St. Mary's Catholic church with the Rev. J. E. Meagher in charge. The body will be at the Hob Funeral home from this noon until the time of the services.

elting work. Permits were issued for two homes at a cost of $9,500. About $2,500 was spent in the remodeling of homes in addition to $2,500 for remodeling a business building.

With the coming of spring in March building greatly increased. A total of $37,090 was spent, double the amount expended during the same month in 1935. Work was started on seven new homes during the month at an estimated cost of $25,600. Annual spring remodeling work brought the number of permits for that purpose up to 11 with an expenditure of about $5,000 for the month.

Spring building began in earnest during April when 51 permits were issued for a total of $80,805. Fourteen new homes were begun by contractors at an estimated cost of $57,100. A couple mercantile permits totaled $13,600. For the same month in 1935, building totaled approximately $63,000.

Up to the end of April 24 permits for homes had been issued with the building season of the year just underway. Eighteen homes were started in May at an estimated cost of $68,635. Money spent for building during the month totaled $97,950 as compared to $62,489 spent for the same month in 1935. Mercantile building and improvements continued on an even keel, about $18,500 being spent during the month. Remodeling work on 16 homes also was started during May.

Contractors remained busy during June when total building was $96,225. There were 55 permits issued and twenty new homes at a cost of $80,250 were started. Fourteen homes were repaired at a cost of about $7,000.

Twenty-one new homes were started in July at a cost of $89,700. Fifty-five permits called for an expenditure of $98,025. Remodeling of 20 homes was started at a cost of about $6,500.

August showed no let up in building. Fifty-three permits were issued, twenty-five of them for new homes. Building costs for the month were $98,500 of which $89,700 was for homes.

Increase Continues
A continued increase was shown in September when $110,250 was spent for the various construction work. Six mercantile permits were issued for an expenditure of $24,150 while seventeen permits for homes totaled $75,900.

The decline in building began in September in 1935, but October of last year saw the building activity skyrocket. Forty-nine permits were issued during the month for a total of $126,411. Construction of 18 new homes was started at a cost of $83,400.

The drop in building came the following month when the 33 permits issued totaled $89,365. Eleven new homes were started at a cost of about $50,000. Figures available for the first three weeks of December showed building amounted to about $35,000. Six new residences were started during that period with an estimated expenditure of $30,500.

Schools Will Resume Class Sessions Monday

Two weeks of vacation for Lawrence college students will end Monday morning when regular class sessions will be resumed. The Christmas recess began Dec. 19. Classes in public and parochial schools also will be resumed Monday morning following a 2-week recess.

Labor leaders view the situation with more complacency than do business executives. Both in public and in private they have said confidently that they expect administrative support for most of their measures. Their first problem, however, is to consolidate gains already made and to find some common ground of their own.

DEATHS

BURKE FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Frieda Burke, 1817 S. Jefferson street, who died Thursday morning, will be held at 8:30 Saturday morning at the Hob Funeral home and at 9 o'clock at the St. Mary's Catholic church with the Rev. J. E. Meagher in charge. The body will be at the Hob Funeral home from this noon until the time of the services.

elting work. Permits were issued for two homes at a cost of $9,500. About $2,500 was spent in the remodeling of homes in addition to $2,500 for remodeling a business building.

With the coming of spring in March building greatly increased. A total of $37,090 was spent, double the amount expended during the same month in 1935. Work was started on seven new homes during the month at an estimated cost of $25,600. Annual spring remodeling work brought the number of permits for that purpose up to 11 with an expenditure of about $5,000 for the month.

Spring building began in earnest during April when 51 permits were issued for a total of $80,805. Fourteen new homes were begun by contractors at an estimated cost of $57,100. A couple mercantile permits totaled $13,600. For the same month in 1935, building totaled approximately $63,000.

Up to the end of April 24 permits for homes had been issued with the building season of the year just underway. Eighteen homes were started in May at an estimated cost of $68,635. Money spent for building during the month totaled $97,950 as compared to $62,489 spent for the same month in 1935. Mercantile building and improvements continued on an even keel, about $18,500 being spent during the month. Remodeling work on 16 homes also was started during May.

CHIMNEY FIRE

A chimney fire at the home of Mrs. A. Lietz, 625 Nelson avenue, was the only call answered by the fire department as the old year ended. Fire started at about 10 o'clock last night and little damage resulted. The home is owned by Mrs. A. Lietz.

Banking Outlook Brighter for Next Year, Is Forecast

'More Encouraging Than For Some Time,' Tom K. Smith Says

St. Louis—(AP)—Tom K. Smith, president of the American Bankers' association and head of the Boatmen's National bank, in a year-end statement calls "the banking outlook more encouraging than it has been for some time."

"Considerable progress already has been made in eliminating the points of weakness in the banking structure which became apparent during the past few years," he said. "With the present spirit of cooperation and determination on part of government officials and the banks, further progress is certain."

"The past 12 months unquestionably have been in the most encouraging to general business in this country since 1929."

"While periods of readjustment are to be expected, the forward movement which began early in the past year has lasted longer than any previous revival and this affords support for the belief that the gains made in 1936 may be large measure be permanent."

"The base of the recovery, moreover, is gradually broadening. The durable goods industries are showing greater activity and although the volume of production in these lines is still far below pre-depression levels, further expansion seems in prospect."

Detroit—(AP)—"Reasonable prospects" of a closer approach in 1937 to the 1929 record of automobile sales are seen by Alvan Macaulay, president of the Automobile Manufacturers' association and president of the Packard Motor Car Co.

More than three times as many motor vehicles were sold in 1936 as in the low depression year of 1932 he pointed out in a year end statement.

"A leader in new production methods, the automobile industry has saved much labor through the installation of better machines and processes," he said. "But it takes as much labor per unit to turn out today's production as it did in 1929."

The explanation is that work saved in specific processes, such as on the assembly lines, has been plowed into the making of improved qualities. "These improvements have been added without cost to the consumer."

Arms Smuggling Kept to Minimum

Bureau of Justice Reports Only Isolated Cases Of Violation

Washington—(AP)—The swash-buckling adventurer who smuggled arms in those days that tailed the last century has either disappeared or he is getting away with it.

If the number of those who have come to the attention of the Justice Department's criminal division is any barometer, they have virtually disappeared. The investigators have only three cases pending in which are involved charges of violations of the Neutrality Act of 1934, which prohibits the shipment of arms or munitions to warring nations.

Last September Federal agents arrested William Campbell, soldier of fortune from Atlantic City, N. J., and confiscated a truck loaded with arms and ammunition at Biloxi, Miss. They charged that he and Bjorne Olsen, coin music machine operator who was arrested later in New Orleans, had conspired to ship arms to revolutionaries in the tropics.

Seize Armed Truck
A truck, described as carrying 200 rifles, 21,500 rounds of ammunition, a short wave radio communication set, gas tanks and other war supplies, was seized. Federal agents expressed an opinion privately that the supplies were destined for either Honduras or Nicaragua.

In Havana, Cuba, a building occupied by officers of the newspaper El Pais was dynamited on Sept. 20. Justice Department agents on Nov. 6 arrested Cardozo de la Torre Farara and Jose Urgido at Macon, Ga. Proceedings were started immediately to expedite their removal to Jacksonville, Fla. Agents learned that on May 30 and Aug. 24 boxes labeled "auto parts" but containing sulphur and chlorate of potash, chemicals used in the manufacture of dynamite, had been shipped from Jacksonville to Havana.

College Professors Play Sleuths to Radium

Lubbock, Tex.—(AP)—College professors recently turned detective to find ten milligrams of radium lost in a sanitarium here.

Dr. E. E. George and two other members of the Texas Technological college faculty located the radium, lost when a nurse let a platinum needle containing the valuable substance slip through her fingers, with electroscopes. The needle was imbedded in lint between the coils of a radiator eight feet from the spot where the object fell.

Leaves of the electroscope, charged with static electricity, collapse rapidly when the instrument approaches a radio-active substance. The needle of radium, less than half an inch long, is valued at $1,000.

VOTING ONLY BEGINS

Belle Horizonte, Brazil—(AP)—Members of the municipal administration here refused to give up their jobs when voted out of office, and prepared to hold the town hall by arms.

When the newly elected staff padlocked the building and carried on business outside, however, the old group came out through the windows and surrendered.

Pegler Recalls Visit To the Pope in 1930

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—I was a member of a large party which was received by the pope, who is now dying, during a visit to Rome in 1930. Dave Darrah, the correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, who later was expelled from Italy by Mussolini, made the arrangements through some connection of his at the Vatican and we were advised to wear dinner jackets, although the reception was to be at 10 in the morning. My companion was a Methodist and the son of a famous Methodist revivalist. He took his Methodism very seriously, but was a student of history and a born sightseer. He had visited castles and tombs and volcanoes diligently for 10 days and it was he who volunteered the visit to the Vatican, even though he was told that if he went he would be required to kneel on both knees and kiss the pontiff's ring. Mr. Darrah informed us that it was customary to kiss the ring at these receptions and that it was better to do so genuinely or remain away altogether. Because if one did not kiss it, the pope would stand still, instead of passing on, and repeat the gesture with his hands until the individual did touch the ring with his lips.

My Methodist friend was slightly perplexed, because his instincts resisted, but he said he would comply with all the customs of the occasion, and at 9:30 of a cold, rainy morning we were ready in the incongruous dress required by the etiquette of the ceremony. We spoke no Italian, and my friend tried to impress the taxi driver by yelling "Va-ti-can" in a loud voice, and then "pope" and "You take-a me Vatican-a." The driver finally nodded and drove rapidly through squalid streets, pulling up with a broad smile in front of a fish store.

Our time was getting short and there was another harrangue, and this time the driver shut us back in the cab and delivered us to the Vatican where a Swiss guard, standing with either a pike or a battle-axe, pointed to a flight of stone stairs. We climbed one, long flight to a room where the men were leaving their hats and overcoats, and I remember looking for the hat-checker, because some of the hats and coats were not very good. I had lost an overcoat in one of those grab-bag arrangements in Denver a long time ago and I must have had a mental flash-back to that misfortune.

Well, there is nothing lacking in Pegler. "If a Methodist can take a chance, you ought to," my friend said, and we advanced up another long stone flight to a room where about a hundred men and women were sitting stiffly around all four sides, many of them yawning sleepily, for most of them were tourists, and tourists are apt to stay up too late. The women were dressed in black and covered clear up to the chin and wore black veils on their heads, some of them merely rented for the occasion. Through a large door we saw in a stone hall a party of little girls and young women dressed in white, pilgrims from either Germany or Denmark, as I remember, and a crowd of young men, apparently from some European country, dressed in black, but not in the conventional dinner jackets, which still seemed queer to me, for I associated this attire with night clubs and frivolous behavior. There seemed to be a constant traffic of pilgrims from countries near and far.

After all our rush and anxiety, we now waited 45 minutes, and were then beckoned, a selected dozen or so of us, into a smaller room, where we stood in a semi-circle facing a door from which there issued a mumbled sound. After a few minutes, I recognized occasional Latin words and assumed that some religious preliminary was taking place. Presently there was a faint tinkling and a thin, old man backed through the door into our room wearing a formal uniform such as ambassadors wear, and holding a cane.

As So Pegler Finally Saw the Pope
The pope was only a few steps away, his eyes half closed as he recited an unintelligible prayer, and proceeded slowly around the group who had knelt and bowed their heads at his appearance. Although we bowed, I was eager to see the pope's face, so I took a chance and looked up obliquely when he was still a little way from me. Some how the illusion had captured me and I must have been anticipating a divine apparition. Then I looked down and concentrated my gaze on the pope's small, pink slippers, enclosing feet which in his youth had climbed dangerous alpine peaks.

My Methodist friend conducted himself most politely and, though he afterward said he would never be able to square himself back at the university, his comment and were strangely dignified, considering that he came of a religious group, and in a section of the country where in his youth the pope had been depicted as a sort of ogre.

We were, I think, lifted from reality into a detached, spiritual condition for a moment or two, but this soon passed. We then found our coats and hats exactly as we had left them and returned to the hotel, not saying much.

Herd Averages 54.6 Pounds of Fat in December

Nine Registered Holsteins Set Pace for Improvement Association

A herd of nine registered Holsteins owned by H. C. Stichman, New London, set high production record for the Outagamie County Holstein Dairy Herd Improvement association No. 1 in December, averaging 1,300 pounds of milk and 54.6 pounds of butterfat, according to Donald Decker, fieldman.

The 21 grade Holsteins owned by Erwin Tellock, Appleton, placed second with an average of 1,241 pounds of milk and 41.8 pounds of butterfat while 24 registered Holsteins owned by Hilmer G. Mueller, Seymour, took third with 1,089 pounds of milk and 36.3 pounds of fat.

George McElroy, Hortonville, is owner of 32 Brown Swisses, which averaged 711 pounds of milk and 28.4 pounds of fat to place fourth while the Outagamie county asylum herd of 56 grade Holsteins placed fifth with an average of 862 pounds of milk and 28.3 pounds of fat.

One of Stichman's registered Holsteins set high individual mark with 1,976 pounds of milk containing 18.1 pounds of butterfat in 27 days. A registered Holstein owned by Walter Wieckert, Appleton, was second with 1,553 pounds of milk containing 87 pounds of fat.

Another cow in the Stichman herd placed third with a December record of 2,000 pounds of milk containing 72 pounds of butterfat. A third animal in the same herd tied with another registered Holstein in the herd of Emil Uhlenbruck, Appleton for fourth with 69.4 pounds of fat each.

Owners of cows which produced 40 or more pounds of milk during December are Harry Armatage, Dale; 3; Albert Kaufman, Dale; 1; Charles Carpenter, Hortonville; 3; Erwin Tellock, Appleton; 13; George Fainbach, Appleton; 3; Outagamie county asylum; 8; Mrs. L. County Court to Hear Eleven Probate Cases Hearings in 11 probate cases are scheduled for a regular term of Outagamie county court before Judge Fred V. Heinemann. The calendar lists a hearing on administration in the estate of Lena Kirschenloore, hearings on claims in the estates of William J. Corrigan, A. G. Hartzenberg, Henrietta Mahn, Harry Ames, Jacob Van Linn, Anna Van Heeswyk and Felix Weinberg, and hearings on final account in the estates of Philip Kurey, George C. Limpert, and Estella E. Grunert.

Chicken Pox Heads List Of Diseases in County

Chicken pox, with 13 cases in Appleton, headed the list of communicable diseases reported in Outagamie county during the week ended Dec. 26, according to a report to Miss Marie Klein, county nurse from the state board of health. The report also listed one case of measles in Appleton, one of pneumonia in the

'36 War on Accidents Causes Cuts Number Of Traffic Fatalities in City, County

BY DON CHRISTIANSEN

Attacking on several fronts, Appleton and Outagamie county in 1936 began a new war on automobile accidents, combining education, increased protection and drastic law enforcement in a program probably contributed heavily to the year's reduction in automobile fatalities.

As safety consciousness became more apparent throughout the nation, Appleton equipped a new mounted traffic squad in its police department, provided, through the police, a new feature of safety education in its schools, brought the problem of traffic to its civic organizations, "cracked down" on traffic law violators, and was represented by a number of representatives on the new Outagamie County Street and Highway Safety Council.

With its highway commissioner heading the safety council, the county doubled its force of highway police not only to check traffic law violations but to provide additional accident protection. The safety council, attracting members from all towns, villages and cities, began spreading the gospel of caution and courtesy, while peace officers, including the sheriff's department and municipal police, joined in the new campaign to reduce automobile fatalities, injuries and property damage.

Vote Use of Radio
A new weapon in the accident war will be in use shortly after the new year begins. At its November session, the Outagamie county board voted funds to share the cost of enlarging the Winnebago county police radio transmitter and the expense of operating the station jointly for Outagamie, Winnebago, Waubesa and Fond du Lac counties. Shavano county now may join in the radio control system and with Brown county operating a station of its own, nearly the entire Fox river valley area will be covered by radio facilities which are expected to play a large part not only in the apprehension of traffic law violators but other law breakers as well.

An important service of the radio will be the almost immediate contact of highway police whenever serious accidents are reported. First aid and other assistance by patrolmen has been credited with the saving of lives in areas now covered by radio, and with the system in operation throughout the valley, further reduction in the traffic toll may be made, radio supporters claim.

Fewer Deaths in 1936
Whatever the cause, 1936 saw fewer automobile fatalities in Appleton than in any of the last five years for which detailed charts, prepared by Lieutenant Herbert K. Kapp of the Appleton police department, are available.

There was only one automobile death in the city, and because that occurred at the intersection of a sidewalk and a private driveway, and not on a public street, Appleton may be credited with a perfect record for the year.

Whether the one death is charged against the city or not, the year marked a substantial improvement over the horrible 1935 record of seven deaths, and brought the total number of fatalities in the county down to 11. It was better than the previous safety peak of two deaths in 1934 and an improvement over the 5-fatality record of 1932 and four in 1933.

Prints Daily Record
For the first time the Appleton Post-Crescent printed a daily record of the Outagamie county accidents about which accounts were carried in its news columns, showing the number of accidents, the number of persons injured and the toll of deaths. At the end of the year, the record showed 334 accidents, 263 persons injured and 11 killed.

No comparable records are available for the county in any preceding years, but in 1937, the Post-Crescent will show daily the number of accidents, injuries and deaths reported to that date together with the figures for the corresponding day of 1936. Whether efforts to reduce the accident toll are effective or not will be indicated in some measure by the comparative figures.

A sidelight of the 1936 traffic picture was the record number of convictions for drunken driving. Whether the number of drunken drivers or merely the number of convictions has increased is debated but in 1936 41 motorists pleaded or were found guilty of the offense, a substantially larger number than was recorded in any of the preceding four years.

Convictions Increase
Only 12 drunken drivers were convicted in the county in 1932 and the same number in 1933. The next year the figure increased to 19 and in 1935 it reached 27.

A new traffic squad, composed of four motorcycle police, was organized at the Appleton police department late last May and Chaffee Carl Radtke, later promoted to the rank of sergeant, was placed in charge. At the same time, two additional patrolmen were added to the police force for regular duty.

In addition to directing the traffic squad, of which he is one of the members, Sergeant Radtke, with the cooperation of Chief George T. Prim, Lieutenant Herbert W. Kapp and public and parochial school officials, inaugurated a school safety campaign designed particularly to reduce the number of accidents in which youngsters are involved.

Talks at Schools
In less than five months, Radtke spoke at 18 schools, at some of them on more than one occasion, talking street and highway safety to 5,572 school students. He also addressed service clubs at Appleton and New London and gave a radio broadcast. Radtke attended a traffic officers training course at Northwestern university and recently the official publication of the National Traffic Officers' Training association carried in an outline of elementary school safety training a number of suggestions by Sergeant Radtke and Chief Prim of the Appleton department.

One feature of the traffic law enforcement in the city during 1936 was heavy curb on parking law violators. Attempting to provide parking space for shoppers in the business area, police brought scores of Appleton motorists into court for breaking the city's 30-minute parking ordinance. Generally those who received tickets paid $2 and costs and were careful after that. Very few appeared in court on more than one occasion.

Form Safety Council
Early in the year, the Outagamie county street and highway safety council was organized, including representatives from all parts of the county, and headed by F. R. Appleton, county highway commissioner. The organization is a unit in the general safety program launched by the state highway commission and under the general chairman has committee heads for education, engineering, statistics and enforcement.

Work of the council included educational meetings, distribution of copies of "And Sudden Death," sale of safety emblems for display on automobiles and other activities designed to make all residents of the county more conscious of traffic dangers and the need for reducing accidents.

One of the measures advocated by the council was an increase in the number of county highway police. The suggestion found favor with county officials and the traffic squad, previously composed of only two men, was increased to four.

Mishaps Increase
Although the number of automobile fatalities in Appleton in 1936 was the lowest of any year for which records are available, the number of accidents reported was highest. A new state law requiring reports to the highway commission on all accidents involving damage over $50 or personal injury may have increased the number reported to police, but whatever the cause, the 1936 total to Dec. 31 was 190.

The number of injured, 87, was greater than in 1932, 1933 or 1934 but less than in 1935 when the 165 accidents recorded included 82 in which only property damage was involved but 83 involving injury to 97 persons including 27 pedestrians, and death to 7 including 5 pedestrians.

The 1932 record shows 121 accidents in the city, 61 involving only property damage but 50 involving injury to 69 persons including 25 pedestrians and death to 3 including 4 pedestrians. In 1933, the number of accidents increased to 141, 84 involving only property damage, and 57 involving injury to 67 persons including 21 pedestrians, and death to 4 including 1 pedestrian. The record for 1934 shows accidents, 62 involving only property damage and 58 involving injury to 72 persons, 29 of them pedestrians, and death of 2 pedestrians.

Pedestrians Injured
The number of injured pedestrians remained comparatively constant despite differences in the total number of accidents reported, ranging from 21 in 1933 to 31 in 1936.

In number of mishaps reported, August, September and October were the city's worst months in 1936, records showing 21 accidents, 8 injured and 1 dead in August, 21 accidents and 9 injured in September and 27 accidents and 14 injured in October. A higher toll of injuries was recorded in June when 18 persons were injured in as many accidents.

Records for the other months of the year show 14 accidents and 5 injured in January, 11 accidents and 6 injured in February; 9 accidents and 4 injured in March, 10 accidents and 6 hurt in April, 7 accidents and 5 injured in May, 14 accidents and 3 injured in July, 11 accidents and 4 injured in November, and 29 accidents and 7 injured in the first 30 days of December.

Birthday Cake Fails to Make Hit With Gorilla
Philadelphia—(AP)—Massa, central African gorilla, started his second year at the Philadelphia zoo Thursday without a bite of birthday cake. It was all his own fault.

Well-wishers appeared yesterday to cry "surprise, surprise" and offer Massa an anniversary cake, on which was written "Many Happy Returns." Perched atop, for a candle, was a banana.

Hastily Massa devoured the "candle." Then he seized the cake and hurled it at photographers and spectators.

Beer Provides Half of Revenue Taxes in State

Milwaukee—(AP)—Otto A. LaBudde, collector of internal revenue, said Thursday beer manufactured in Wisconsin produced nearly half the internal revenue taxes collected in the state this year.

The beer tax for the fiscal year totaled $26,993,273, nearly $5,000,000 more than the previous year. Total taxes were $58,056,703. Only two states, New York and Pennsylvania, had greater beer tax collections.

REACHING OUT FOR THE MOON

It so happened that on Monday last the Associated Press correspondent at Moscow and Harold Denny, the special correspondent of the New York Times, in pawing over available news at the Russian capital sent almost parallel stories concerning the most important piece they could find.

It is not strange that this news had to do with America. In fact on Monday last all industrial Russia was ringing with descriptions of how industries are conducted in America and orders were going out from hairy and verbose commissars that "we must follow American methods and equal American efficiency."

On the same day Za Industrialsizatsiu, a newspaper dealing with industrial subjects launched a drive to force the adoption of American methods in industry and exposed what it described as the enormous waste and inefficiency caused by prevailing Russian methods and which were attributed to "an excessive number of office employees piling up mountains of paper work which only impeded production."

But Russia is in the coils of the cobra. She is an immense and extensive bureaucracy. Putting aside for the time all arguments concerning the merits or demerits of her socialistic ideas we find her abjectly confessing that government ownership and operation creates almost intolerable conditions.

Ordjoukide, commissar for heavy industry, is in charge of the campaign for efficiency. The Russian papers quote him as saying to the executives of the Kalinin plant:

"You have been to America. You saw American pumpmaking technique. Now you know how the Kalinin plant should work. Be good enough to organize your factory on the American pattern."

"You must arrange so as to get as much production for every man employed as American factories get and the quality of your production must not be lower."

Continuing in this vein Za Industrialsizatsiu printed this message:

"What Ordjoukide said to the Kalinin plant was addressed to all heavy industry. In the coming year a factory's work will be judged primarily by the number of people employed per unit of production. Those who cling to old practices will find themselves in the rear ranks."

If this admission from Moscow is to serve us any particular good let us turn away from the confession of the Russian leaders which is in general terms and seek specifically the dryrot. The newspaper mentioned (and we wish the Russians would start reformation by making their spelling easier) stressed the evil as bureaucracy. It says that strenuous efforts have been made to rid Russia of this consuming evil but that it still flourishes.

Mr. Denny in his cable declares that any stranger in a Soviet office is immediately impressed by the thick ranks of clerks doing work that a small number are able to do in an American office, and he continues:

"It is common for a factory to make out several hundred complicated order cards for the manufacture of one part, whereas in America two small cards suffice. Thus the Kalinin plant employs 1700 workers, whereas an American plant of similar size employs only 600 or 700 Mr. Ordjoukide found only 30 per cent of the Kalinin plant's personnel engaged in actual production. The rest were office employees. In an American factory, he reminded the executives 75 per cent of the personnel is engaged in actual production."

Authorities agree that this stifling and deadening bureaucracy exists throughout the Soviet institutions adding greatly to the cost of goods produced, slowing up industry, tying up manpower, but even worst of all, ruining manpower.

The Soviet officials say that their hundreds of thousands of clerks and bookkeepers have been caused by "the proneness of kind-hearted executives to put and keep people in soft jobs." That is an excusable way of putting it but it avoids the valuable truth.

Where government runs and rules all the tendency of humankind is to work every possible influence to get a soft berth. Relatives are constantly favored. To hide the trail of this bureaucracy an executive places the relatives of another executive upon the agreement that now his back will be scratched in having his relatives taken care of in a separate department, all for the purpose of hiding the trail and deceiving the public. Russia is not demonstrating anything unknown to men. It is merely demonstrating something long known. Bureaucracy and favoritism, corruption and idleness, are as certain to be found with government ownership on an extensive scale as the tick-bird with the rhinoceros.

So it comes down to this: the "toiling proletariat"—ah, how the Russians masters love that expression—must do the work. If they have friends, a voluble tongue, a wily scheme, they may get an inside berth. Otherwise they are as the cattle of the fields, they toil while those who do not spin wear the cloth.

This Russian campaign for American efficiency will do a little good but only for a little while. The basis of American efficiency is the cause of that efficiency. That basis, and therefore that efficiency, is impossible under the Russian flag.

CHAMPION MOTHERS

The other day in Rome was staged one of those spectacles which gladden the hearts of all loyal fascists. Ninety five champion mothers, representing as many provinces, received from the hands of Premier Mussolini purses of 5,000 lire (about $200) and insurance policies worth about 1,000 lire. Among them, the 95 champion mothers have given birth to 812 children. All are living.

No Toronto "baby derby" this. Instead, other expression of loyalty to the fascist state. Italy's premier boasts of a "forest of 8,000,000 bayonets" and he rewards those who supply the shoots from which sturdy saplings are to grow.

More than 1,500,000 Italian boys under the age of 14 now are enlisted under the banners of the Balilla regiments. These sons at the age of six will become Sons of the Wolf, junior organization of the Balillas, will learn elementary drills, to sing the songs of fascism, to salute Il Duce. At the age of eight they will be supplied miniature rifles with fixed bayonets and their military training will begin in earnest. Reaching the age of 14, they will enter the ranks of the Avanguardisti—the advance guard—and, at 18, they will become the young shock troops of the fascist army, trained almost since babyhood in the ways of slaughter.

True, Mussolini disclaims any desire for war. His "forest of bayonets," he says, is protection against aggression, merely. The Ethiopian episode is recalled infrequently, so fast the world moves. Whatever one thinks of Il Duce or of Italian fascism, there must be wonder that Italian mothers can so contentedly surrender their sons to militarism, can so complacently accept awards for outdistancing their neighbors.

Perhaps, however, the Italian dispatches do not tell all the story, do not attempt to describe those mothers' true feelings. It really is not necessary. Any mother, anywhere, will know.

THE MODERATE MAN

We need to listen to the advice of a good neighbor—Lord Tweedsmuir, governor general of Canada.

The other day, in Kingston, Ontario, the degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon him. And, in addressing the assembled dignitaries present at Queen's university, Lord Tweedsmuir revealed something of his philosophy. Said he:

"We are living in a confused and difficult world and in such a time the human mind is predisposed to hasty conclusions. We are all inclined to look for some short cut out of our troubles, some violent course which will shift things suddenly into a new orbit."

"Patience, reasonableness, what we call common sense, are apt to seem counsels of despair. The moderate man is at a discount. Today I would say a few words in his behalf."

The man of energy need not be the rash, inconsiderate, fiery, voluntary. Lord Tweedsmuir was discussing the fact that moderation does not have much attraction, especially for youth; the fact that it is assumed to be an attitude of disillusioned middle age, or even old age. He continued:

"I would suggest to you that this view is a fallacy for it accepts a false definition of moderation. It assumes that it is the stark opposite of enthusiasm. The wise man need not be a sort of Buddha who is content to sit still and twiddle his thumbs."

"The opposite of the moderate is not the enthusiast, but the fanatic."

"The false moderate is one of that dreary type who, when confronted with a problem, always tries to halve the difference. The false moderate keeps in the middle channel, and presently is on a sandbank. The true moderate, with a chart of the course, and using all the knowledge and wits God gave him, may steer one hour close to one bank and the next hour close to the other. His business is not to keep in the mathematical center, but to find deep water."

"The true moderate has moral courage. The false moderate, of course, has no courage at all."

A 500-pound Poland China sow, owned by 14-year-old Dick Cornelius of Fairfax, Okla., farrowed 12 pigs. All but three lived.

"Uncle Jim" Dickey, owner of a bait stand near Port Isabel, Tex., caught an octopus recently, the first ever captured alive there. It measured about two feet across.

The planet Jupiter is accompanied by nine satellites.

Using strips of mullet for bait, D. S. Hudson, of Stuart, Fla., caught nine bluefish.

SOUTH BEND, INDIANA, Dec. 31.—(Special to Post-Mortem)—Pandemonium reigned at Union station here when the New York Central 7:20 evening train pulled in from Chicago to be greeted by a howling mob. Center of the confusion seemed to be a Wisconsin newspaper columnist called from a town up in the Indian country fellow from Appleton.

"H'ray, h'ray, h'ray," yelled the crowd, "h'ray, h'ray, h'ray."

The embarrassed Badger stumbled down the car steps while an impromptu band blared "Back Home Again in Indiana" and the cheering reached new heights.

"I told you I was a big shot at home," he was heard to shout at his wife.

The crowd, largely made up of well-dressed New Year's revelers whooped its approval.

"H'ray for th' big shot, h'ray, h'ray!"

Bewildered, the Appleton gent turned as if to go back into the train only to be shoved back on to the platform by another detachment of celebrants who entered the car through another door and came charging down the aisle. Then the train pulled out, carrying a few whoopsters with it, but leaving the man from the Indian country standing in the maelstrom of howling humanity.

At the edge of the mob, two people who were later identified as relatives of the center of attraction, fought unsuccessfully to work their way up to the popular Wisconsinite.

"Something's screwy about this," one of them remarked.

"Speech! Speech!" the crowd demanded. The nervous guy from the sticks made an effort to flee. Half a dozen greeters seized him, however, and unceremoniously swung him to the top of a baggage truck where he clung to a trunk and weakly waved his hat in an effort to calm the mob.

For several minutes more the shouting continued and three of the crowd engaged in fist-cuffs to see who would act as master of ceremonies and introduce the visiting celebrity. One 250 pound gentleman with arms like length of cordwood gained the floor.

"Ladies an' gentlemen," he roared.

The crowd roared back at him.

"Who's a lady?" screamed one dame. Meanwhile the baggage truck rocked precariously and the master of ceremonies fell off. Another one climbed aboard and threw an arm around the neck of the frantic man from Wisconsin.

"My fran-n-n-n-s," he intoned, "let's give three rousing cheers for good ol' Joe Scrunch of Davenport Iowa. Good ol' Joe Scrunch, we haven't seen him in five years."

The witting Wisconsinite looked as though he had been stabbed.

"Who did you say I was?" he asked frantically.

"Joe Scrunch," said the m.c. peering at him.

"But I'm not Joe Scrunch," protested the Badger.

"My Gawd," yelled the m.c. at the crowd, "it ain't Joe Scrunch. We met the wrong train."

Then both of them fell off the baggage truck and the crowd went over to wait at another track.

"Big shot, huh?" asked the Indian country man's wife.

10 YEARS AGO

Friday, Dec. 31, 1926

Fishing shanties belonging to Paul Tews, Jr., and Fritz Weideman, Jr., Menasha, were broken into Thursday evening, but the owners regained their stolen property before the burglar had time to get away with it after a lively sprint on the ice.

Members of the Rainbow club and their husbands will be entertained at a "watch night" party Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Krueger, 325 E. Wisconsin avenue. Five hundred will be played, and there will be an oyster stew at midnight.

When Chief of Police R. H. McCarty of Kaukauna applied for 1927 license plates for his two cars, he asked for number 1875, the number which coincides with the year of his birth. His request was complied with.

Led by Harold Bries, Appleton star, Coach George Christoph's Lawrence college cagers showed a complete reversal of form over their play against the Chicago Maroons on Tuesday night in a battle with the Chicago Y.M.C.A. college Thursday evening and walked off with a hardfought 34-29 victory.

25 YEARS AGO

Friday, Jan. 5, 1912

Another new low mark was set the previous night when the mercury dropped to 20 below zero. The cold wave which arrived five days ago was expected to continue.

William Neumann sold his West End Barber shop Wednesday to Fred Ackmann. Mr. Neumann had been in the barber business for 33 years.

Miss Christina Heindl, Kaukauna, and Peter J. Goss, Milwaukee, were married that day at Holy Cross church in Kaukauna with the Rev. P. J. Lochman in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schneider, who returned from a honeymoon trip the previous day, were guests at a surprise party at the home of Mrs. E. Perkinson, on the river road to Neenah.

County Clerk William Wolf, who has been confined to his home in Black Creek for two weeks with illness, returned to his duties that day.

Personal Health Talks

CONSERVATION OF THE TEETH

Some of my friends among the dentists—oh, well, then, acquaintances—call attention to some effects of the rite of brushing the teeth that I must acknowledge to be of positive value in the conservation of the teeth. These are, first, the psychological effect, and second, the massage effect.

The daily ceremony of brushing the teeth, like the conceit about being prepared to slay over the week end if one has one's toothbrush along, tends to keep attention on the condition of the teeth and hence to favor prompt dentistry whenever such treatment may be needed. After all, it is the skill of the dentist in detecting and repairing the beginning of caries or tooth decay that saves the teeth, and anything that may bring the blighters to the dentist's chair before the damage has advanced too far should be encouraged by the health promoter.

At first blush this argument is quite convincing. Yet I have a vague notion there's a flaw in it somewhere. But never mind now. If it is defective we'll discover presently what's wrong with it. If brushing the teeth has this effect, then I'm for brushing the teeth, every week or two if necessary, though this is not to be construed as an endorsement of any special dentifrice or toothbrush. It means simply that in my judgment any nonsense or nonkneeshine within reason is justifiable if it makes more people seek proper dental care earlier and oftener.

An older and more familiar argument in support of the practice of brushing the teeth leaves me as cold as does the perennial political cry "let us have modesty in government." It runs like this: If we would return to the mode of life of our remote ancestors and subsist wholly upon natural, unrefined foods, our teeth would perhaps be strong and sound, better nourished, and the gums and jaws better developed from exercise and massage in masticating roughage, gnawing bones, cracking nuts, grinding grains, etc. But subsisting on refined food we need the stimulus of vigorous brushing of teeth and gums as massage of the gums to help keep the gums and mouth in more vigorous condition....

The main trouble with this theory is that there is no way to determine how sound it may be. Who can say whether the millions of people who faithfully massage their gums in this manner have better teeth than they would have had without the practice? We all know that the half of the world that brushes its teeth has no better teeth than the other half that doesn't. Indeed, the most nearly perfect teeth have been found in places where the people never brush their teeth, and these people do not eat such crude or primitive food as we might imagine—fresh vegetables, fish, eggs, some cereals, occasionally a little meat, plenty of milk.

However, all are agreed upon the healthfulness of the habit of eating daily some raw vegetable, such as carrot, lettuce, cabbage, turnip potato or any other vegetable you like, in salad or as a relish with or in place of or between meals.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Shoes Do It
Just a line to express my appreciation of your valuable advice about foot trouble. I believe the shoes were the cause, for my trouble has disappeared since I began wearing shoes such as you recommend.... (Miss M. A. K.)

Answer—Yes, the shoes are a big factor. Glad to send instructions for the care of the feet to any one who provides a stamped addressed envelope.

No Symptoms

Kindly publish some of the symptoms of peptic ulcer. Would peptic ulcer be easily recognized by a physician in the case of a nervous person?... (E. M. C.)

Answer—No symptoms—this is a health claim.

Moth Balls for Mice

I had considerable trouble with mice getting into closets and dressers. I simply scattered a few moth balls, and was not again troubled by mice.... (J. T.)

Answer—I don't blame the mice much. The moth ball aroma is certainly not attractive.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York — Edgar Varese, the composer, whose modern symphony in which chains were clanked and factory whistles whistled caused sensation several years ago, is back from the southwest and worrying about a missing string of snake's rattles.

He fears they are lost and is greatly disturbed because, in a fashion, they stand as a symbol of conquered fear. A dislike of reptiles almost persuaded him against going to Santa Fe last spring, and had he heeded it he would have missed many experiences which were necessary to the completion of his new composition, "Space."

The rattles, incidentally, were the gift of an Indian who thinks it fun to capture snakes and strip them of their rattles.

Space Into Music

Varese grows rhapsodic when he speaks of the air, the color, the desert, and the mountains of New Mexico. And, being an artist, he translates them into terms of music.

"In music until now," he says, "growing slightly technical, 'rhythm' can be defined as order and proportion in time. In my new conception I imagine rhythm as order and proportion in time and in space."

"By projection I mean the feeling given us by certain blocks of sound—I should call them beams of sound, as the feeling is akin to that aroused by beams of light, sent forth by a powerful search light. For the ear, as for the eye, it gives us a sense of prolongation, a journey into space."

Strictly a pioneer, this pleasant, intensely interested young Frenchman believes that music in the future will have to be written for new and completely unorthodox instruments.

His eyes flamed with excitement, Varese launched into a favorite theme:

"These new instruments will give the composer possibilities in sound combinations far beyond the present human-power orchestra."

"He will be able to speculate on the wealth of polyrhythmic possibilities. Any number of frequencies will be made possible—any inten-

Your Birthday

"CAPRICORN"

If January 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:15 a. m. to 1:15 p. m., from 2:15 to 4:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:15 to 11:15 a. m., from 4:15 to 6:15 p. m. and from 10:15 p. m. until midnight.

Wrong thinking can extinguish the flame of love, and from its ashes, Phoenix like, will spring needlessly sorrow. If you are wise you will realize that true love is a rare treasure, which, if cast ruthlessly aside, will bring in later years many regretful memories. Evil influences threaten this day to destroy deep affections, as well as romantic attachments. There may exist a strong temptation to satisfy some whim or desire, by assuming a financial obligation. "Debt is the prolific mother of folly," so fight shy of it. Married and engaged couples, as well as those into whose lives a great love has come, must be very cautious of their words and deeds this day, for bitter quarrels may originate from either.

If a woman and January 2 is your birthday, you may be inclined too often to look on the dark side of things. Cultivate being optimistic. Superstitions must not be permitted to gain a hold in your intellect. Faculties, if you do not wish to become their slave. You will be wise to pay no attention to idle gossip, for frequently it is an insidious poison to the peace of mind. You are apt to be so trusting that you seldom question what is told to you. This is unwise. You inspire love and loyalty. Courageous, you fear few things, and probably take many unnecessary risks. As an office executive, sales lady, purchasing agent, newspaper woman, actress, concert singer or artist you may achieve a great success. Marriage, in all likelihood, is going to fulfill your dream of happiness.

The child born on January 2, in its early youth, perhaps, will display either an exceptional amount of artistic or mechanical talent. It should be unusually honest. Affectionate and lovable it will make its way through life winning worthwhile friendships.

If a man and January 2 is your natal day, strength of character, liberality of thought, as well as a benevolent disposition, are probably your outstanding characteristics. The church, theatre, courtroom, lecture platform, pen or brush may enable you to win renown.

sity and any differentiation of timbre."

Mons. Varese, his rattlesnakes out of mind for the moment, pointed to Beethoven as one who anticipated modern music. "Beethoven dreamed of things beyond his power to carry out."

These new instruments, Varese thinks, will take care of all that.

Mass Interview

Thousands of high school editors throughout the country who have petitioned Helen Hayes for an interview have been made happy, but Miss Hayes was hard put to figure out a way to grant them. Finally she notified all applicants that the interview would be granted. However, it'll be something of a "press conference." She's to meet them en masse at the Broadhurst around the first of the year.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Long after the depression is over its problem child—the unemployables—will remain to trouble and perplex both local and federal administrations.

It has been at least six years since a man could get a job about any place and any time he wanted. It six years is a long time in the 30 or 40 year working period of a man's life. What may have happened to him in those years?

Economists, welfare workers and employers have had experience before with depressions and their aftermath. They know it takes something out of a man to be without a satisfying job for an extended period. Morale falls and skill diminishes.

Holdover Problem

The net effect must once skilled men, three to six years away from his trade, is to make it hard for him to get back the job he once had. Naturally it is toughest on the less skilled, the "marginal" worker, who had employment at his trade only when times were fair to mid-dling good.

With his skill diminished from disuse, several years added to his age, he represents a holdover problem to worry relief agencies long after many loose ends of the depression have been gathered up.

When Administrator Harry Hopkins turned back to the states the care of "unemployables," a million more or less, he had reference largely to aged, ill and lame whose condition could scarcely be chargeable fully to the depression.

But what about the "moderately employable" man who can't quite cut his way back into private employ even when better days bring more jobs?

Looking at that spectacle, relief experts predict a dozen years hence public money—federal, state or local—will be dribbling out of veterans of the great war of the depression.

NYA Jobs Go Begging

Some colleges in Washington have three to six years away from half of their quotas of $25-a-month jobs under the National Youth Administration. Many students hunt out full time patronage jobs as elevator operators for congress, or as capital police, then go to school on the side.

Minstrel Show May be Staged at Royaltown

Special to Post-Crescent

Royaltown—Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Helm and daughter Ruth left for Chicago on Wednesday to take charge of a grocery store during the owner's visit in Florida. Mr. Helm will continue to buy eggs and poultry from this section once each week.

The Rev. A. W. Sneesby called a meeting of the men of his parish to be held at the Francis Dean home on Monday evening to make plans for a minstrel show which he hopes to put on in the near future.

The men from Royaltown township met at the town hall on Tuesday to sign applications for their grant on soil conservation.

Mrs. John Claasson entertained the Hobart Domestic club Wednesday afternoon.

The official board of the congregational church held a business meeting at the Carroll Ritchie home on Thursday evening.

School Site Problem and Wriston's Resignation Outstanding News Stories

BY KUTZ DERUS

Settlement of the senior high school site problem, the police clash with students in the Lawrence college peace day parade, and the resignation of Dr. Henry Merritt Wriston as president of Lawrence college were the highlights in the Appleton news during 1936, a survey of the Post-Crescent front pages show.

Selection of a site for the new high school was made when the council and board of education agreed to a compromise site after a long struggle. The Salm and present sites in a referendum. Police clubs echoed on Appleton's College avenue as patrolmen, acting under department instructions, forced Lawrence students to confine their peace day activities to college campus. One student was killed in the melee.

Dr. Wriston stunned the student body at convocation several months later with the announcement of his resignation. The next day it was announced that he would be president of Brown university at Providence, R. I.

Menasha's high school fire occupied front page space in early spring, but there were no large fires in the city. Leppala's Corners came into the spotlight when two persons in a Milwaukee motor car were killed in an auto accident, and the intersection of Highways 55 and 10 also figured in two fatal crashes.

Many Deaths

The grim reaper took his toll of prominent Appleton citizens. Unusual accidents in cars, homes, on farms and in the woods and the weather figured in front page stories.

Joseph Grassberger, a city mailman for 36 years, retired from service on Jan. 1 and two days later died of a heart ailment. Dr. M. H. Small, a former school head, died at his home. George Walsh, for 18 years a leader in the retail clothing business, died on Jan. 6, a day which also marked the deaths of Andrew Jackson Maine, inventor of car moving equipment for the Chicago and North Western Railway, and Oscar Miller, head of Appleton Wood Products company and the Advance Car Mover company.

Myron T. Ray was elected president of the Wisconsin Paper Group, representative of 27 state paper mills, on Jan. 8, and Appleton admirers of John Gilbert, a movie star, joined in mourning his death on Jan. 9.

Denies Murder Charge

Donald J. Sheboygan, pleaded not guilty to murder, Jan. 11 in the fatal shooting of William Bloominghouse Jr. 29, 1933 at the Log Cabin tavern north of Appleton. Frank Oskay pleaded not guilty the same day to charges growing out of a hit-and-run killing on Badger avenue.

The council advised the city's withdrawal from the Outagamie county relief grant. Jan. 16 as Bruno Richard Hauptmann, got a 30-day reprieve in the Luedbergh baby kidnapping murder on Jan. 16. Appleton police connected William Nash and Joseph Becker, arrested for a series of burglaries at Green Bay and Menasha, with several unsolved crimes in Appleton on Jan. 16. A blizzard in 7 below zero weather tied up traffic and started county and city snow removal equipment into a 24-hour service.

Pastor Dies

The death of the Rev. W. R. Wetzel, pastor of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church and head of the Fox River Valley Ministerial association was told in the Jan. 18 issue. A Post-Crescent headline in reference to England's throne situation read "Bachelor King Cannot Wed Other Than Royal Princess." The story referred to Edward's assumption of the crown. M. H. Niesen, a leading Kaukauna citizen and owner of High Cliff park, died that day.

Donald Lynch was convicted of first degree murder and given a life sentence in state prison on Jan. 22 for shooting William Bloominghouse Jr. The thermometer registered 21 degrees below on Jan. 22, 21 below on Jan. 23, 26 below on Jan. 24 and 21 below on Jan. 25.

Deputies were sent to quell a strike at the Outagamie county detention camp, and the game of monopoly reached its popularity peak in the city on Jan. 25. Club Reta, a night club at Menasha, was destroyed Jan. 27 as an Appleton man, Leland Feavel, died from the blazing structure where he had been sleeping.

Opening of an office to help servicemen get their bonus took place on Jan. 29 and Sergeant W. A. Spearbraker retired after 30 years of army service.

Nine Inches of Snow

Mayor Goodland announced he would not be a candidate for reelection as nine inches of snow, whipped by a strong wind left the city snowbound in 20 below zero weather on Feb. 5. Five persons escaped freezing to death as their car stalled near Appleton in 24 below zero weather. Otto Zuehlke, former Outagamie county sheriff, died Feb. 6.

A shortage of coal and food products led the city on Feb. 10 and Victor De Decker, 8 years, died of blood poisoning precipitated by a coasting accident. Mayor Goodland, yielding to the pressure of friends, announced he would run for reelection on Feb. 17. Twenty-three below zero was recorded on Feb. 18, and 20 passengers on a Chicago and North Western Railway train were guests of the railroad overnight at an Appleton hotel.

Frank Kischer, town of Center recuse, died Feb. 24 after freezing his feet and left an estate of $30,000. The oldest home in the city was moved to Pierce park and A. C. Rule filed papers in the mayoralty race on Feb. 25.

In March a citizens' committee urged the State street or Badger avenue sites for the new senior high school, and William Peterson, Appleton Reds star fullback, was crushed to death in a truck accident near Milwaukee. John F. Schoettler, one of the organizers of the Aid Association for Lutherans, died.

Seymour Men Duped

Seymour was visited by "Wallingford" Byers, who cashed worthless checks totaling nearly $1,000. Clarence Kraft of Winneconne died in a flaming auto as helpless witnesses watched a Menasha paper mills faced a shutdown due to low water on March 12.

A scarlet fever epidemic, with 43 cases, paralyzed activity in the village of Combined Locks on Friday, March 13. George Else was saved from icy waters of the Wolf at New London on that day and the next day four more cases of scarlet fever developed in Combined Locks. A farm child died in a blazing home in Deer Creek and students of an Appleton school wrote to the governor asking whether a teacher could force them to stay after school.

Appleton was hailed as the 1935 leader in building and construction in records of 15 major cities on March 17 and Thomas Glasheen was found in the ruins of his farm home after a fire. Accounts of the Menasha high school fire in which three men were injured, filled the front page on March 21, and a dust storm featured the news on March 24.

Oskay Acquitted

Frank Oskay was acquitted on March 26 and Kaukauna victims of an auto accident filed a $14,000 damage suit. Herb Heilig was named president of the Fox river valley and lakeshore district vocational school directors group. Seventy thousand acres of land were flooded between Shawano and Fremont by spring thaws and Doris Blumer, a Lawrence student, was killed in an auto accident March 30. Fred Hanneman and Louis Mahler were killed when their auto hit a large rock at Marion.

Mrs. Paul Hanneman died after a fall from a second story porch on April 7 and Mayor Goodland was reelected on April 8. Harry Hoffel defeated Oscar Schmiede by 25 votes for city attorney; and Mrs. Edward Pontio and her two sons were accidentally drowned when they broke through the ice on a pond at Weyauwega. Lytle Minischmidt, former high school football player, died of a shotgun wound. A $10,000 fire razed the Shell service station in Menasha. April 22 marked the organization of Veterans of Future Wars and two days later three students were clubbed by Appleton police as they broke through a police cordon on Drew street despite orders to remain on the campus. Grover Cotton was drowned in the Fox river on April 24 and Sylvester Bludau of Wauwatosa was killed in an auto accident at New London. R. H. McCarty was named postmaster at Kaukauna. The following day six men were arrested in a car stolen in Appleton and confessed plans to rob the Nichols bank.

Percy Huebner was killed when struck by piling on a city sewer job and on May 4 the high school band and orchestra won honors at the state music tournament. Eugene Nytes accidentally drowned in the Fox river at Kaukauna and state agents nabbed seven persons in raids on illicit liquor plants. A Neenah youngster strangled on a toy balloon and Irene Ellenbecker was a victim of auto crash injuries. A. L. Franke, professor of speech at Lawrence college, resigned to accept a similar post at the University of Wisconsin.

Wins Tournament

Chester Koss won the Post-Crescent marble tournament on May 18 and three Bear Creek men were held after a hit-and-run accident near Antigo. Henry Leeman died in a crash at Clintonville and three were killed and ten injured in a car accident at Menasha. Theodore King, Mrs. Andrew Swamp and Lawrence Maas, three of ten persons riding on one car, were killed. Loot from the Bank of Kaukauna robbery in 1930 was recovered in Denver and the holdup attributed to the Dillinger gang.

Bankers Group 3 convened here on May 22 and on May 21 the first auto fatality in Outagamie county occurred at Little Chute where Eugene Van Handel, 4, was run over in the driveway of his home. Sam Favia shot an itinerant salesman during an altercation in the Club La Vida, he admitted to the Shawano county sheriff.

Two persons died in farm fires in a 3-mile area near Wrightstown on May 27 and the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool announced proposed construction of a $150,000 plant at Center Valley. The school board reaffirmed a previous decision and picked the Salm site for a new high school. A Wisconsin-Michigan Power company lineman was killed in a fall from a pole on June 2.

Cheesemakers Gather

Seven hundred cheesemakers gathered here on June 3 Lawrence college held class day exercises on June 6 with distribution of 105 diplomas at commencement June 8. Donald Lenz was killed in an automobile accident near Oshkosh after graduation exercises at Neenah High school and a day later 100 delegates attended the first session of the state Moose convention. A lone robber got $46 in a holdup of the Butth Oil company and $1,000,000 was ready for distribution in bonus payments to war veterans in Outagamie county.

Vienny Levi Vedner bumped a door in the dark at Waupaca and died of the injury on June 16. The council again rejected the Salm property for a school site. Dr. F. P. Deoherty, former city physician, died on June 19 and Carl Gaertner and Ted Kelley were killed in a car-train smashup at Neenah. Frank Vandehey was killed by an auto at Little Chute on June 24.

Stephen D. Balliet took over postmaster duties on July 1. One person was killed and twenty-six were injured over the July 4 holiday. Two men were hurt when the walls of the old Menasha school building collapsed as they were clearing the school site. It was 102 degrees above zero on the July 8 issue which announced the discovery of the body of William Merton in Oneida creek.

104 Above Zero

The next day a temperature of 104 degrees was registered and two deaths were attributed to the heat. The following day four more heat deaths were recorded and five persons were prostrated in the heat wave. Six new deaths were reported on July 11, with a temperature of 98 degrees. Rainfall gave a brief respite with the temperature dropping 18 degrees to 35 shortly after noon on July 13. Four more heat deaths were reported. Eleven more persons died from the heat wave on July 14 as a 103 temperature was recorded. W. Remuss of Milwaukee was burned to death in his automobile at Clintonville and Mrs. Hugh Griffiths was blinded by lightning at Waupaca.

The badly decomposed body of Mrs. Nellie Straka and her son, George, were discovered in their home at Kaukauna. Death was caused by food poisoning three days earlier.

Nine more heat deaths were marked up and 44 inches of rainfall was reported in the area. Samuel Glasnap was killed at the intersection of Highways 10 and 55 and John Hussey was killed in a fall at his rooming house in Kaukauna. C. E. Murdock died of injuries in the crash which cost Glasnap's life and August Haase of Menasha was drowned in a gravel pit. John Schmidt, retired Kaukauna banker, died at his home.

Slayer of Chum

LaVerne Marks, son of a Clintonville minister, arrested in Tacoma, Wash., for robbing a taxi driver, confessed to the impulsive slaying of his boyhood chum, Robert Bernstein, at a fishing spot on the Embarras river.

Felix Weinberg was killed in an auto accident near Chilton and police surrounded and captured four persons in a swamp after a holdup at Clintonville. Lawrence Kasper was killed as his automobile struck a piece of farm machinery being moved along a New London highway. George Lemke had a $15,000 fire on his farm at Kaukauna and DeForest M. Hyde, former Lawrence professor, died on Aug. 8 and the front page was filled with Congressman Zioncheck's suicide leap from a hotel window.

Two motorcycles were added to the Outagamie county patrol and the county board appropriated $5,000 to fight tuberculosis. Luther Lundauer, former Kaukauna civic leader, died in California.

Want Salm Site

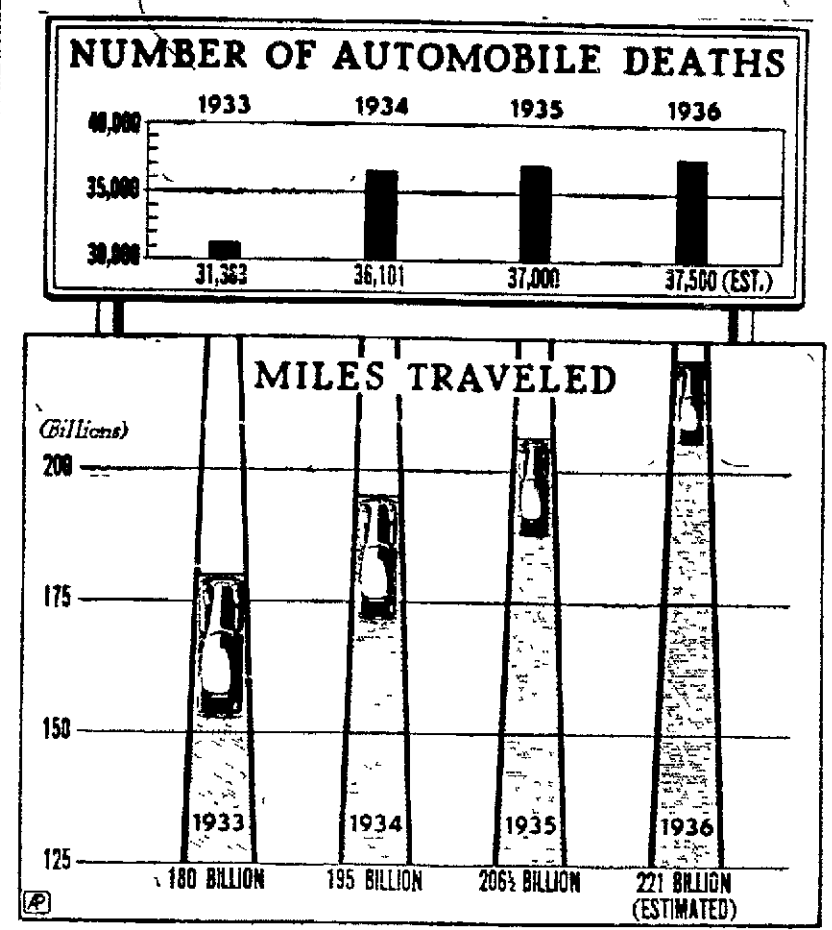

The board of education reaffirmed its choice of the Salm property for a school site on Aug. 25 and the following day ten freight cars piled up in the worst accident in years on the Green Bay and Western line. The Institute of Human Relations got underway at Lawmen college with nationally known figures taking part. The third Outagamie county auto fatality was recorded as Deloris Mae Halloran died under the wheels of a car backing out of a driveway in Appleton.

Aldermen ordered a referendum on Sept. 1 to decide the school site question and two men robbed the state bank at Stockbridge the following day. Frank Lemanske and Joseph Wachtendonck were killed in auto accidents and the county voted down a proposed referendum on salary and duties of the city engineer. Students left for colleges and state bankers met at Neenah-Menasha with John Buehrens of Clintonville being named president. PWA grants totaling $87,53 for four cities were announced on Sept. 12 and on Sept. 15 the Salm and present sites were favored in a referendum.

Oppose Meters

Aldermen turned down parking meters and the board of education offered an enlarged State street area as a compromise site for the new school. Need of new homes was shown in a survey by city mail carrier James P. Kamba of the Appleton Engraving company due on Sept. 21. O. V. Klemm and Joseph J. Smith were killed in auto

AUTO MILEAGE AND DEATHS

Chicago—Auto accident deaths rose one per cent in 1936 but fell off remarkably in relation to mileage traveled, the national safety council estimates. It attributes the improved record to its safety campaign, opened the first of the year, in which 1,000 cities participated.

Judging from records of the first 10 months, the council predicts that 37,500 persons—500 more than last year—will have died in auto smashes by the year's end.

This represents a one per cent increase over the number killed in 1935 but the council considers it a good record because:

1. A greater number of cars than ever before was registered.
2. They traveled an estimated seven per cent or 14 billion miles farther than in 1935.

The chart shows how the picture has changed since 1934 when deaths were 15 per cent higher than 1933 with mileage up eight per cent. In 1935 deaths increased two and one-half per cent as mileage jumped six per cent over 1934.

accidents and John Wolf was gored by a bull at Hortonville. Governor Landon was met by a huge crowd at the Appleton depot on Sept. 25 and surgeons saved the life of Carol Jean Meyer, born at St. Elizabeth hospital with a stomach malformation.

Forty cases of cigarets valued at $2,200 were stolen in a burglary of the S C Shannon company and the state ordered a survey to complete the Outagamie county route of new superhighway 41. The board of education ratified the action of a committee of nine in selecting the Badger avenue site for a new school. The council agreed to the Badger avenue site on Oct. 1 ending a controversy which started nearly 10 years ago. W. C. Doughty, chairman of the town of Liberty, was killed in a car accident and seven tavern owners were nabbed in a county drive on slot machines.

$5,000 Fire

F. J. Rooney, former district attorney, died and the Retson-Jimos building was swept by a $5,000 fire on Oct. 6. The next day 438 delegates attended the state meeting of Women's clubs Ray Wippich and Joe Jack were fatally injured in an auto accident at Freedom and on Oct. 9, Gustave Theid and Robert Roggow were killed and four others injured in a car collision at Leppala's Corners.

Dr. Wriston's resignation was announced in the same issue and the following day his acceptance of the Brown university presidency was confirmed. Less than four hours after the hunting season opened on Oct. 10, Rudolph Marasch was killed in a boat as he reached for his

Brandt were named as architects for the new high school.

M. Alberty, pioneer hotel man and fuel dealer, was accidentally burned to death when he dropped a lighted match at his home on Oct. 31.

Lappen Named Sheriff

John Lappen was named sheriff and Raymond P. Dohr district attorney in close county races as President Roosevelt won by a landslide Nov. 3. John Jacobs, a St. Mary's high school student, at Menasha was killed in an auto accident on the way to classes.

James Tischhauser was killed by a falling tree at Marion and Frank Appleton was renamed to the post of highway commissioner. The county board voted to pay a share of the cost of a new hangar at the county air port and Kimberly Clark announced plans for a big addition to the Lakeview mill at Neenah.

Members of the Outagamie county board of supervisors approved a $620,000 tax levy and Fond du Lac joined with Outagamie and Winnebago counties in a 3-county police radio unit. Reuben Krause got back to Appleton without a deer but was glad to be alive after being lost overnight in the northern woods on Nov. 23. Don Esler pulled Marie Walker from Reichel's Ice pond at Kaukauna after a skating mishap. E. W. Mackey, Manitowoc, was reelected head of the state chamber of commerce at a meeting here on Dec. 1.

14 Below Zero

Dr. Wriston gave his farewell address to Appleton civic clubs at the Hotel Northern Dec. 3 and the temperature hit 14 degrees below zero after the first snowfall on Dec. 7. PWA officials refused a request for a time extension on the high school proposition on Dec. 10 and C. O. Baetz was named superintendent of the sewage plant the next day.

Walter Singler resigned as head of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool on Dec. 14 and Alex. O. Benz, president of the Aid Association for Lutherans, was renamed to his post along with other officers and directors. The Outagamie county unit asked for another vote on Singler's resignation from the presidency of the milk pool on Dec. 17.

The Fox river valley was shocked by the death of Francis "Shocks" Kuchelmeister, a well-known athlete in an auto accident near Kaukauna. Holiday news reports included the shooting of John Jansen on Christmas day at Stockbridge. Marvin Parker returned shotgun fire when the Stockbridge man fired three times at the Parker residence where his estranged wife was staying.

New Year Greeted by Celebrants

WELCOMING the new year in traditional manner, with gayety and the blowing of horns and whistles and dancing, Appleton turned out in large numbers last night to celebrate the coming of 1937 at several large parties, at dance halls and at private homes. The return of something near to prosperity made the crowds of celebrators especially large this year.

Hotel Appleton was crowded to overflowing with the more than 100 couples who attended the benefit party given there by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Confetti and noisemakers greeted the new year at the stroke of midnight, after which a lunch was served. The committee in charge of arrangements included H. L. Davis, Jr., chairman, Stanley Gross, Harold Aykens, Dr. C. E. Rife and Forster Cooper.

Between 200 and 225 couples danced at the Eagles hall. Hats, horns and noisemakers also made their appearance there at midnight. Fred Shaeffer was chairman of the committee in charge, and he was assisted by Anton Luesch, Chris Groth, Joseph Smith, John Alenhofer, Frank Ponschok and Frank Huntz.

The Moose party was a private one, attended by some 30 couples, and included in the number were several out-of-town guests. Gay festooning decorated Moose hall, where dancing took place from 9 o'clock till after midnight. On the committee were Lawrence McGivillan, chairman, Claude Bowlby, William Nowell, Jr., and Theodore Springer, Jr.

About 120 couples attended the New Year's eve dance given by John F. Rose chapter, Order of De Molay. Snow balls, serpentine crepe and miniature hats were distributed to the guests before midnight, so that the new year could be greeted with traditional gayety. Punch and cookies were served from 11 o'clock on, and dancing took place till 2 o'clock. John Rosebush and Frank Hammer, Jr., were co-chairmen of the affair.

Appleton Elks lodge had its annual New Year's eve dance at Elks hall, attended by one of the largest crowds in years. A buffet supper was served at midnight, and favors and noisemakers were given to the guests. The committee which had made arrangements for the affair consisted of J. R. Fromm, chairman, George J. Mignion, Dr. Voigt, George Ward, H. K. DeLain, R. W. Mahoney, William Van Dyck, Joseph Spilker, William Hageman, George Howland, and Alex J. Sauter, Appleton. Dr. W. E. Archer, Dale C. Collip, Menasha, Dr. Frank Murphy, New London, Albert Briggs, Kimberly, and T. A. Nickodem, Seymour.

Guests of Miss Patty Smiley at her home on N. Green Bay street New Year's eve were the Misses Elizabeth Wood, Jean Ruhling and Roma Everlien, and Joe Marston, Donald Bohl, Tom Nolan and Bob Bayley.

After cocktails yesterday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brown, 307 W. Prospect avenue, Dr. and Mrs. Stephan Konz, Mr. and Mrs. George Baichum, of Gillett and the Browns attended the supper-dance given at the Valley Inn, Neenah, last night in celebration of New Year's eve.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilbert J. Weller, 905 N. Rankin street, invited 100 guests to join with them last night in a party welcoming the new year. The group had an 8 o'clock supper and then played contract bridge until midnight. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Kasche, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Monteith, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Miles and Dr. and Mrs. S. Mills.

Younger Set to Be Entertained at New Year's Party

With the excitement of Christmas and New Year's eve and holiday parties almost gone, the younger set of Appleton and the Twin Cities is grateful that a group of 23 young Appleton and Neenah men waited until tomorrow night to entertain. It will be the last of the large parties which have occupied much of the time of young people home from college for the holiday recess.

The dance will be given Saturday night at the Gateway hotel, and the hosts will be Bob and Dick Graef, Dan Murphy, Gordon Walker, John and Joseph Koffend, Kirt Wolter and Tom Catlin, Appleton; Diedric Bergstrom, George Thompson, Hugh Strange, James Shattuck, John Schiemer, John Canavan, Conrad Tuchscherer, Maurice L. Hunt, Mowry Smith, Nick Gilbert, Paul Strange, Paul Albrecht, Robert Kelly, Robin Smith and William Gerlich, Neenah.

Parties

Christian Mothers' society of St. Mary's church will not have a business meeting after devotions tonight, as was erroneously reported yesterday. The society has announced that a series of card parties will begin one week from today in Columbia hall. Mrs. Ira Hackett and Mrs. L. Schwartz will be in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Clippinger, 715 E. Alton street, will entertain a few friends at an informal dinner party at their home this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Koffend, 230 W. Prospect avenue, entertained 12 guests at dinner, last night at their home. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Banta, Menasha, and Mrs. Josephine Sewell, Oconomowoc.

CHARM AND MUSIC IS FOUND HERE

Music is the hobby of these three Kaukauna girls, whose trio selections on the harp, violin and cello are much in demand at various gatherings and celebrations in this vicinity. They are, left to right, the Misses Margaret Ann, Joan and Mary Alice Flanagan, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. G. J. Flanagan, 700 Desnoyer street, Kaukauna. All three are students at Kaukauna High school. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Three Kaukauna Sisters Take Up Music and Make Success as Entertainers

ALIKING for music which evidenced itself when Margaret Ann, Joan and Mary Alice Flanagan were grade school students at Holy Cross school has resulted in formation today of the Flanagan trio.

Dr. and Mrs. G. J. Flanagan, 700 Desnoyer street, Kaukauna, enjoy the privilege of being able to call upon their three charming daughters for rendition of classical favorites at a moment's notice. Margaret Ann, 17, plays the harp; Joan, 16, plays violin; and Mary Alice, 14, plays a cello.

Although the three girls are at present enrolled in Kaukauna High school, the graduation of Margaret Ann may break up the trio in June. Until that time, however, Dr. Flanagan's daughters are endeavoring to have just as much fun as possible playing at various gatherings and celebrations.

During Christmas week the trio entertained persons confined in St. Elizabeth hospital by playing several selections on each floor. They also traveled to Oshkosh and presented hymns during celebration of midnight mass at St. Peter's Catholic church.

Popular Numbers
Among the selections included most often in the trio programs and for which they receive the most requests are "Ave Maria," "Mother Machree," "The Rosary," and "Be-Lieve Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms."

While the girls have adhered strictly to playing classical selections since organization last September, they are not opposed to including popular selections in a program. Popular tunes, however, necessitate special harp arrangements, which demand considerable time. During the recess from classroom activities, the Flanagan girls have been working out several of the current favorites. They plan to offer a varied program during future engagements.

At Kaukauna High school the girls are members of the girls' glee club, girls' octets and the orchestra. Margaret Ann started playing a small harp 10 years ago. She received instruction from the Dominican sisters of Holy Cross grade school, and during second year high school, she continued her harp study at Green Bay.

Gets New Harp
Last September, Margaret Ann's father surprised her with a new, full-sized harp, which, according to the youthful harpist, necessitates a truck to move it about. Margaret Ann was drum major for the Sons of American Legion band at Kaukauna which won state honors at Eau Claire and Green Bay in 1934 and 1935. She states that if she can ever play as well as the great Italian harpist, Solvie, whom she once met personally, she will be "more than happy."

Joan, who plays the violin and is a junior in high school, aspires to achieve some of the ability possessed by Maude Powell, famous violinist and recording artist. Joan, too, began her musical studies in grade school and has continued them at Lawrence Conservatory of Music and also at Green Bay. During 1935 she was a member of an all-state high school orchestra assembled during the summer session at the University of Wisconsin campus. Miss Flanagan played first violin with the orchestra, which was directed by Orien Dalley and Henry Sopkin.

Mary Alice, the youngest member of the trio and a freshman in high school, where she also participates in girls' basketball, has forsaken the piano temporarily and is concentrating on work with the cello, which she began studying only last summer.

Announce Engagement of Kimberly Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Keyser, Kimberly avenue, Kimberly, announced the engagement of their daughter, Anna, to Louis Milbow, Kimberly, at a New Year's day dinner this noon. Miss Keyser is a graduate of the Holy Name school and of St. John's High school of Little Chute. She is employed as assistant to George Sauter, post master. No date has been set for the wedding.

Appleton Girl and Man From Chicago are Wed

MISSE Evelyn Wilde, daughter of Mrs. Emma Wilde, 308 E. Pacific street, and C. A. Beirnard, Chicago, were married New Year's eve at the home of Mrs. G. Boersma, Chicago. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. W. Ringe, Milwaukee, brother-in-law of the bride.

Mrs. Beirnard, a graduate of Lawrence college with the class of 1932, is employed as a case worker in Outagamie county for the state public welfare department. Mr. Beirnard is a graduate of National college, Chicago, with the class of 1924 and is connected with the Kimball Piano company of Chicago. The couple will live in Appleton.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Emma Wilde, attended the wedding.

Daggett-Borchardt

A New Year's day wedding is that of Miss Dorothy Daggett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Daggett, Omro, and Lawrence Borchardt, son of Mrs. Anna Borchardt, Dale, whose marriage will be solemnized at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, with the Rev. O. P. Lovic of Winneconne reading the service. Attendants will be Wilmer Borchardt and Helen Mackney. Only the immediate relatives will be present.

A dinner will be served at the Daggett home following the ceremony. The young couple will reside at Omro, where Mr. Borchardt has been employed the last four years.

Nelson-Greely

At 2:30 this afternoon in the Congregational church at Leeman, Miss Celia Kathryn Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Nelson, route 1, Navarino, will become the bride of Harland Bruce Greely, 1728 N. Richmond street, Appleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Greely, Shiocton. The Rev. E. Sager, pastor of the church, will perform the ceremony. The attending couples will be Miss Elaine Greely, sister of the bridegroom, and Donald Nelson, Miss Bernice Letter and Clifford Nelson, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. H. F. Schroeder will be the organist, playing the wedding march and also accompanying Miss Nelson.

Memorial Service Is Planned by Spanish War Vets

In honor of its 45 departed members, Charles O. Baer camp of the Spanish war veterans will have a memorial service at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the armory, with the camp chaplain, C. B. Peterman in charge. Next Tuesday evening the camp and its auxiliary will join installation of officers following a 6 o'clock dinner at the armory.

Four girls who are students at St. Mary Springs academy, Prairie du Chien, entertained at a bridge luncheon yesterday afternoon at the Hearthstone. The hostesses were the Misses Joan Mullen, Monica Jones, Catherine Roemer and Mary Ann Schaefer. Prizes at bridge went to Dorothy Van Handel, Beverly Olson, Joan Sigl and Elizabeth Heckle. There were 32 guests.

Personals

Miss Ruth Weinkauff and her brother, Wesley, 34 E. Pacific street, will go to Green Bay Saturday to be the guests of friends in that city. Miss Weinkauff, who is doing graduate work at the University of Wisconsin, is spending the holiday season here at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weinkauff.

Nora Nelson when she sings "I Love You Truly."

Following the ceremony a reception and wedding dinner will be held at the home of the bride, the following guests being present: Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Greely, Miss Elaine Greely and Marion Greely, Shiocton; Mr. and Mrs. Myron Ames and their daughters, Ardys and Glenice, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Palmer, Clintonville; Mr. and Mrs. Clem Greely and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fields, Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Greely and family, Racine; Mr. and Mrs. Merl Greely, New London; Mr. and Mrs. William Henry, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Krobberger, Seymour; Mr. and Mrs. John Stephan and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Nelson and family, Black Creek; Miss Rose Letter, Green Bay; Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Gomm, Manitowish; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lind and son, Leroy, Omro; the Rev. and Mrs. E. Sager, Embarras; and Mr. and Mrs. Mearl Allen and daughters, Kathryn and Geraldine, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Leeman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Olson and daughter, Joan, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Nelson and sons, Clifford and Merle, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gomm and family, Leeman.

The event will be further celebrated with a dance given at Diemel's hall in the evening. Both young people are graduates of Shiocton High school. The bride was also graduated from the Outagamie County Training school and has been teaching in a school in Leeman for the last three years. The bridegroom attended the Appleton Vocational school, and is now manager of a filling station here. He and his bride plan to make their home in Appleton.

A miscellaneous shower was given by friends of the couple at Diemel's hall Wednesday evening. Music and dancing furnished the evening's entertainment, and many gifts were presented the young couple.

Mesheke-Larson

The marriage of Corliss Thompson Mesheke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Thompson of Mukwa, and Fred B. Larson will take place at 3:30 this afternoon at the Larson home in Royalton, in the presence of only the immediate relatives. Arthur W. Ritchie will sing "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. Ritchie at the piano, preceding the ceremony, which will be conducted by the Rev. A. W. Snesby of New London. A wedding dance this evening at the Grange hall in honor of the young people will be attended by their many friends.

Schoenick-Bartel

Beside a sparkling Christmas tree in the Lutheran parsonage in Weyauwega, Miss. Hazel Schoenick, daughter of Mrs. Herman Pietz, Weyauwega, and Leonard Bartel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bartel, town of West Bloomfield, were married in a ceremony at 6 o'clock last Tuesday evening. The Rev. Max Hensel performed the ceremony, and Miss Gertrude Hensel furnished appropriate music. Mr. and Mrs. John Hofberger attended the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Schoenick will make their home with the bride's step-father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pietz, Weyauwega.

Paquette-Boll

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boll, Chilton, have announced the marriage of their son, Charles, to Miss Halcyon Paquette of Petersburg, Mich. The wedding took place Dec. 23 at Flat Rock, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Boll

Schwartz-Bloomer

Miss Julia Schwartz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Schwartz, Chilton, and Mel Bloomer, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bloomer, Chilton, were married at 6 o'clock last Saturday morning in St. Mary's church, Chilton, the Rev. H. E. Hunck reading the service. The bride was attended by her sister, Marcelle, as maid of honor, and the best man was Gervase Bloomer, brother of the bridegroom. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, after which Mr. and Mrs. Bloomer left on a short honeymoon trip. They will reside in Chilton.

aggregate tax roll this year is nearly $5,500 higher than a year ago, the average rate has increased only by $2.43 over the last previous rate, on account of an approximate $80,000 increase in the assessed valuation of the township. Lowest average rate in recent years was $9.13 in 1932; the highest recent rate was $16.51 in 1928.

Mr. Rusch is receiving tax payments at his home office until after the middle of January, when a schedule of collection dates at depository banks at Forest Junction and Brillion will go into effect. Time on tax payments without penalty has been extended by the town board to March 1, 1937.

One of the service stations at the western foot of the West Forest Junction viaduct changes hands on Jan. 1, with the purchase effected by Edwin Brochtrup, Forest Junction, this week. The station was the property of the Brooks Oil company of Dundas, which has been operating it since its construction about five years ago, after the completion of the paving on Highways 10 and 57 through here. The sale includes about one-quarter acre of land on which the building is situated in the southeast corner of the intersection of the two highways on the west village limits of Forest Junction.

Business Ends '36 With Shower Of Dividends

Find Trade and Industry Fitting Itself to New Federal Laws

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
Associated Press Financial Writer
New York—(AP)—Business in 1936 steered a course marked by far-reaching federal laws touching trade and industrial policies.

Washington's legislative mill slowed down after three years of momentous activity for reform and control of the money machinery, the securities business and large sectors of industry. But out of the last session of congress came, notably, a tax measure—the corporate surplus levy—which helped produce a spectacular year-end distribution of dollars to shareholders and workers.

Get Adjusted To New Laws
Besides dipping into larger earnings to disburse hundreds of millions of dollars in extra dividends and bonuses for workers, business sought to adjust itself to the Robinson-Patman law against price discrimination in distribution of goods and the social security program, passed in the previous session.

At the same time businessmen of business had to keep an eye on the supreme court as New Deal measures underwent the constitutional test.

Anticipating further efforts to write NRA principles into law, some industries sought under scrutiny of the federal trade commission to work out voluntary agreements for self-discipline.

See New Philosophy
Many tax authorities saw in the steeply graded levy on undistributed corporate earnings, passed over loud opposition from industry, an expression of social and economic philosophy more important in the long run than immediate revenue-producing effects.

They linked it with heavy federal spending, public works and high income taxes on the upper extremes of wealth as an avenue for staving money into consumption channels to raise purchasing power of the masses and speed full employment of the nation's productive machinery.

What long-range influence this would have upon expansion of industrial plants and industries supplying tools of the machine age was a topic of controversy.

Purchasing Power Climbs
At any rate, a record-breaking year-end downpour of extra and special dividends accompanied the rush to reduce tax liabilities under the law.

Wage increases and Christmas bonuses for workers swelled the nation's stream of purchasing power substantially at a time when rising prices threatened to lift living costs further.

Many companies stated candidly they were paying out funds which ordinarily would have gone into reserves for contingencies or expansion. Wholesale revamping of dividend policies was evident.

Another important effect of the tax law was increased pressure for simplification of corporate structures by lower exemptions on inter-company dividends. Coupled with previous legislation, including the 1935 utility holding company act, the tax measure appeared to have hastened elimination of subsidiary units to avoid penalties on complicated holding setups.

Pensions A Problem
The Robinson-Patman law, interpreted generally as aimed to put independent retailers on a better competitive footing with great chain store organizations, precipitated much discussion as to meaning of some of its provisions. Trade sources reported, however, that it was moving manufacturers to revise selling contracts.

With the 2 per cent payroll tax for old age pension reserves slated to take effect at the outset of the new year, many corporations pondered what to do with their own pension plans and how the payroll

Television Is Advanced in '38 By U. S. Engineers

Expensive Research Marks Experiments In This Field

BY C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor
New York—(AP)—Now that sound radio, the prospective bridegroom, has become a multi-millionaire, the courtship of radio and television has begun in earnest.

There is no doubt that it will be an expensive wooing, owing to the necessity of decking out the television bride-to-be in the proper attire, but whether it will be a lengthy affair depends entirely upon the attendants.

They are the engineers who are making television ready by day and night research. As part of that research, apparatus has been taken apart for further testing, particularly in New York. London also has gone into the field for checkups. Now, something of a race is developing between England and the United States over which is to have the honor of performing the marriage ceremony.

NBC Has Birthday
While television was advancing in 1936 by giving demonstrations and generally smoothing out some of the kinks that must be eliminated before widespread public introduction, radio celebrated a birthday party.

It was the tenth anniversary of the country's first network, that of the National Broadcasting company. The main celebration lasted a week, with banquets, special programs and the like. The actual birthday was November 15. Next September the Columbia Broadcasting System will be 10 years old.

For the first time since it started out 16 years ago, broadcast radio looked back at the last twelve months as the year when its income reached the hundred million dollar mark.

That figure was the estimate for 1936, based on sums already reported to which had been added the expected average for the untaxed periods of the year. Of this amount NBC was represented by around $35,000,000, CBS by about $20,000,000 and all other broadcasters by approximately $45,000,000.

The increase over 1935 is about 20 per cent.

Campaign Aids Revenues
An important contribution to the 1936 sum came from the Presidential campaign, with probably the greatest microphone activity yet to evidence itself in the vote drive bringing an unusual number of political speakers to the air. At the same time several situations developed, leading the networks to rule that campaign broadcasting should confine itself to a discussion of the issues.

Progress in programming went forward about as usual, with the trend in amateur broadcasts on the wane as such audience participation features as community singing and the like were taking their place in the public ear.

But there's one trend which never seems to change. In fact it's still on the upgrade. That has to do with comedians. By 1937, the networks alone expect to have 24 a week.

Identify Body Found in Ruins of Fire on Farm

Shawana—(AP)—A coroner's jury decided Wednesday a body found in the ruins of a barn which burned on the Julius Utke farm Dec. 9 was that of Herman Utke, a brother of Julius. The jury did not determine the cause of the blaze.

Osage Indians apparently had a strong color preference. They were never known to scalp a red-haired person.

Play of This Hand Was Pure Greek, Even to Culbertson

BY ELY CULBERTSON
I always feel a warm affection toward bridge correspondence that is suitable for use in this column and, that being so, I am naturally loath to criticize my contributors. Today's hand was sent me by a professor of classical languages. This is more or less fitting, I should say, for the professor's play of the hand was pure Greek to me at least.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

2nd Pass Pass Pass Pass
3rd Pass Pass Pass Pass

"South, because he is vulnerable elects to pass."
"South, because he is vulnerable elects to pass."
"Not to be captured as a third hand bid in duplicate. Passed-out hands usually are boomerangs."

The comments regarding the bidding are the professor's and, I think, well taken. His description of the play was as follows:

"West opened the diamond six, leading up to his partner's suit. South let it ride around to his queen, which took the trick. East playing the jack. Declarer prepared to make a safety play to offset the impending second round diamond ruff (or certainly a third round ruff) and led a small spade to the jack. East's king won. East returned the diamond ace and led a small diamond knowing that West could outtrump dummy. West returned a club, which East's ace took. Another diamond was led and ruffed by West again. West laid down the heart ace and South claimed the balance of the tricks. The result: Down one for a penalty of 100 points instead of a possible game."

The possible "twist" on the hand totals up to 720 points (the 100 point penalty, plus the trick score of 120 points, plus the bonus of 500 points for a vulnerable game.)

"Notice that an entirely different story is had if South makes the correct safety play of laying down the spade ace first. He picks up East's singleton king, and then has to lose only the three outside aces."

In so far as the bidding was concerned it should be obvious that a double of two diamonds would have returned an excellent result to North and South, but I do not think that South, with the seven card fairly solid spade suit, could risk the double rather than bidding his suit. On the other hand two spades was not a strong enough bid after the original pass. Three spades would have been more expressive.

Since the professor recognized his own error of leading up to dummy's spade jack we will pass over this play in forgiving silence, but I must certainly not agree with his afterthought that "the correct safety play would be to lay down the spade ace." Why should declarer lead a spade from his hand at all? While the pack remains in the shuffle he has nothing to fear. The correct play by South, upon winning the opening lead, is to send a heart toward the dummy's king-queen. It is quite conceivable that West will duck and, even if he does not, nothing has been lost. The point is that there is no reason to abandon the chance for finessing against the spade king, which might easily be guarded in East's hand. Since the diamond ace must be conceded in any event a third round always can be safely ruffed with the spade jack. For West to be able to overruff he must hold the king, which would be a trick anyway. If West had the feared singleton diamond and three trumps to the king the laying down of the spade ace would cost a trick. West could ruff the second diamond, thus preserving his partner's ace for future use, and then pick up dummy's spade jack with the king.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Question: Doesn't a redouble of partner's double relieve the partner of the doubler from bidding?
Answer: Certainly not. If partner of the doubler passes it is a penalty pass which means that he expects to set the contract.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

AN IMPORTANT REMINDER TO THOSE GIVING PARTIES TODAY, AND THROUGH-OUT THE YEAR

"Dear Mrs. Post: We are newcomers in this town but fortunately our best friends at home put in a good word for us here, and many people have come to see us. We now find ourselves with a number of invitations asking us to come in New Year's Day 'for a cocktail.' Evidently it is the custom here to make the rounds. Apparently our friends at home did not explain to their friends here that we do not touch anything alcoholic, since I do not like it and my husband has been ordered not to touch it. Both of us feel, however, that it would be nice to go to these parties but we are afraid of being considered a wet blanket. Is there no provision made by etiquette to take care of such a situation? I mean isn't it considered proper for abstainers to go to such parties merely for the sake of sociability?"

Answer: Etiquette does make provision for such situations in the fact that all hostesses are supposed to provide tomato juice or other nonalcoholic cocktails, since many guests would rather have these if given their choice. On the other hand, should nothing but alcoholic cocktails be served, it is never considered rude to refuse them, since there are so many reasons, such as you have already given, why certain people can not touch alcohol. This does not mean that you need stand with your hands empty and looking like "a wet blanket," because you can be busy eating a sandwich or whatever is served with the cocktails. In any case, the fact that you have

Uncle Ray's Corner

Happy New Year!

Have you made any "good resolutions" for the New Year? I think it is a good thing to do. Sometimes people do not live up to their resolutions, but if they try to carry them out, it is likely to be helpful even if they do not succeed entirely.

I think of the New Year as a new chapter in a human life. During the year gone by, we may have had success about some things, failure about others. Why not try to make the new-dawning year a better one than the last?

From now until in the month of June, each day will have a little more daylight than the one before. The daily gain is very small. Tomorrow may seem to have hardly a bit more light than today, but day by day we shall gain a little, and by the end of January the change will amount to about three-quarters of an hour in southern Canada and in northern parts of the United States, and to about half an hour in southern parts of the United States. The average gain is from one minute to one and a half minutes per day.

Longer days are likely to make us more cheerful, but they will not be enough to give us "a happy New Year." We must do something with the days to make them worth while.

One thing to do, it seems to me, is to try to lead healthful lives. Good health helps us to enjoy living.

Health is too big a subject to say much about it in a paragraph or two, but we can obtain good books on health from public libraries, and school pupils can take special interest in physiology and hygiene studies.

We can resolve to be more careful about our safety. It is a sad thing to become a cripple. Boys and girls who slide in the winter snows should be careful to do so only when there is no danger of being run over by an automobile. Never hitch a sled to a motor car!

In the New Year, we can learn things we have not known before, and can help others to learn. It is a strange thing that when we "give away" knowledge, we still keep it for ourselves. In fact we are likely to have it more firmly in our minds because we have tried to teach it to someone else.

New Year's Day Should Be Hopefullest of Year

BY ANGELO PATRI

New Year's Day is the hopefullest of all the year. A fresh start is always heartening, but many are weighted by a feeling of waste and failure. There are too many if-only's about them. But New Year's seems to come to us without much of that to hamper the spirit. There is a certain rightness about the new start for the New Year that takes the curse off past failures.

Of course a fresh start can be hindered by a carry-over from the old year, but wise people practice forgetting with all their might on this occasion. Forget the past and go forward as though it had never been. The memory of past errors is useful for the length of time it takes to forget, and no longer. It is useless to carry along the weight of regret that error puts upon one. Let conscience be satisfied by the good action of the new day and let the dead rest. Father and mother need to remember this in dealing with boys and girls who have made mistakes serious enough to give them trouble and their parents grief. It is best to forget and remember only that youth grows, not in steady upward climbing, but in broken flights, now up, now down, sometimes obliquely, but mainly upward.

Character grows by changing from hour to hour. The sinner of yesterday is no more. Another takes his place, maybe another sinner, maybe one not so black, perhaps one as close to goodness as he can get. Certainly a different person is born with the passing days, and if that person has shed his errors, retrieved his mistakes, he is to be accepted as the person of today, and the person of yesterday has no part in him.

New Year's Day is a fine day to remember to forget, to start anew, to put the past behind one and turn steadfastly to the good that lies ahead. It is silly to insist upon carrying trouble along with one when there is no place to carry it to, nobody to welcome it. The New Year holds a wealth of days each of them freighted with good for those who can and who will take hold of it. If the mind is full of dingy baggage that cannot be used and that should have been discarded, the good those days hold will not serve and the useless baggage of regret and grief come in is proof enough that you are not disapproving of such parties.

Dear Mrs. Post: I'd like to use a lovely cheese board, which I got from a friend at Christmas, at a buffet supper which I am giving on New Year's night. How is such a board to be used? I mean are cheese spreads as well as cheese—that is to be sliced, and crackers, all put on this board? And may it be used at a sit-down supper or is its use intended solely for buffet parties?

Answer: A cheese board would be used at any time an assortment of cheese is to be provided, whether passed at dinner or put on a buffet table. Properly, only cheeses to be cut with a knife are put on a board. The soft mixtures of cheese to be spread upon sandwiches are put in their own dishes and never on the board. Where you put crackers depends upon the size of the board.

Don't Make Too Many Resolutions

BY ELSIE PIERCE

I hesitate talking about resolutions, even such admirable ones as beauty resolutions, because somehow the idea persists that resolutions are made to be broken.

But think of all the important things you have accomplished, things you count as achievements. Weren't they the result of resolutions you made to yourself and carried through? Landing the big job, meeting and marrying the one man, even planning and putting over the successful party; they're all founded in resolutions plus stick-to-it-iveness.

The reason you so many resolutions go askew is not so much that the spirit is weak. It is perhaps not strong enough to carry through a too ambitious program.

In Small Doses

When I get a letter, usually from the 'teas, complaining that everything is wrong with the writer's looks; when I read reams of lament then I realize that the going is to be difficult. I feel like saying, "Easy, now, one step at a time." You have to crawl before you walk and walk before you can run. You can't do too much all at once.

If you make the most of your good points and tackle the bad points one at a time, the most serious first, the plan ought to be workable and resultful.

And so we come back to resolutions. Make them, by all means. Promise yourself that the end of the year will find you a year older by the calendar but a year younger (at least) in looks and ever so much lovelier, groomed and glamorous with more poise, personality and individuality achieved.

It takes resolve to shed forty pounds. It takes persistence to clear up a blemished skin. It takes a strong spirit to go through a beauty program with clock-like regularity day after day. But if the resolutions are a few at a time, if the spirit is willing and the flesh not too weak, there's a fine reward at the other end of the bargain.

How lovely are you going to be a year from now? That depends on how lovely you want to be, and how much you want it. That is what will give you the determination to achieve it. I say that in all honesty bearing in mind the modern standard of beauty. Now bring on the beauty resolutions!

Beauty Schedule may be of help to you in building your beauty resolutions. Send self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope for it. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

For Snow Sports

For the girl who is going to spend some time on snowy ski runs this winter here is a suit which is waterproof against spills. It combines navy blue gabardine trousers and a beige cotton gabardine jacket whose fabric fibers have been covered with a film making the material wind and water repellent. It is worn over a heavy red wool sweater with a cap and gloves of the same bright color.

Choose Right Place in Looking for Husband

BY DOROTHY DIX

When you go angling for a husband pick out a place where the fishing is good. Business offices are best. Don't waste your time whipping the water in Adamless Edens where not even a sucker swims.

DOROTHY DIX

ity that is as universally appealing to men as good nature. It is the jolly girl who never lack for dates and who can marry as early and often as the occasion demands.

Be yourself. Don't copycat and wear what all the other girls are wearing and do what they are doing and use the same mannerisms. The only way you can out yourself out of the herd so that men will notice you is by being different from Mary and Sally and Jane and Sue.

Don't pose. There is nothing a man is so deathly afraid of as an artificial affected woman. Many a girl has lost a kind husband who would have been a good provider by acting like a Grand Duchess when she was a shopgirl and by languidly remarking that the dress she made herself was a cheap little importation that she got for $150.

Don't think you make a hit with men by shuddering at the mention of a kitchen and boasting that you can't boil water without scorching it and calling children brats. What men marry for is a home and a family. Be clever, but not too clever. If you have a high brow, comb your curls down over it. Never let a man find out that you know more than he does.

Be gay and vivacious, but don't laugh too much. Men are suspicious that the girl who is always laughing is laughing at them. And for goodness sake don't giggle. Don't wisecrack. Don't tell funny stories. Men feel that they have a monopoly on being the life of the party and they resent women butting in.

Cultivate a nifty line of conversation to use with a man who is too lazy or too dumb to talk himself, but most men would rather have you lend them your ears than give them your tongue. Never boast of your conquests and tell how many millionaires you could have married. It makes a man go shuddery.

CUTWORK ROSES FOR YOUR LINENS

CUTWORK LINENS PATTERN 779

Into a season whirling with color, roses rear their pretty heads—cutwork roses that would be stunning embroidered in their natural coloring. Such exquisite motifs, these, yet so easy! Placed on scarfs, cloths, buffet and vanity sets or a dainty boudoir pillow, they give a festive air both to "company" and everyday linens. Thread may match the linen, of course. Pattern 779 contains a transfer pattern of two motifs 5 1/2 x 6 1/2 inches; two and two reverse 3 1/2 inch corners and three reverse 2 1/2 inch corners; illustrations of all stitches used; material requirements; color suggestions.

Send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) for this pattern to the Appleton Post-Crescent, Needlecraft Dept., 62 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern-number, your name and address.

To turn out jellies quite whole from the mold, grease the mold with butter and when the jelly is to be turned out, plunge the mold into hot water and remove at once.

A small pinch of soda added to salad dressing will prevent its curdling.

Lay a small lump of washing soda on the sink drain occasionally and pour boiling water (or hot water) on it. It cuts grease that may be accumulated there.

to think that you will be dangling his scalp among your other trophies of the chase. On the other hand, never let a man find out that he is your only hope. Men are like sheep where women are concerned. They always want some other man's O. K. on the girl they date.

Be appreciative of a man's attentions, but don't run after him and don't act grateful. Make him think that you are bestowing a favor instead of receiving one. Never telephone a man in business hours. You risk his job and the chance of getting a meal ticket for yourself every time you do it.

Vary your technique to suit the man. It makes some men up to float 'em and the less a girl seems to want them, the more they want her. Other men only put a wedding ring on the hand that strokes their fur right way.

Shy men, middle-aged men and widowers can be caught by any woman who will go after them with matrimony in view. Boys have to be shot on the wing, as it were. Virtually any woman can get a man if she will sit down and cry for him.

These rules have been tried and approved by millions of wives, and are guaranteed to work.

Starts $25,000 Action

Against 2 in Milwaukee

Milwaukee—(P)—Carl K. Rausch, 35, released from a charge of writing an extortion letter, has sued for $25,000 damages from Postal Inspector A. C. Hahn and Mrs. Edna Flannery, a school teacher and complainant against Rausch.

The unemployed steamfitter and father of six motherless children charged malicious prosecution, contending he was held unlawfully in jail from Dec. 16 to 24 and that he suffered injury to his reputation and mental and physical pain as a result.

Rausch accused Hahn, acting on the advice of Mrs. Flannery, of maliciously starting an action against him. Rausch was released on Christmas eve by the order of the assistant United States District attorney who said the government had insufficient evidence to warrant continued detention of Rausch.

Superintendent of Schools Speaks Before Rotarians

Character Education Needed to Reduce Delinquencies, He Says

Neenah — Challenging Rotary members to recognize that their part in character education is a distinct responsibility, C. F. Hedges, superintendent of schools, told the group assembled at the noon meeting at the Valley Inn Wednesday that consideration must be given character education because of the increasing delinquency among young people.

"It is appropriate too that we discuss it as a new year approaches and as reports are heard that in the next session of the Wisconsin legislature a bill will be introduced which would make character education a required course in all schools," said Mr. Hedges.

"Fifty years ago the rate of murder per 100,000 was 4, today it is 10," said Mr. Hedges, "and during that time population has increased at the rate of 1-3 with prison population increasing at a rate of 2 during the same period. The direct cost of crime each year has been estimated at $5,000,000. Those statistics are reason enough for deep consideration of character education."

"The home has always been recognized as the powerful influence in building character but we must remember that parents are only men and women, they have had no course in parenthood. Next in importance is the community but it has lost much of the sense of unity and helpfulness. Newer agencies of influence are the press, the radio and the movies. The press while it is undoubtedly an influence does not always present influence of a high level. As long as it is an enterprise for profit, its policies will be determined by financial reasons rather than moral."

"Few of the pictures shown in the thousands of movie houses throughout the nation can be recommended for children and young adults and as for the radio, it is astounding to me that the radio is allowed to come into the center of family life with its many influences that often contradict all that parents teach."

"Schools are another influence for character building but it is evident that the school does not compete on equal terms with other agencies. If it could do so, it could bring about an educational program that would be more vital and more clearly related to life in an order that well balanced, integrated personalities could be produced."

Briefly outlining the influence of heredity, environment and nationality traits as claimed by different schools, Mr. Hedges quoted statistics formulated in sociological studies of delinquents.

"It must be remembered that lack of emotional balance, sensitivity, fear, inferiority, and inhibition may play a role in the development of a personality. Lack of adjustment to social conditions is another factor which has been given as a cause for delinquency. Character traits are not general but specific. Character governs the particular response a person will make in a definite situation."

"It is our problem and our responsibility. We can help by conducting ourselves in the ways and guide of the community will find in us examples of fine and wholesome personalities."

Donald Du Shane, Lawrence college, Appleton, and Joe Essick, Reading, Pa., were guests at the meeting. Paul Gerhardt gave a biography of the Rev. Henry Johnson.

Semester Exams to Follow Vacation

Neenah — Semester examinations, term papers, and three months of school before another vacation for Neenah high school students Monday morning, Jan. 4 as classes are resumed after the Christmas recess.

Grade schools will also resume classes Monday morning and will serve to the high school and Kimberly school will be started for students from the Island and Fourth ward. Special fares will be offered through the sale of weekly passes. Cash fares will be paid by students who do not ride the bus daily.

Extra-curricular activity at the high school will be in full swing during the first week of school with inter-school debates, basketball games, dramatic activity and other programs scheduled.

Twin City Deaths

Mrs. Anna Strasser

Neenah — Mrs. Anna Strasser, mother of Mrs. Martin Wolf, Neenah, died at her home in Oshkosh early Thursday morning. Death was attributed to advanced age. Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning in St. Vincent's Catholic church at Oshkosh. Interment will be in Riverside cemetery. Survivors besides Mrs. Wolf are two other daughters, Mrs. Paul Higdon, West Allis and Mrs. Henry Pat, Oshkosh.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent for its editorial, circulation and advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street and the telephone numbers are 200 and 1992. News items, copy or orders for advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or may be telephoned. These numbers also may be called before 7 o'clock in the evening for delivery of papers missed by carriers in Neenah or Menasha.

Neenah's Upset Victory Over Menasha Gridders Featured Year in Sports

BY C. J. KLEIBER

Menasha—With the 12-7 football victory of the Neenah high school over the Menasha highs as the main headline of the 1936 sports parade in the twin cities, sport enthusiasts can look back on the last season as one which although bringing few championships gave spectators thrills at every turn.

Baseball, basketball, football, tennis, track, softball, bowling, skating, wrestling, boxing, golf, sailing and hockey were all on exhibit during the year by Twin City High schools, industrial teams, professional squads, amateurs and grade school pupils.

The Doty Tennis club annual open tournament attracted stars with national reputations and included all the rated state players. The only school basketball tournament staged during the year was at the St. Mary High school gymnasium where grade school cagers fought for the Fox River valley crown with the St. Mary graders copping the title and completing an undefeated season.

Many Bowlers Bowling activities saw leagues competing every night on two shifts at the Hedy alleys, Menasha, and the Muench Recreation alleys, Neenah. The kegeling sport hit a new high when the world champion Heil Products team of Milwaukee defeated the Colonial Wonder Bars in an exhibition match at Neenah. Later, the Pabst Blue Ribbon team of Milwaukee defeated the Wonder Bars in another exhibition.

The Gold Labels Ladies bowling team set a new state record by crowding 2,640 pins into the pits while competing in the state tournament at Kenosha. The squad also rolled up an impressive victory string during the year.

The Banta Publishing company bowlers won first place in the Neenah City league while the Gold Labels were majoring the crown in the Menasha Major loop.

Harry Stuhldreier, University of Wisconsin athletic director, and Bud Foster, university basketball mentor, were guests at banquets in the two cities during the year. Other Wisconsin coaches and players made their appearance lately at the Neenah and Menasha annual football banquets.

Three Baseball Teams In baseball, Menasha was represented in three leagues with the Gold Labels competing in the Northern State league; the Eagles in the Northern Valley loop; the Falcons in the Fox River Valley league. Neenah was represented by a merchants team in the Winnebago land league composed of 12 teams.

The Gold Labels were in the thick of the pennant fights in both halves of the schedule but faded in the last games at each time. In the first half the team won five and lost five games to finish third. In the latter half, the squad marked up five victories in eight starts for second place.

Playing good ball all season, the Eagles won seven and lost three games for second place in the first half of the season and then won eight out of nine games to tie for the second half flag. The team lost its chance for a trip to Milwaukee to compete in the state tournament by losing to Kaukauna in a playoff game.

The Falcons fared badly in the first half by winning two games and losing seven to finish in fifth place. In the latter part of the season, the squad won four and lost five games with four of the defeats being by 1-run.

The Neenah Merchants led in its league throughout the year but the schedule was never completed with many of the teams claiming forfeits.

High School Wrestling

Wrestling was introduced as a high school sport at Neenah last year with the team losing only one match, that to West Allis. Professional wrestling was staged at the S. A. Cook armory by both Neenah and Kaukauna organizations.

Although some high school students partook in boxing, the main fist fights were amateur affairs conducted at the armory by a Neenah organization.

Although the Doty club tourney was the high spot of the tennis season, city and high school players engaged in matches throughout the year. Neenah High won first place in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference net meet with Harold Dix and David Ryan as conference doubles champions and John Canavan as singles champ. The state high school tennis tournament was held at Neenah with Jerry Clifford, Oshkosh, winning first in the singles and a doubles team from Manitowoc copping its division.

Thirteen tennis tourneys were held at Neenah as playground activities with a total of 340 contestants. The annual Neenah city tournament was also staged with John Schreiner winning the singles title.

Labels Lead Softballers

The Gold Labels, Menasha, were the leading softball team in the twin cities and won the Winnebago land tourney after defeating the Commercial Inns, Neenah, in the final game. The Kingsbury Brews also represented Menasha but did not play as tough a schedule as the Labels. The Commercial Inns were the best in Neenah.

Menasha mill teams forced a softball league with the Strange mill players winning the title. Play was also resumed last year in the Neenah City league.

With sailing increasing in popularity last year, Dic' Stafford won the Jack Kimberly trophy July 12. The Nodolyn Yacht club with James H. Kimberly as commodore sponsored the races. The finish of the national rowboat derby sponsored by the Winnebago land Incorporated was staged at Neenah Labor day with more than 10,000 persons watching the finish.

Golfers formed a Twilight league at Ridgeway Golf course during the year and also competed in intra-city matches Sundays. The Banta Gold league was organized with play held every Tuesday. More than 100 state golfers competed in the Knights of Columbus tournament at Ridgeway Aug. 30. Clark Wieser, Menasha, was in charge of the meet.

St. Mary Wins

St. Mary High school shared the Catholic conference basketball title with St. Norbert, De Pere, after Oshkosh registered a surprise victory over the St. Mary cagers in the last game. During the season the team won over Kaukauna, Neenah and Appleton in non-conference affairs.

Thus far this season, the locals have won over Manitowoc but have lost two games to Manitowoc, one to Appleton and to Little Chute.

The Neenah High school cagers finished in a tie for second place in their conference by winning seven out of ten games. In the New London class A tourney the team defeated Oconto 34-20 but then lost to New London by a 22-21 count.

At the present time Neenah has won two out of five games. They have defeated Clintonville and Shawano while losing to Oshkosh, Kaukauna and Appleton. They play a return game at Oshkosh Jan. 1.

Menasha Finally Wins

Menasha Highs went until Jan. 24 before they turned in their first game victory winning from West De Pere, 36-22. The team finished fourth in the conference with five wins and two defeats. In the New London class A tourney the team was wallowed 32-16 by Stevens Point in the opening game but came back to beat Oconto 34-32 and gain a place in the third place fight.

Two Rivers won over the local by a 36-16 margin in the battle for third place.

The Bluejays have split even in four games this season having won over Nekeosa and North Fond du Lac while losing to Oshkosh and New London, the latter winning by one point.

The Neenah "B" basketball team won the conference championship by winning nine out of ten games. The Twin City DeMolay cagers won the Fox River valley cage title but lost in the state meet. The Pankratz Pals represented Menasha in semi-pro ball and won about 30 games. The team participated in several tournaments in the valley but was unsuccessful in winning any cups.

Only one coaching change was noted in the two cities last year when Marvin Miller, Kaukauna, graduate of St. Mary's college, California, succeeded Cliff Dilts at St. Mary High school, Menasha.

Hockey is Popular

Neenah Red Wings and Kuester Shoes, Menasha, were leading hockey teams during the year with the Neenah pucksters playing teams from Fond du Lac, Green Bay and Oshkosh. Neenah high hockey candidates are now planning for the season.

Otto Kioepfel, Menasha, competed against Henry Esler, Kaukauna, and Anton Miller, Hortonville, in a special ice race for men over 60 years of age. The race was held at Kaukauna with Esler as the winner. A similar race is planned for this year.

Although all three schools were represented by good teams, no football championships were brought to the twin cities. The Menasha Bluejays had the best record by winning three, losing two and tying two games. The squad defeated Shawano, Plymouth and Clintonville while losing to New London and Neenah. Tie games were played with Kaukauna, conference champs, and West DePere.

Neenah Highs scored their best win of the season over Menasha but were able to finish no better than sixth in the conference while the Blue jays were tied for third. Neenah won over Menasha, Little Chute, Clintonville and St. Mary, Menasha. They lost to Shawano, West DePere and Kaukauna while tying New London.

St. Mary graders won over St. Peter, Oshkosh, for its only successful start while losing to Appleton, Manitowoc, St. Norbert, Little Chute and Neenah. The team started slowly but wound up with a powerful passing attack that would cause trouble for any teams at the end of the season.

Neenah Red Rockets competed in track this season and although winning in dual competition, the squad could only finish fourth in the conference meet at the Neenah athletic field. Menasha was not represented in track.

While the basketball outlook for the twin cities has not been too bright thus far, sports fans are already thinking of next fall when three experienced offensive football teams represent the two cities in conference competition.

Menasha Personals

250 Entries are Already in for Poultry Exhibits

Expect More Birds Will be Received at Armory Today

Neenah—White trumpeters with fans at their ankles, black and yellow and rust Carneaux, white and silver kings, all in the pigeon class, and Polish cocks with feathered heads and a chicken called a fuzzy because its white covering looks more like fuzz than feathers, cool and cackle and crow at the sixteenth annual exhibition of the Winnebago Poultry and Pet Stock association affiliated with the Twin City Pigeon Club which is being held for four days at the S. A. Cook armory.

Two hundred and fifty entries were registered and in their coops late Wednesday and more entries kept coming in all morning today. Besides entries from Defield, Milwaukee, West Allis, Manitowoc, Ripon and other points, Neenah-Menasha residents have entered specimens.

Louis Resch who is superintendent of the shows, has some white leghorns on exhibit, John Nagel, secretary-treasurer of the association, has some red Carneaux pigeons. Peter Borenz has some white leghorns in the display, Frank Borenz is showing some silver king pigeons and Lee Royer has some red carneaux.

The pigeons have been raised by the breeders for sale as well as for a hobby. The pigeons bring good money from hotels in whose dining rooms later they are "squabs under glass."

Judging started about 10:30 this morning with George M. Wells, Oshkosh, in charge of judging poultry and Fred Borchardt, Manitowoc, in charge of judging pigeons.

Special class prizes and all class competition prizes are offered. The birds are judged on a point basis as are the fowl. The show will close at 6 o'clock Sunday, Jan. 3.

Neenah Travels To Oshkosh Gym

Red Rockets Will Seek Revenge for Early Season Defeat

Neenah — Twelve Neenah High school varsity basketball players will invade the Oshkosh High school gym tonight prepared to avenge that 26 to 25 defeat handed out by the Indians in an earlier season game. The second teams of both schools will play the preliminary contest with the main game scheduled for 8:15. Hotchkiss and Davey, Oshkosh Teachers College, will referee.

Coach Ole Jorgenson has kept his squad in practice all during the holidays and it is reported that the Red Rockets have thrown off their lethargy and are primed for the clash tonight.

Hesselman will start at center with Schultz and Rabideau at guard position, Don Schmidt and Daniel Schmidt at forward positions tonight and Coach Jorgenson will have Haertl, Krueger, George and Bernard Johnson, Ketterling, Jackson and McDermid to call on from the reserves.

Neenah opens the second half of the conference season Friday, Jan. 8 when it meets West De Pere in that city.

New County Officers

Take Over Jobs Jan. 4

Neenah—Winnebago county officials, victorious in the November campaign, will take office Jan. 4, according to a statement made this morning.

Paul Neubauer, Neenah, undersheriff for several years, will take over the duties of sheriff and Lewis C. Magnusen will be the new district attorney for Winnebago county. Neubauer succeeds E. C. Abell and Magnusen takes over the duties held during the past term by R. C. Leake.

A. F. Hedke, county clerk, Earl E. Fuller, county treasurer, Frank W. Schneider, clerk of circuit court, are the county officers who were re-elected during the last election.

The position of agricultural agent will be vacant temporarily until a successor to O. P. Cuff, resigned, is appointed.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sanders, Seventh street, announce the birth of a son, born early Thursday morning.

Mrs. Goldie Fisher, 727 Appleton street, was admitted to the Thea Clark hospital late Thursday for treatment.

Menasha High School Fire, With Quarter Million Loss, Highlighted News of Year

BY C. J. KLEIBER

Menasha—Twin City residents today looked back over a year's activity and agreed that the cities had prospered and really accomplished a great deal despite tragedy and destruction which played a major part in the news highlights in 1936.

For sheer drama, the Menasha High school fire Saturday, March 21, caused the most excitement in the cities in 1936 with fire breaking out at about 3:30 in the morning and completely destroying the building. Two firemen, Arthur Gutzmann and Cornelius Rippel, suffered minor injuries while fighting the blaze which caused damage of more than a quarter million dollars.

Students, however, lost no days of school as classes were continued the following Monday in various city and club buildings. After a long fight between the common council, board of education and townspeople, work was started this month on a $500,000 building to replace the old school.

When workers were wrecking the old building for salvage, Reginald Baldwin was buried beneath debris July 6 when the north wall crashed. He and George Jury, another workman, escaped serious injury.

Legion Holds Convention The American Legion members played a great part in the year's work by staging the annual state convention in August. Clarence Loesch, Menasha, was general chairman of the 4-day meet which saw more than 100,000 visitors in the two cities. Payment of the soldier's bonus also featured activities from January on.

Tragedy again struck the city May 15 when Theodore Andrew King, Mrs. Andrew Swamp and Lawrence Maas were killed in an automobile accident on Highway 114, just inside the Menasha city limits. William Schuyler was the driver of the car in which 13 persons were returning home at the time of the crash.

June 4, Donald Lenz, 18, Neenah High school athlete, was killed when the automobile in which he was riding left the road near Oshkosh and crashed into a tree. Carl Gaertner, 24, Neenah, was killed June 21 when the car in which he was riding collided with a train. Sylvester Butler, Milwaukee, died May 26 as a result of injuries sustained when he fell from a viaduct built near Neenah.

7 Deaths in 1 Day

With the city at one time basking in weather of more than 100 degrees, seven deaths were reported in one July day at Menasha. More than 15 deaths during July were attributed to the intense heat.

During the year prominent Twin City residents died including Frank Pankratz, Menasha; Frank E. Grove, Menasha; Gordon Ehlers, Neenah; Mrs. Imogene Price, Neenah; Mrs. Joseph Patzel, Neenah; William T. Johnson, Neenah; Mrs. Mary Solomon, 94, Neenah's oldest resident.

Among the tragic deaths were those of Joseph Mucha, Jr., Neenah, who fell from a scaffold and Dickie Clark, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Clark, Neenah, who suffocated after swallowing a balloon.

The twin cities were hosts to the Wisconsin State Bankers' convention, the Fox River Valley League of Wisconsin Municipalities; Wisconsin Regional conference of Progressive Education association; insurance men at the Twin City Life Insurance Underwriters banquet and dance; district Garden club meeting.

Build New Plants

With residents erecting new buildings and making repairs, the city of Neenah started work on a water softener and filtration plant while work on the Twin City sewage disposal plant is well underway. Menasha built a new municipal garage and placed it at the disposal of the board of vocational education for classes until the new high school is completed.

The federal government is constructing a new dam across the Fox river at Mill street, Menasha, as one of the major improvements while Winnebago county courthouse bids were let last week. Possibility of a second bridge, for the cities is now under consideration.

Clerical changes recorded in the cities show the Rev. A. A. Chambers becoming pastor of St. Thomas Episcopal church, Neenah, and Paul Bergmann pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Menasha. The Rev. Henry Johnson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, Neenah, was installed soon after Jan. 1.

Changes at the Y. W. C. A. show Miss Laura Pearl Huber as general secretary succeeding Miss Mary B. Thompson with Miss Geraldine Anderson becoming associate secretary. During the year, Arthur Steffenhagen, Neenah, was named chef de gare of voiture 751 of Winnebago county while Arthur Hartzheim, Neenah, was elected secretary of the Fox River Valley district of Eagles.

Elect Officers Other Twin City residents honored with positions were Miss Edna Robertson, Menasha, president of Valley Garden club; Sidney Foss, Neenah, president of Trades and Labor council; Silas Spengler, Menasha, president of newly organized Philatelic club; C. W. Laemmrich, Menasha, Rotary club president and president of Fox River Valley Funeral Directors and Embalmers association; Oliver M. Thomson, Neenah, president of Doty Tennis club, and now succeeded by Hugh Strange, Jr.

Lions clubs were formed in Menasha and Neenah with Urban Remick head of the Menasha lair and A. C. Prunuske president of the Neenah group.

Politics as usual caused a great furor with Walter E. Held being elected mayor of Menasha and Edward A. Kalfahs mayor of Neenah. At a subsequent council election, 202 ballots were cast before Edward W. Forkun was chosen Menasha City attorney.

The highlight of the national campaign was reached when Republican candidate, Alf Landon, Kansas, passed through the twin cities. In the national election, 4,323 Neenah voters and 3,629 Menasha voters went to the polls.

The Neenah Public library celebrated its thirty-second anniversary Jan. 15 while the Whiting Memorial Baptist church, Neenah, celebrated its seventy-fifth anniversary Nov. 22.

Police Radio System During the year Neenah and Menasha police stations, squad cars and motorcycles were equipped with radios working out of station WAKE at Oshkosh. A 4-county system will probably be installed this year.

Robert DesJarlais was named valedictorian at the Menasha High school while Patricia Sonnenberg, Zolp, Kaukauna, and Helen Jensen were winners of speech contests. Ruth Ehlers and Dan Gressler were named queen and king of the Neenah High school annual carnival. Victor Burstein was chosen valedictorian at the Neenah school.

During the year the Menasha and St. Mary High school bands brought honors to the city by winning places at the state and district tournaments. Band members also won individual prizes and participated in many civic events.

Boys Brigade activities at Neenah hit a new high during the year while Boy Scout troops of Menasha were active and held a court of honor ceremony at which time all leading scouts were given medals.

Feb. 1, Twin City residents danced and enjoyed life at the three annual birthday balls in honor of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Two balls were held at Menasha.

Weather Changes The weather was one of the main bad actors during the year with residents shivering in 20-below cold during January and sweating in summer. Hailstorms in mid-summer caused damage of more than $2,000 to automobiles and greenhouses. Christmas was spent in cold and dreary rain and the old year was ushered out in similar weather.

Neenah High school placed heavily in the days news when two boys were caught stealing materials from the school. Later an investigation was held in the alleged beating of an 11-year old schoolboy by a teacher.

During the year a Catholic Knights branch was organized at the St. John church, Menasha. A Twin City Employment bureau was established at the Durham Lumber company building, Neenah, through action of the councils in both cities.

The Menasha Common council proved a hotbed at times with charges of collusion were leveled against three members for alleged working together in selecting workers on the garbage disposal system. The council voted a new milk ordinance providing for a $10 license fee for each company. At one time, the council voted to outlaw all types of gambling but later rescinded its action and licensed slot machines.

Slot Machines Slot machines proved bothersome in Menasha when three youths were arrested for stealing machines in the city. Later an alleged theft of 41 machines valued at about $4,000 was reported to police. This week a suspect, Edward Phillips, was arrested.

The post offices proved to be a busy place during the year by distributing bonus bonds and then acting as headquarters for social security registration. The Christmas mailing at both city offices proved greater this year than at any time for the last five years.

The Neenah council approved an ordinance banning all-night parking and also considered installation of a bus service to transport pupils from the island and fourth ward to the high school. A Neenah police pension fund was finally established this year after a 10-year fight.

Rowboat Derby Winnebago land corporation extended its activities to this area during the year and had the finish of its national rowboat derby at Neenah on Labor day. County politics proved an interest Nov. 22 when O. P. Cuff, county agent, announced his resignation.

Menasha and Appleton common council members considered a joint bathing beach project during the year but when Appleton opposed the move, Menasha voted a 50-cent parking fee for non-resident cars at the Menasha municipal beach and a charge of 25-cents per person for bathing.

However, despite all troubles during the time, the year can be classed as a success with increased business and earning power reported throughout the twin cities. New Year's eve festivities last night heralded what is expected to be one of the most successful years in history for the two cities.

Neenah Personals

CARS COLLIDE

Menasha—Cars driven by Mrs. Joseph Sodoski, 212 W. Fourth street, Menasha, and Lyle Johnson, 161 N. Water street, Neenah, collided at 1 o'clock this morning on Racine street, police records show. Both cars were damaged, but the occupants escaped injury, police said.

Neenah Society

Menasha—The children of the members of the Menasha Club will be guests of their parents today at the club rooms when a party is given for them during the afternoon. A motion picture is to be shown at 4:30 o'clock. The New Year's reception of the club which is an annual event was arranged this year by Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Bartley, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer McConnell, F. J. Sensenbrenner, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Canavan, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Du Bois, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Sensenbrenner, Dr. and Mrs. William Gallagher, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Peerenboom.

Mrs. Mabel Shannon and Mrs. Ira Clough won honors in bridge following the dinner Wednesday evening for Camp Onaway councilors of Appleton Girl Scouts when they were entertained at the home of Mrs. Marie Dick.

Betty Block, Marion Kuehl, Florence Kramer and Mae Schmidt won honors at the party which Miss Elvira Fink gave Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Ruth Kramer whose marriage to Edward Plank will take place within the near future. Miss Kramer received a gift.

Bluejays Plan For Loop Games

Have Completed Non-Conference Game Schedule: Play Kaukauna Jan. 8

Menasha—Having completed its schedule of non-conference games, the Menasha High Bluejays will start practice Monday for a resumption of conference activities starting with the Kaukauna tilt at Menasha Jan. 8. The locals rung up an 18-11 victory over Nekeosa in its last start.

Thus far the locals have been defeated by Oshkosh in a non-league tilt and by New London in a conference game. Victories were registered over North Fond du Lac and Nekeosa.

Although players have not clinched definite berths for the remainder of the season, the starting lineup in each game will probably see Captain Fahrenkrug at center, Remmel and Wideman at forwards, and Ostew

Wings For Sally
by BAILEY WOLFE

SYNOPSIS: Sally Warren, society editor of the Warrenton Courier, is secretly engaged to Terry Maynard, boyish blond aviator who has a South American job promised. But her pretty, headstrong younger sister, Tip, falls in love with Terry. Philip Page, returning to his boyhood home, buys the Courier and backs the workmen in a strike at the Morris mill. Terry urges Sally to marry him at once, but she asks a week to decide. Wealthy, handsome Mary Morris thinks she's in love with Philip and asks Sally to help her interest him. While Sally takes her to Milltown, Terry calls for Sally, waits and finally goes off with Tip.

Chapter 17
Terry's Job Calls Him
SALLY did not know how long Tip and Terry were gone. Unable to bear the silence of the house and the burden of her own thoughts, she had slipped out the back door, fled across the garden out of her stepmother's sight, and gone for a long walk. When she came in, exhausted by what seemed hours of tramping, Tip's light was on and Tip's door was shut. Sally crept into bed and slept soundly.

The next morning she was inclined to laugh at her suspicions of the night before. What if Terry had taken Tip out with him? Tip had probably asked him to—and hadn't Sally herself urged him to take Tip out time and again?

She waited for Terry to telephone her. Each time the telephone on her desk rang, she picked up the receiver expecting to hear Terry's voice. When he finally called, it was mid-afternoon.

"Hello," came Terry's voice, cheerful and matter of fact.

"You didn't wait for me last night," said Sally. She didn't mean to say it, but she could not keep back the hint of reproach.

"Just took Tip for a little ride," said Terry casually. "Poor kid was low in her mind and I thought it would cheer her up. When we got back, you weren't anywhere around."

"It's all right," said Sally. The explanation was so simple, so convincing, she could not but believe him. "Coming around tonight?"

"Can't. That's why I called you. I got a job on for tonight. But how about tomorrow night? Want to have supper with me at The Barn?"

"Love to. Come by about seven," said Sally.

Supper was lively at the Warrens that night. Tip was gay again, and made them all laugh with a tale about Joe Morris, Jr. Joe had made the mistake of admitting to the crowd that day that he was taking reducing exercises. He was only 20, but his fondness for sweets and his indulgence were bringing on a middle-aged spread which Tip and the others did not allow him to forget.

"I hate boys to be fat and pudgy," said Tip. "I won't marry a man unless he's tall and broad and—"

"Handsome and rich," finished her brother Ray. "We've heard that before."

"He's got to be blond," said Tip. "Ever hear that before?"

Sally did not look at Tip, but she felt her own face grow hot, and her heart beat very fast. How much further would Tip go?

"How do you get that blond stuff?" demanded Ray. "Philip Page

Duket, Ulrich, Dunn and Steffen on Next Fight Card

Marinette, Green Bay, Neenah and Fond du Lac Boxers to Show Here

THE CARD
Windups
 Al Ulrich, Chicago, versus Frank Duket, Marinette, at 160 lbs.
 Wilbur Dunn, Fond du Lac, versus George Steffen, Lena, at 155 lbs.
 Billy Noel, Marinette, versus Lionel Boehm, Green Bay, at 135 lbs.
 Earl Noel, Marinette, versus Al Scarlotta, Chicago, at 118 lbs.
 Al Robbins, Oshkosh, versus Kid Tessloff, Fond du Lac, at 145 pounds.
 Les Walters, Sheboygan, versus Red Kitzinger, Marinette, at 133 pounds.

SEVEN fast bouts have been arranged for the boxing card the Oney Johnston post of American Legion will offer on Thursday evening, Jan. 15, at Armory D, the post matchmaker announced today. The program will feature a double windup with Wilbur Dunn of Fond du Lac meeting George Steffen of Lena in the first half of the twin bill, and Al Ulrich of Chicago and St. Norbert college meeting Frank Duket of Marinette.

All of the windup participants have shown on previous cards and need no introduction to Appleton fight fans. Duket is a hard-hitting ringwise boxer and will give Ulrich a busy evening. Ulrich, a product of the Chicago Catholic Youth Organization, won his last fight here. Dunn has shown in windup spots on fight programs at the armory in the last few years and has been called the leading boxer in his weight class in the state. Steffen likes to give and take and will force Dunn to the limit, he promised the matchmaker.

Supporting the double windup will be boys in four weight classes. Les Walters and Red Kitzinger will make their first appearance here at 133 pounds and Lionel Boehm will meet Billy Noel of Marinette at the same weight.

Al Scarlotta, who won a place in the hearts of fans on the last card in a bloody battle with the local champion, Earl Noel of Marinette, in the 188-pound class, Scarlotta is a Chicago CYO boxer and is attending St. Norbert college. Al Robbins of Oshkosh who recently showed in a slam-bang affair will meet Kid Tessloff, a Fond du Lac youngster.

Archie LeMay of Neenah will return to the ring to meet Al Stauber at 155 pounds. Stauber has been fighting around Fond du Lac and will make his first appearance on an Appleton card.

West Is Set for Charity Grid Game

32 Colleges and Universities Represented on All-Star Squads

San Francisco—(P)—College football stars, representing the gridiron greatness of nearly every section of the nation, lined up here today in a classic founded and fought for charity since 1925.

The game pitted East against West, squads of 22 players from each half of the continent. They came from 32 colleges and universities and represented 41 cities.

Proceeds go toward upkeep of the Shriner's hospital for crippled children.

The eastern team, coached by Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley, formerly of Northwestern, listed nine men who won All-American recognition during the past season.

Western forces, drilled by Orrin Hollingbery of Washington State college and Percy Loecey, former coach of Denver University, included two stars ranked as All-American caliber.

Mainly because of the many stars in its line-up the east was the 10 to 8 favorite. In every other department, the two teams shaped up on even terms.

Last year's game went to the East 19 to 3. Over the years, the West holds a decided advantage—seven victories against four.

VILLANOVA MEETS AUBURN
 Havana—(P)—Villanova and Auburn, a pair of strong teams with only slightly impaired records for the 1936 season, met today in a New Year's day football game which had international as well as sectional aspects. The contest supplied the climax of Cuba's first mid-winter sports carnival which opened Dec. 26. Promoters predicted a crowd of more than 10,000.

SUGAR BOWL GAME
 New Orleans—(P)—Husky footballers from Santa Clara and Louisiana State prepared to do their part in ushering in the 1937 sports season today by scuffling before a record Sugar Bowl crowd of 42,000.

Louisiana's undefeated Southeastern conference champions were rated a 2-to-1 favorite over the once-beaten Broncos from the coast on the rain-softened turf of Tulane stadium.

It will be the third Sugar Bowl game. Tulane beat Temple in the first and T. C. U. nosed out L. S. U., 3-2, last year.

Bomb Buster

1. Max Schmelling's knockout of Joe Louis in the 12th round at the Yankee Stadium, on the night of June 19—because it ended the Brown Bomber's streak after 27 victories in succession, proved how completely wrong all the fight "experts" could be, and projected the vivid comeback of a veteran who was supposed to be "all washed up" and just another soft touch for the dynamic young negro. . . . With a determination characteristic of his Teutonic background, Schmelling floored Louis in the fourth round with the one weapon everybody knew he had—a lethal right hand—and systematically beat the negro into subjection, thereafter. . . .

Boat Rocker

2. The banishment of the Eleanor Holm Jarrett from the American swimming team for violation of training rules—because she was a defending champion, the prettiest and most-photographed girl in athletics, and central figure in the disciplinary storm that rocked the Olympic boat. . . . Unbeaten at her specialty, backstroke swimming, for seven years and defiant of authorities who banned her fondness for champagne cocktails, Mrs. Jarrett provided international headlines and causes for argument that haven't subsided yet. . . .

Gophers' Toth-ache

3. Northwestern's 6-0 football victory over mighty Minnesota—because it ended the Gophers' streak after 21 consecutive victories, matched the Big Ten title for Lynn Waldorf's Wildcats, and was achieved through an extraordinary sequence of "breaks." Battling in the rain and mud before a homecoming crowd, Northwestern tallied its winning touchdown by capitalizing, in order, a freak rebounding punt, a 26-yard dash by Don Heap, and two penalties, the last of which—for Ed Widest's punching of Don Geyer—brought the 11 from Minnesota's 13 to the one-yard line from where Steve Toth scored.

Motor-Man Meyer

4. Lou Meyer's third victory in the Indianapolis 500-mile automobile race—because he drove the hazardous distance in new record time, averaging 109.089 miles an hour, to duplicate his triumphs of 1923 and 1933. . . . A record crowd of 163,000 saw the Californian become the first triple winner in a race in which the first five finishers beat the former Indianapolis speed mark. . . . The Indianapolis triumph, by itself, gave Meyer runner-up honors in the race to name the champion hell-driver of 1936. . . .

Sinker-Baller

Hal Schumacher's victory over the New York Yankees in the fifth game of the World Series, 3-4—because it was a grand comeback for the right-handed sinker-ball star of the Giants, achieved after he had been knocked out in his first start and under melodramatic circumstances. . . . Wild but stout-hearted in the pinches, issuing six walks but fanning 10 batters, Schumacher surmounted tough breaks and dangerous situations created by himself or his mates, scaling a peak when he fanned Joe Di Maggio and Lou Gehrig with the bases full in the third inning. . . .

Winnipeg Star Pitcher Dies of Appendicitis

Columbus—(P)—William Burr, 19-year-old pitcher who was "farming" out to Winnipeg by the Louisville club of the American Association last season, died last night of appendicitis. He was to have gone to the Colonels' spring training camp in March.

Steele Expects Win Over Jones

Midweight Champion Says He Will Keep After Opponent in Title Bout

Milwaukee—(P)—Freddie Steele, young middleweight champion, was an 8 to 5 favorite to win by a decision over Gorilla Jones in a ten-round title bout here today.

It was the first championship bout here since 1931 when Jones won the N. B. A. middleweight crown in a tournament.

Steele, who won the title five months ago, indicated he would carry the fight to his Negro opponent from the start.

"I learned a lot in my second bout with Jones in 1935," the champion said, "and I will know how to handle him. I can beat him by keeping on top of him all the time."

Jones, inactive for nearly a year, pinned his hopes for a victory on a hard, fast right hand—the same right that ruined Titi Littman here twice in January, 1936. Jones has been training carefully for the fight and looks to be in top condition.

Kimberly Club Cagers Win 4th Straight Game

Defeat Stockbridge Aces 28 to 25 in Thriller at Clubhouse Thursday

KIMBERLY—The Kimberly club cagers hung up their fourth straight victory Thursday evening by defeating the Stockbridge Aces 28 to 25 in a thriller at the clubhouse. In the first half of the game the score did not vary more than a point for either side as the lead changed frequently.

At the quarter the Kimberly squad leading 6 to 3 and at the half the score was tied 9 all. In the third period the Aces had the Papermakers by three points with a 17 to 14 lead.

Chub Vander Velden started the scoring for the clubbers with a bucket in the early part of the game and was high point man with five baskets and one gift shot. Spot Huntington and Elmer Vander Velden were referees.

In the preliminary a Kimberly squad defeated the Atlas team of Appleton 32 to 8. The local team took an early lead. In the first quarter the Atlas squad was scoreless against seven points for Kimberly. At the half Kimberly lead 11 to 4 and in the third period 22 to 6.

Parker Meets Grant For Title in Cotton Bowl Net Tournament

New Orleans—(P)—Bryan M. Grant, Jr. of Atlanta, the giant-killer of the courts, and Frankie Parker of Milwaukee will meet in the finals of the Sugar Bowl tennis tournament Saturday.

Steady rainfall forced postponement of the championship match for two days.

A keenly-contested battle was in prospect between Grant and Parker, two of America's ranking players. Grant reached the finals by defeating Arthur Hendrix of Lakeland, Fla., the defending champion, 6-3, 8-6. Parker eliminated Martin Buxby of Miami, Fla., 6-1, 6-2.

The finals in the doubles also will be played Saturday, with Ernie and Eddie Sutter of New Orleans meeting John McDiarmid of Chicago and Hendrix.

Pittsburgh and Huskies to Fight It Out in Rose Bowl

PASADENA—(P)—The New Year and the Rose Bowl offered a new record today either to the football Panthers of Pittsburgh or the Huskies of Washington. Neither has won a game in the historic arena and each went on the field of combat believing today is the day.

The Railbirds gave Washington an advantage in the fine arts but conceded a distinct edge to Pittsburgh in power and the ability to "rock 'em and sock 'em."

Pittsburgh can not match the towering punts of Elmer Logg, Washington quarterback. It may be Washington has three or four passing better than any Pitt can uncover. But the Easterners have a sturdy line and backs who can either smash or carry the ball. Washington has an eight-pound advantage in weight.

Final workouts were held in good eastern football weather with a cold wind blowing from the snow covered mountains behind the bowl. The last few football games were made on a fast drying field and game time, with a little cooperation from the sun, should bring a fast track. The faster the better, say both coaches and 87,196 persons who bought all the seats there are in the stands and some extras.

Dr. Jock Sutherland, veteran coach, said he considered the mental and physical condition of his team good.

Washington's lads seemed in a much more cheerful frame of mind. The Huskies went through a much longer workout than that of their rivals, kicking and passing for a good half hour.

Pitt was making its fourth appearance in the bowl since 1926, when it lost to Stanford 7 to 6. Southern California beat the Panthers 47 to 14 in 1930 and 35 to 0 in 1933.

Washington lost to Alabama 20 to 19 in 1926 after coming through a deadlock with Navy at 14 to 14 in 1924.

Expect 1,000 at Second Annual Valley Pin Meet

Bowlers in 20 Counties Eligible for Meet Starting Here Jan. 23

MORE than 1,000 bowlers from Appleton and 20 Wisconsin counties will participate in the second annual Fox River Valley bowling tournament here at the Elks' club bowling alleys starting Feb. 6, 7, 14, 20 and 21. Entries close midnight, Sunday, Jan. 17.

Last year, the first time the tournament was held, several Appleton teams attended the tournament and won a large share of the prize money.

The tournament will be conducted under the playing rules and regulations prescribed by the American Bowling association and is limited to teams and members who belong to leagues sanctioned by the ABC.

Will Run a Month
 Beginning on Saturday, Jan. 23, the tournament will last one month or more if necessary, with tentative week-end play on Jan

Kaukauna—After 12 evenings of bowling at Schell alleys, Caldie Beauty shop keggers are leading the 8-team Ladies Bowling league which swings into action each Thursday evening at 7 and 9 o'clock shifts.

At the conclusion of the 1935-36 season, this year's leaders occupied a cellar position. As 1937 games get underway, Weyenberg Meats representatives, who last year captured the first place bunting, are struggling to prevent slipping lower than seventh place.

The Ladies Bowling league is composed of keggers who range from fair to excellent in ability, and several scores have been registered to date which would bring honor to men who like to scoff at bowlers of the "weaker sex."

Much interest has been shown in league activity this year, according to Mrs. Edward Steinacker, secretary, who maintains a personal file of bowlers' scores and averages for the last several seasons. Some of the women bowlers are equipped with uniform jackets, shirts and smocks.

Keglers possessing some of the better ladies' averages are Marie Lucassen, 157; Mrs. Leonard Ryan, 156; Mrs. Fargos, 156; Adela Thelen, 140; Mrs. Ray Gertz, Helen Dietz and Marie Biese.

Kaukauna Students Plan Return to College After Yule Vacations at Home

Kaukauna—After an all too brief vacation period, during which they experienced only a sample of the cold weather they had anticipated for homecoming, local college and university students will pack grips immediately following New Year celebrations and depart by bus, train and motor car for Madison, Milwaukee and more distant educational centers.

George Block, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Block, will leave for Lake Forest college, Lake Forest, Ill. He is a sophomore student there.

Robert Mayer, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Mayer, will return to the University of Wisconsin Monday. He is a fifth year medical student.

Miss Virginia Kline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Kline, will leave for Ripon college, where she is a last year student majoring in economics and sociology.

Robert Hagman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hagman, will depart for Michigan State college at East Lansing, Mich. Mr. Hagman is studying forestry there, and is affiliated with Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity.

Willet Wandell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warner, H. Wandell, will return to the University of Michigan on Saturday. He is a forestry major at the Ann Arbor school.

Resuming her studies at Mt. Mary college, Milwaukee, will be Frances Ann Kline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kline. She is a senior student, majoring in journalism, and is editor of the college newspaper, the Mt. Mary Times.

Miss Margaret Fargo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Fargo, will continue her studies at Milwaukee Downer college, where she is a senior student.

Jerome Meinert, sophomore economics student at St. Norbert college, DePere, will return to classroom activity after visiting with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meinert.

Miss Peggy Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Nelson, will return to Winona, Minn., where she is a second year student in social science work.

Clumbing the University of Wisconsin hall to classes in Barom hall next week will be Michael Gertz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Gertz. He has been vacationing in Kaukauna.

Alvin McCormick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCormick, is returning to Milwaukee and Marquette university this weekend.

James Byrne, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Byrne, will resume his work at Notre Dame university in South Bend, Ind., next week.

Carl E. Towles, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Towles, will resume scholastic work at Lake Forest college, Lake Forest, Ill.

Another University of Wisconsin student who has been vacationing here will return to Madison for classes Monday is Miss Adeline Eiting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Eiting, Jr.

Raymond Pascher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pascher, will return to Mission House college, Sheboygan, where he captains the basketball team.

Returning to studies at St. Norbert's college, DePere, will be Clarence Nielsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Nielsen.

Misses Marion and Jean Charlesworth, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Charlesworth, are resuming studies next week at Chicago and Madison, respectively. Marion is a student at the Chicago Conservatory of Music and Drama while Jean studies at the University of Wisconsin.

Miss Dorothy Driessen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Driessen, and her brother, Tom, are returning to Madison this weekend. Both are sophomores in the University of Wisconsin.

Kaukauna Cagers Plan Drills for Menasha Quintet

Will Resume Conference Schedule at Butte des Morts Gymnasium Jan. 8

Kaukauna—With several successful practice sessions concluded during the holiday recess, orange and black cagers of Kaukauna High school will resume regular drills Monday in preparation for the tilt with Coach N. A. Calder's Menasha Bluejays at the Butte des Morts gymnasium Friday evening.

With the recent addition of Leland Lambie, veteran grid warrior, to the varsity squad, the Kaw team will enjoy increased height in future games. Lambie, coupled with Bud Bootz and Pete Peterson, at forward Coach Paul Little a trio of footers who may be relied upon defensively against other big squads.

Although Lambie has seen action on the hardwoods as a member of reserve squads, his inexperience in varsity competition will cause Coach Little to use him sparingly.

Coach Calder will greet the Kaw invasion Friday with a team which has shown to advantage defensively against New London and Nekosha high schools in the Nekosha tilt, the Bluejays forced their opponents to take most scoring attempts from well out in the court.

The Menasha team is said to be difficult to stop under the basket. In the game with Nekosha, Rimmel, Forward, Kahrenkrug, center, and Godhardt, guard, crashed through for enough short baskets to win the tilt, which went to the Bluejays, 18-11.

In a scrimmage with Chilton High basketballers Thursday afternoon, Coach Little experimented with several forward and guard combinations in an effort to acquire more speed and precision in his offensive attack. Considerable time was also spent yesterday, and during other practices this week, in improving the Kaw defense.

While Coach Little will probably start his veteran lineup of Koehne and Vanevenhoven at forwards, Bootz at center, and Hatchell and Hanby at guards, it is almost a certainty that Lambie, Parman and Peterson will be sent into action against the Bluejays.

Install New Equipment At Weyauwega Theater
Special to Post-Crescent

Weyauwega—New projection equipment is being installed this week for Kenneth Peterson at the Opera house. Plans are also being made for a new screen which will be installed next.

The Lions club was entertained at its meeting Monday evening by a program of poems and vocal solos given by Prof. Leland Burroughs and Norman Knutzen, both of the Stevens Point Normal. Mr. Burroughs' selections were from James Whitcomb Riley with the exception of Kipling's "Boots." Mr. Knutzen sang many numbers to his own accompaniment.

Mrs. DeForrest Hayward was hostess to her contract club on Tuesday evening. Three tables were in play and high honors were awarded to Mrs. Stuart Jones and Mrs. Gilbert Moody.

Wings For Sally

by BAILEY WOLFE

"I don't like him. He's too old. Mary Morris can have him."

"Children—children!" Mr. Warren rose from the table. "You make marriage sound like a hunt—with every man a victim, and every woman a hunter."

"What else is it but a hunt?" demanded Tip. "To get the right man is the most important thing in the world—isn't it, Sally?"

"No," said Sally, meeting Tip's bold, defiant look with steady eyes. "To keep your self-respect is the most important thing in the world."

The telephone rang in the hall, and Sally got up quickly, glad of a chance to escape from a situation that was growing strained. A gruff voice on the phone asked for Tip. "Whom shall I say it is?" asked Sally, feeling suddenly that she must hear the voice again to be sure that it was not Terry's.

"It's Duke Adams," said the voice, and Sally's knees grew weak. The blood sang in her ears.

"Just a minute, please," Sally's voice came somehow to be cool and to pretend not to recognize Terry Maynard. She stood there in the hall a moment, pulling herself together, divided between laughter and tears. Terry was so much a child to think that he could assume a false voice and deceive anyone. Evidently he did not know that Duke Adams had been forbidden to see Tip or call her at the house.

"Telephone, Tip," Sally called into the dining room. When Tip came out quickly, Sally closed the dining room door after her. "Better be careful if it's Duke Adams."

"You were slow calling me," said Tip rudely, and lunged past her down the hall.

Sally went into the kitchen and began to stack and scrape the dishes. What had happened to Terry?

Let him see as much of Tip as he chose, and more of Sally than she had let him see these last weeks. It would be better for all of them. When Sally finally rose to go, she had settled nothing but the fact that she would put Terry off. And yet, she seemed to have solved everything. At any rate, she had found peace. As she left the garden behind her, she wondered what Mary Morris would do with it if ever she became mistress of the old Page house. Certainly she would trim the shrubs and cut the grass. Probably she would put in a swimming pool and tennis courts. Or she would decide the place was hopeless, and build a new home for herself and Philip in the fashionable section toward the club.

Early the next morning, Sally's new-found peace was shattered by a disturbing announcement that came through Lola Hopkins at the office.

"Oh, there you are!" Lola entered breezily and came straight to Sally's desk. "If you aren't the closest-mouthed one—holding out on your own newspaper?"

"What do you mean?"

"Ever hear of a young fellow named Terry Maynard?"

"He—hasn't crashed—?" Sally's face turned white.

"He's crashed into a darn good job with South American Air Lines—better than what they offered him a couple of months ago. And don't look as if you didn't know it, either. His mother told me this morning they've cabled for him to come right away. She wants me to put the story on the front page, and there's where it's going."

"You're going—right away?" Sally felt faint. The words she had typed on the sheet blurred before her eyes.

"Want me to put in something about the wedding?" asked Lola.

"No—no, of course, not I mean, so far as I know there isn't going to be a wedding."

"Just as you say," agreed Lola, looking at her keenly. "Terry's mother said he was going to be married before he left town. It's not you, who is it?"

"I don't know," said Sally slowly. She scarcely knew what she said. If Terry had got the news last night, why had he not called her? Had he told Tip first? Sally refused to believe that.

Tip argues desperately with Sally over Terry tomorrow.

Cooperative System Saves Students Money

Buffalo, N. Y.—Students at the University of Buffalo are saving money by a cooperative agreement with neighborhood stores. The system is simple—the students give the stores their united support and the stores in turn give them a discount.

Max Wantman, president of the Non-Residents' Union, says the plan saves each student about $50 a year on hair-cuts, laundry, tailoring, clothes and meals.

Place New Books In Circulation At Public Library

Volumes are Received in Several Departments
At New London

New London — Seven new adult books, all non-fiction, will be available for readers at the New London Public library Saturday, Miss Irma Hilde, librarian, announced Thursday. The library is closed today, New Year's day. Eight new books also were added to the children's department.

"Not Under Forty" by Willa Cather will probably be the only 7-day book in the lot. The author presents her first collection of essays and studies of literary personalities and certain aspects of literature which appeal to her. "This England" is a story of English character and the English countryside, written by Mary Ellen Chase, professor of English language at Smith college.

"The Best Plays of 1935 and 1936" edited by Burns Mantle will be available. "God's Gold" is a full length biography of John D. Rockefeller and his times and traces the changes in history due to his will to be rich. The author is John T. Flynn.

A vivid and colorful story outlining the history of "Our Navy" is presented by Charles J. Finger in the book by that name. It was written especially for young people. "The Future of Liberty" by George Soule is a re-examination of American traditions of freedom, democracy and equality, and explains their use in the past and stresses the need for a drastic change in their use for the future. The economic system of Sweden and its manner of out-doing the depression is contained in the book, "Sweden, the Middle Way," by Marquis W. Childs.

The books added to the children's department include Stop Look Listen; A Treasure Chest of Nursery Favorites; War Paint, an Indian Pony; The True Story of Abraham Lincoln; Bear Twins; A Good Little Dog; Bouncing Betsy; and Joseph Haydn, the Merry Little Peasant.

New London Personals

New London — R. S. Peotter, formerly of Milwaukee and now employed as civil engineer in South America, has spent the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Charles Peotter, at 321 W. Cook street. He arrived in New London for Christmas and will leave tomorrow for the southern hemisphere to resume his work.

Earl Meiklejohn submitted to a major operation at Community hospital Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Carl Fellenz and daughter, Mary Lou, joined Mr. Fellenz at Lake Geneva last week. They will reside several months in that city where Carl Fellenz has been employed the past month in the liquidation of banks.

Miss Ruth Pierre and Donald Bloom of Appleton were guests at the David Rickaby home Thursday. George, Lewis, and Miss Mae Knapstein, all of Chicago, arrived in New London last night to spend the New Year's holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Knapstein. Miss Mary Allys Johnson, a friend of Mae, accompanied them. They will return to Chicago Sunday.

Patients discharged from Community hospital Thursday were William Miller, Clintonville; William Wangelin, Readfield; and Miss Elaine Bessette, Bear Creek.

Driver Escapes
Topples Big Tree

New London—Gerhardt Felsner considered himself lucky to escape without injury during the storm Wednesday night when the high wind toppled a large tree onto his car as he was driving on Wyman street. The tree stood in front of the H. B. Cristy home and hit the front end of his car, smashing the entire front. Felsner was unhurt but admitted he got quite a scare.

A heavy limb fell onto the roof of the home of Mrs. Charles Peotter at 321 W. Cook street during the same storm and punctured the roof slightly. The street department spent most of yesterday cleaning up the debris of these trees and many other small branches which were strewn about the city by the wind yesterday.

Plan Formation Of Cage League 48 Young Men Interested In Organization of Group

New London—Forty-eight young men of the city have shown interest in the organization of an 8-team industrial basketball league by affixing their signatures on paper. Questions concerning industrial sponsorship and availability of the Washington High school gym are to be decided before definite organization takes place.

The high school gymnasium is one of the busiest spots in the city with the floor occupied by some group practically every hour of the week except Sunday afternoon.

The newly organized city basketball team lost 22 to 19 to Waupaca in a rough and tumble game at Waupaca Wednesday evening. Polaski did the heavy scoring for the local squad with five baskets and two gift shots to his credit. He and Hoier play forward, Krohn center and Huzzar and Ullerich guard. McDermott and Burton are substitutes. They will play a return game here Sunday, Jan. 10, if a floor is available.

Tonight the same boys will meet the fast high school quintet in the annual alumni tilt at the Washington High gym. Opposing them will be Nader and Stern or Smith at forward; Yost or Meshnick at center; and Demming and Glock at guard with Meinhardt alternate.

Reich Warships Continue Threat Against Madrid

Freighter Seized, Another Driven Ashore Under Fire

TAKE FIRM STAND

Basque Regime Orders Patrol Boats to Retaliate

Bilbao.—(P)—The autonomous Basque government today ordered its patrol boats to open fire on any vessel attacking Spanish merchant ships, after the German cruiser Koenigsberg shelled the freighter Soton.

The order was the first "extreme measure" by which the northern administration hoped to halt attacks by foreign vessels.

Authorities, mindful they have only a limited number of small ships on patrol duty, expressed hope the socialist government at Valencia would send warships and submarines to the northern ports.

Berlin.—(P)—German warships will continue "rough treatment" of Spanish shipping until Nazi vessels are respected on the high seas, the foreign office announced tonight through its mouthpiece, Die Welt.

The warning—apparently intended as a threat to Spanish authorities at Bilbao—came on the heels of an official announcement that German warships had "retaliated" against two Spanish vessels.

One—the freighter Aragon—was seized. The other—the freighter Soton—was driven ashore by shellfire.

"No one has any right to expect relations between Germany and red (socialist) Spain would be allowed to develop into a one-sided arrangement by which German ships on the high seas could be coolly regarded as free plunder," Korrespondenz said.

"If red Spain wishes to introduce such practices, it must also realize that this measure will not remain unretaliated—and that means until the reds in power finally return to methods accepted in international relations as customary and necessary."

Heavy Schedule For Congress in Opening Month

Extension of Neutrality Law Will be Considered First

Washington.—(P)—Members of congress, assembling today for the session beginning next Tuesday, found a heavy first month's work already cut out for them.

Administration demands to extend the neutrality law to the Spanish civil war will be the opening business. Before the month ends two other major legislative problems will arise.

Relief funds are nearing exhaustion. A new appropriation of at least $500,000,000 will be asked to carry through the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30. Extension of the president's monetary powers, expiring Jan. 30, also will be sought forthwith.

On the house side legislative problems were subordinated temporarily by the warm battle between Representatives Rayburn of Texas and O'Connor of New York for the prized post of Democratic leader. This dispute will be settled at a party caucus Monday Re-election of Speaker Bankhead (D-Ala) was conceded.

Long Session Seen

A host of controversial problems in the background indicated a long, bitter congressional session despite record-breaking Democratic majorities in both houses.

After action on the proposal to block arms exports to Spain, relief was expected to provide the first battleground. President Roosevelt was reported by close friends to be leaning toward an upward revision of his proposal for a supplementary appropriation of $500,000,000.

Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, has been authoritatively reported favoring a much larger limit, with strong support from the so-called "liberal" group on Capitol Hill.

The monetary issue has not yet crystallized in congress, but administration leaders expressed confidence they could push through extension of the president's authority to devalue the dollar.

President Roosevelt will deliver his annual message Wednesday, after congress has verified his reelection by counting the electoral votes in a ceremonial joint session.

Gangrene Feared In Pope's Illness

Pontiff Insists Upon Receiving French Archbishop

Vatican City.—(P)—Pope Pius, weakened by lack of sleep and facing the danger of gangrene in an open wound in his left leg, insisted today on discussing church problems with the French archbishop.

The pontiff, again suffering pain from circulatory obstruction in his leg, received Archbishop Jean Cholle of Cambrai, temporary administrator of the diocese of Rouen.

Vatican officials reported "no material change" in the condition of the 79-year-old holy father after a recurrence of the affliction in his paralyzed limb.

The setback allowed a brief period of recovery yesterday when the pain, from an open ulcer caused by the bursting of a varicose vein, abated and allowed his holiness uninterrupted rest.

Physicians labored to build up the pope's resistance to gangrene by special medication as the possibility of infection in the wound brought fresh fears to attendants.

The pontiff is declared to have slept only a few hours last night although his pain was less sharp than previously.

Humane Societies Seeking Delay for Narcotic Addicts

Peiping.—(P)—Humane societies in North China today asked officials to grant a three-month moratorium to narcotic addicts, already ordered to be "cured by New Year's or die!"

The request came as authorities delayed threatened mass shootings of confirmed addicts, explaining their inactivity by the vastness of the problem and progressing New Year's celebrations.

"Addicts here number more than 100,000," they said, "constituting a problem beyond comprehension. It cannot be solved through mere executions."

It seemed probable a few unfortunates might be shot with authorities extending the "deadline" to improve the majority of addicts again to submit to treatment.

At Tientsin, a group of societies under the cross leadership asserted there were more than 500,000 addicts in North China and observed "it would be a horrible sight if that many were executed."

Suspect Held, Second Sought In Kidnaping

Former Convict Questioned in Mattson Abduction Case

TRY TO TRACE INK

Police Told Man Resembling Abductor Asked Way to Ranch

Tacoma, Wash.—(P)—Searchers for kidnaped Charles Mattson today sought a new "suspect," held a former convict for questioning and experimented with inks in an endeavor to match the writing found in the abductor's $28,000 ransom note.

L. E. Rucker of Olympic started officers on their newest quest when he told police a man resembling the description of the abductor had appeared at his home last Sunday night about an hour after Charles was seized here.

Rucker said the man drove to his home about 30 miles from Tacoma, in an automobile which "made noises like an old one."

After sitting in front of the home 10 minutes, Rucker said, the man came to the door and cautiously asked directions to an abandoned truck ranch.

Rucker asserted the man refused to face the light. The informant said he attempted to question the man but the latter became "fearful" and told him "nothing." Rucker said the man left hurriedly.

On the strength of the report state police hurried to an abandoned ranch a short distance from the Rucker place.

Thieves Cut Guard Fence, Subdue Dogs to Obtain 100 Animals

About 100 mink, valued alive at $5,000, were stolen early this morning from the fur farm on Highway 114 near the east city limits of Menasha, owned by I. L. Schoepel, Menasha.

While the Winnebago county sheriff's department launched an investigation, Schoepel offered a reward of $200 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the persons who entered the mink yard and $1,000 for recovery of over 50 live mink and conviction of the thieves.

The marauders cut the outside guard fence to enter the yard and apparently killed a number of mink before they left with their loot. Two watch dogs, ordinarily hard fighting animals kept near the pens, were subdued in some way. Both animals were free this morning but the collar and chain of one of them were found in a woods some distance away.

Schoepel lives on the fur farm but heard no disturbance. The theft was discovered this morning.

Complete Plans To Transfer Gold

Government to Move Billions in Metal to Fort Knox, Ky.

Washington.—(P)—Army, navy and treasury officials moved out last-minute hitches today in arrangements for moving billions in gold to the government's new repository at Fort Knox, Ky.

The huge transfer from Philadelphia and New York was set originally for the first few days of January, but authoritative sources said it may be delayed a week or so to revamp transportation plans.

A crack force of guards has been assembled from veterans of the treasury, mint bureau and other government services, officials said. The guard will be shipped to Kentucky. It has generally been assumed the transfer would involve about 6,000 tons of gold valued at about $6,000,000,000.

Eventually, most of the government's $11,248,000,000 gold hoard—the largest in the world—will be removed from exposed coastal cities either to the new repository or to the Denver mint.

The gold will be shipped over carefully concealed routes in armored bulion trains. These will carry three to five cargo cars each loaded with $25,000,000 of gold.

At the new repository, the gold will be protected by both the regular guard force and army units equipped with the most modern mechanized equipment.

The two-story structure has a 20-ton vault door. Three trusted officials will have to use three separate combinations to open it.

Taxpaying Rush Begun At Milwaukee Office

Milwaukee.—(P)—More than 2,500 Milwaukee taxpayers ignored rainy weather today to crowd into the city treasurer's office to pay their taxes. Veteran treasury employees said it was an unprecedented first day taxpaying rush. The day's receipts amounted to $132,000.

A total of $1,498,000, the largest since 1929, was collected in advance of the regular tax payment period, bringing collections at the end of the first day to $1,630,000.

The first day total last year was $1,146,342. Advance collections and payments actually made on the first day were not separated. City Treasurer John W. Mudroch said first day collections usually were about $100,000 for a full day. Collections were made only a half day today.

Because of the rush six tax tellers were put on duty instead of two as originally planned. Ten taxpayers were waiting in line when the office opened at 8 a. m.

Widow of Sen. Couzens To Get $25,000 Monthly

Detroit.—(P)—An allowance of $25,000 a month for Mrs. Margaret A. Couzens, widow of Senator James Couzens, has been authorized by probate Judge Thomas C. Murphy.

The widow will receive one-third of the $20,000,000 estate of Couzens, who left no will. The petition for allowance said Mrs. Couzens has to maintain several residences and finance the education of a daughter, Edith, 18.

Woman Mayor Gets Court Order to Fight Governor's Order to Oust Her

Daytona Beach, Fla.—(P)—Defiant Mrs. Irene Armstrong clung to her mayor's job today under protection of a court order which balked Governor Dave Sholtz's bayonet-backed effort to oust her.

Adjutant General William Collins summoned 200 guardsmen yesterday to enforce the executive order seating a new city administration but the soldiers were sent home soon after Judge Herbert Frederick enjoined the Sholtz appointees from taking office.

"Nothing can be done before Monday," the adjutant general said in dispersing his soldiers. The writ is returnable for argument in Judge Frederick's court Monday afternoon.

A detail of city police remained on guard in the city hall which had been turned into an armed stronghold.

Mrs. Armstrong and other officials named in the ouster retired to their homes after they had provided their officers with coats.

The housewife-mayor originally proclaimed today a second New Year's holiday, providing a reason for keeping the hall closed.

Harry Wilcox, designated by the Sholtz-named commissioners as mayor, said "our appointments most certainly will stick. This is emancipation for the taxpayers and citizens. We are going to return the government of Daytona Beach to the people."

Wilcox was denied entry to the city hall after the adjutant general last night declared him the highest civil authority in the city.

The court order directed the new officials not assume their duties or disturb city property.

Governor Sholtz is to leave the governor's mansion Tuesday and will be succeeded by E. P. Conn. Before becoming governor, Sholtz resided at Daytona Beach.

The removal order charged the Armstrong administration with malfeasance in office, neglect of duty and incompetency.

Mrs. Armstrong recently was named mayor by the commissioners, succeeding her husband who resigned, saying he believed Sholtz intended to remove him.

Three Convicts Fail to Return After Holidays

Montgomery, La.—(P)—Holiday paroles for Alabama's 494 best behaved prisoners ended today, but at least three convicts had decided to "extend" the two-week Christmas vacation given them by Governor Bibb Graves.

Varden Frank Boswell of Iby prison said 3 of the 128 men released there had failed to report.

"I'm expecting two of them in here sometime today," Boswell said. "One had a Christmas parole, in 1935, too, and has only a few more months to serve. But that third one—I'm not looking for him."

Granting of holiday paroles by Alabama's chief executive is an annual custom. Last year seven failed to return. Three were recaptured.

Crew Feared Dead as Blast Wrecks Boat

Crew of Five and Possibly Four Others Missing After Explosion

Charlevoix, Mich.—(P)—Coast guards brought ashore this afternoon the bodies of two members of the crew of the mail boat Marold II, which was wrecked Friday by an explosion while it was salvaging gasoline from the grounded tanker J. Oswald Boyd.

Charlevoix, Mich.—(P)—Coast Guard Captain William Ludwig said today he feared all hands perished when the Beaver Island mail boat Marold II was "blown to pieces" by an explosion while salvaging a gasoline cargo from the abandoned tanker J. Oswald Boyd in upper Lake Michigan yesterday.

Captain Ludwig, who returned to his Beaver Island station after an all night search for survivors, said five members of the crew and "possibly four other persons" were aboard the 110-foot salvage boat.

Both vessels caught fire after the explosion and continued to burn throughout the night.

At Charlevoix no one was reported missing this morning and persons who saw the Marold leave yesterday said they saw only the five members of the crew aboard.

"The top deck and pilot house of the Marold II were blown right up onto the deck of the Boyd," Captain Ludwig said.

"The all-steel mail boat was completely wrecked and may have gone to the bottom shortly after the explosion. The bow of the Marold is sticking out of the water and a little of the stern shows. The lifeboats were missing, but they might have been blown to bits. It is doubtful whether any of the men aboard even had a chance to lower the lifeboats."

Flights Ice-Fields

Captain Ludwig said his rescue craft had to battle fields of ice to get to Simmons reef, 18 miles northeast of Beaver Island, where the mishap occurred. He said other coast guard vessels were continuing the search and that he hoped to have airplanes fly over the lake in the hope some of the Marold's crew might have escaped in the small boats.

Ludwig said he had been unable to confirm a report that four sightseers accompanied Captain L. H. Hill, 83-year-old former Kenosha, Wis. skipper, when the Marold left Charlevoix for the Boyd at 8:15 a. m. Friday. Captain Ludwig listed the five definitely known to have been aboard the ill-fated vessel as Captain Hill, Leon Hill, 50, son of the captain; Everett Cole, 35, head of the Beaver Island Transit company which recently bought controlling interest in the Marold; Raymond Cole, 33, a brother of Everett; and Bruce McDonough, 33. All were residents of Beaver Island.

The Boyd, laden with 20,000 drums of high-test gasoline, ran aground Nov. 8 in a snow storm. Captain M. W. Whitney and his crew of 19 were rescued by coast guardsmen when tugs were unable to pull the vessel free.

Fishermen went to the reef to salvage gasoline and on Nov. 23 a man was seriously burned in an explosion aboard a small boat. The Go-Home company of New York owned the Boyd and the freighter's cargo was valued at $180,000.

Admiral Says Japanese Navy Purely Defensive

Tokio.—(P)—The Japanese navy is purely defensive, Admiral Nomura Suetetsugu, supreme war councillor and former commander of the grand fleet, declared today.

Japan, the naval officer assured the nation in a special article for the newspaper Nichi Nichi, never will take the initiative in world naval construction rivalry.

He said, however, Japan would meet any threat to its naval supremacy in the western Pacific.

Athlete Is Killed in Head-on Collision Today

3 OTHERS ARE HURT

Believe Cars Were Driving Without Headlights

A head-on collision on a country road leading to the Civilian Conservation Corps camp near Pembine shortly after midnight today cost the life of Gordon Schuster, 23, a well-known Appleton athlete and surveyor with the state conservation department. Schuster, with three CCC enrollees, was returning to the Dunbar camp when his car was involved in a crash with a car driven by Maurice Hansen, Laona. The Appleton youth died several minutes after the accident of internal injuries and a skull fracture.

Three other persons were hurt in the same accident and five others escaped injury, camp officials said. It was believed both operators were driving without lights and failed to see the other machine approaching.

Nicholas Murray, Cuba City, a passenger in the car driven by Schuster, is in a serious condition at an Iron Mountain hospital and the extent of his injuries was not determined at noon today. Hansen was cut and bruised and his wife suffered a fractured leg. The three Hanson children escaped injury along with the other two occupants of the Murray car.

Schuster was born in Appleton March 16, 1913, and lived here all his life. He attended Appleton High school, where he played football and hockey. He formerly was a member of Company D, 127th Infantry of the Wisconsin National guard and served with the CCC at Dunbar before his appointment as a state conservation department surveyor.

Surviving besides the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schuster, are two brothers, Ruben and Melvin of Appleton, and two sisters, Mrs. C. M. Calvin, Milwaukee, and Mrs. R. A. Palmer, Los Angeles, Calif.

The body will be brought to the Bretschneider funeral home today.

Gangster Trio Is Sought in Murder

Officials of Four States Join in Search for S. Dakota Killers

Sioux Falls, S. D.—(P)—Police in four states pressed a manhunt today for three men believed to be the gangster trio who New Year's eve blasted a companion to bits with five tons of explosive and seriously wounded his "girl friend" of three weeks.

Officers in Nebraska, Minnesota and Iowa, as well as South Dakota, were on the lookout for Lee Bradley, South Dakota, bank robber, Harry "Slim" Reeves, former convict of Iowa, and William Nesbith of Sioux City, Iowa.

Helen Siler, 25, told police the trio took her and Harold Baker, former California convict, to a powder warehouse just outside the city, slugged them with a hammer, and left them to be blown up by 3,300 pounds of dynamite and 7,500 pounds of blasting powder after firing shots into their bodies.

Mrs. Siler, recovering in a hospital from eight bullet wounds and frozen legs and feet, identified the trio from police pictures. The concussion of the blast was felt for more than 30 miles and shattered windows in Sioux Falls business houses with approximately $20,000 damage.

The woman escaped from the storehouse where they lay the unconscious body of Baker after watching a member of the band, sought for safecracking, touch off a sputtering fuse. She crawled to a nearby ditch where she was later picked up by a farmer.

The explosion blasted Baker to bits.

A man and woman were in police custody today in connection with deep drifts in several areas.

Snow Storm Creates Hazards in Northwest

Southwestern Minnesota was particularly hard hit. Pipestone reported a near blizzard with a strong wind, near zero temperature and low visibility.

Sub-zero temperatures prevailed throughout North Dakota. At Fargo, drifts were piling up on icy highways.

Bomb Threatens Home Of Mexican General

San Diego, Calif.—(P)—A lighted bomb found in front of the home of General Plutarco Elias Calles caused police to place a heavy guard today about the residence of the exiled former "iron man" of Mexican politics.

Braulio Estrada, member of the Calles' household, said he saw a man lighting the bomb late last night, snatched out the burning fuse and pursued the man into an isolated section of Balboa park.

Police Chief George Sears said the bomb, a crude affair fashioned out of a quart beer bottle and filled with black crystal powder, was sufficiently powerful to demolish the Calles' mansion.

Calles and several relatives were playing cards when the apparent attempt was made to assassinate the former Mexican president.

Better Relations Indicated Between Vatican and Reich

Berlin.—(P)—The Nazi government of Germany and the Catholic church gave signs today of a return to cordial relations, with communism as a common foe.

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, it was disclosed, sent New Year's greetings to Pope Pius XI, expressing hope for his recovery.

A pastoral letter, to be read from German Catholic pulpits tomorrow, will pledge the church to "support the reichsfuehrer and chancellor in his right against bolshevism, with all its means."

It did, however, disclose the church has not forgotten its differences with Nazi attempts to educate Catholic youth and with the movement in some quarters of third reich to stress "blood and race" neo-paganism in place to Christianity.

Sanitary District Reports on Progress

Washington.—(P)—The Chicago Sanitary district reported to the supreme court today it had completed construction costing $135,284,084 in its effort to comply with the court's decree to reduce the diversion of water from Lake Michigan.

It was the regular semi-annual report on progress which the sanitary district is required to submit. Work completed as of Dec. 1, 1936, was listed as Calumet project, $23,113,778; north side project, $37,625,185; west side project, $52,076,355; southwest side project, $10,446,684; west southwest treatment plant, $5,043,940; miscellaneous plants and sewers $362,961 and Chicago river controlling works, $345,678.

The construction, with financial aid from the public works administration, must be completed by Dec. 31, 1938 when water diversion from Lake Michigan for sewage dilution must be reduced to 1,500 cubic second feet.
